Interrupting, Disrupting, and Revolutionizing Educational Policy and Practice Whitney Sherman Newcomb,Katherine Cumings Mansfield,2014-06-01 The idea for this book was born from discussions at several recent academic events including the Women Leading Education WLE International Conference in Volos Greece 2012 and the University Council for Educational Administration UCEA Conference in Pittsburgh Pennsylvania 2011 as well as from informal dialogue amongst ourselves and various colleagues both new and veteran to the field of educational leadership and in particular dedicated to the study of women in leadership At both the WLE Conference and the UCEA Conference we heard frustration from veteran women in the field that the study of women in leadership is stagnant and has not moved forward in several years with scholars new to the field continuing to write and publish work about barriers to aspiring and practicing women leaders the same types of reports that began the formal inquiry into women s lives as leaders back in the 1980s without being able to push forward with new information or ideas for change In essence the concerns and questions that were posed from some veteran women were Why are we continuing to report the same things that we reported 30 years ago Why are we still talking about barriers to women in leadership and Why haven't we moved past gender binaries in regard to leadership ideas and practice Considering these questions some women new to the field countered with their own set of responses and questions that included Is it not significant to report that some women are still experiencing the same types of barriers in leadership that were highlighted 30 years ago Is it accurate to report that all women's voices have now been heard represented and How can we report something different if it hasn't happened The discussions that have ensued between veteran women and those new to the field inspired us to develop a book that situates women in leadership exactly where we are today and reports the status of girls who are positioned to continue the good fight that began many years ago and that both highlights the changes that have occurred and reports any stagnancy that continues to threaten women's positionality in educational leadership literature practice and policy It forefronts the voices of women educational scholars who have and are interrupting disrupting and revolutionizing educational policy and practice Our book reports women's leadership activities and knowledge in both the K-12 and university settings and concludes with chapters ripe with ideas for pushing for change through policy advocacy and activism The final chapter presents themes that emerged from the individual chapters and sets forth an agenda to move forward with the study of women in leadership
