Dialogic: Education for the Internet Age Rupert Wegerif,2013-01-04 Dialogic Education for the Internet Age argues that despite rapid advances in communications technology most teaching still relies on traditional approaches to education built upon the logic of print and dependent on the notion that there is a single true representation of reality In practice the use of the Internet disrupts this traditional logic of education by offering an experience of knowledge as participatory and multiple This new logic of education is dialogic and characterises education as learning to learn think and thrive in the context of working with multiple perspectives and ultimate uncertainty The book builds upon the simple contrast between observing dialogue from an outside point of view and participating in a dialogue from the inside before pinpointing an essential feature of dialogic the gap or difference between voices in dialogue which is understood as an irreducible source of meaning Each chapter of the book applies this dialogic thinking to a specific challenge facing education re thinking the challenge and revealing a new theory of education Areas covered in the book include dialogical learning and cognition dialogical learning and emotional intelligence educational technology dialogic spaces and consciousness global dialogue and global citizenship dialogic theories of science and maths education The challenge identified in Wegerif s text is the growing need to develop a new understanding of education that holds the potential to transform educational policy and pedagogy in order to meet the realities of the digital age Dialogic Education for the Internet Age draws upon the latest research in dialogic theory creativity and technology and is essential reading for advanced students and researchers in educational psychology technology and policy

,2004 The Quest for a New Education Merethe Roos,2024-02-19 This book thematizes the tension between education politics and religion in Norway after the Second World War with an emphasis on the years between 1945 and 1970 and throws a new light on Norwegian school and education in the post war period The Norwegian educational landscape in the years after the Second World War must be seen against the development of the welfare state and it appears as a part of the social democracy project typical for Norway at that time The Labour Party which held a prominent position in the educational landscape in the post war decades is normally regarded to have been an important driving force behind secularization of schools in Norway not least because the total number of weekly lessons in religious education gradually was reduced This book problematizes this thesis and enlightens how important politicians and policymakers within the Labour Party defended religious education A central point is that this defense must be seen within the frames of a liberally oriented protestant theology Thus the study highlights the diversity of ideas in Norwegian politics in the post war period and demonstrates how important impulses in Norwegian politics can be viewed against a wider international background International Journal of Religious Education ,1926 Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 ,1990
