The growing sector which was insufficient for them, was gradually and completely neglected and some traditional crafts, as leather-binding, book-binding, etc. and last the furniture production were almost completely left alone, leaving nothing but agriculture, as a means of life for the urban population. The growing sector was not able to absorb the surplus value produced in the other sectors and thus a great surplus value was created.

These provisions are intended to encourage the exchange of ideas in order to coordinate with the other interested and relevant authorities. Such exchange represents the best way through which the United States Government can better understand the other agencies of the Government and coordinate, and improve the effectiveness of, their operations and administration. Therefore, the United States Government will support and encourage such exchange of information and ideas between the United States Government and other agencies of the Government. Such exchange of information and ideas will be conducted in a manner which will be consistent with the national security and the interests of the United States.
