Geography Of Economic Development Regional Changes Global Challenges:

The Geography of Economic Development T. J. Fik, Timothy Joseph Fik, 2000 This volume examines the geography of economic development and variations in the degree to which globalization of production consumption and exchange has affected economic growth and regions development status As the world s regions become more highly integrated and interdependent through time it is essential that we gain a basic understanding of the factors and forces which both influence regional economic change and determine future economic development potential In so doing we acknowledge that the effectiveness of regional development strategies and policies are to a large extent contingent upon our ability to find solutions to a complex set of global development problems The Geography of Economic Development Timothy Joseph Fik, Robert George Amey, 1997

Geographical Scale and Economic Development Michael S. Yoder, 2023-07-21 This book is an attempt to bridge the academic discipline of economic geography with the professional field of economic development Through case studies of economic development it illustrates two fundamental concepts of the sub discipline of economic geography scale and spatial connections It demonstrates some of the ways that economic development policies and plans are linked globally nationally regionally and locally It ties together several studies of communities and transportation systems in Texas and Mexico carried out from the late 2010 s through 2021 The studies shed light on the need to study economic development at multiple scales and to do so through blended qualitative research methods that include conversations with economic development stakeholders published data news content from the business and trade media and direct observation of the built environment The book is a set of narratives that combine descriptions of the evolution of commercial transportation systems economic promotion in selected communities and corresponding changes in the built environment It is organized into three sections each of which corresponds to a different scale at which economic development functions macro regional and local

Global Challenges in the Arctic Region Elena Conde, Sara Iglesias Sánchez, 2016-08-05 Bringing together interconnected discussions to make explicit the complexity of the Arctic region this book offers a legal discussion of the ongoing territorial disputes and challenges in order to frame their impact into the viability of different governance strategies that are available at the national regional and international level One of the intrinsic features of the region is the difficulty in the determination of boundaries responsibilities and interests Against this background sovereignty issues are intertwined with environmental and geopolitical issues that ultimately affect global strategic balances and international trade and at the same time influence national approaches to basic rights and organizational schemes regarding the protection of indigenous peoples and inhabitants of the region This perspective lays the ground for further discussion revolving around the main clusters of governance focusing on the Arctic Council and the European Union with the particular roles and interest of Arctic and non Arctic states and the impact on indigenous populations environment including the relevance of national regulatory schemes and the intertwinement with concerns related to energy or migration strategy concentrating in geopolitical realities and challenges analysed from different perspectives and focusing on different actors and covering security and climate change related challenges This collection provides an avenue for parallel and converging research of complex realities from different disciplines through the expertise of scholars from different latitudes

Governing Africa's Forests in a Globalized World Laura A. German, Anne-Marie Tiani, Alain Karsenty, 2009-12 Many countries around the world are engaged in decentralization processes and most African countries face serious problems with forest governance from benefits sharing to illegality and sustainable forest management This book summarizes experiences to date on the extent and nature of decentralization and its outcomes most of which suggest an underperformance of governance reforms and explores the viability of different governance instruments in the context of weak governance and expanding commercial pressures over forests Findings are grouped into two thematic areas decentralization livelihoods and sustainable forest management and international trade finance and forest sector governance reforms The authors examine diverse forces shaping the forest sector including the theory and practice of decentralization usurpation of authority corruption and illegality inequitable patterns of benefits capture and expansion of international trade in timber and carbon credits and discuss related outcomes on livelihoods forest condition and equity The book builds on earlier volumes exploring different dimensions of decentralization and perspectives from other world regions and distills dimensions of forest governance that are both unique to Africa and representative of broader global patterns Authors ground their analysis in relevant theory while attempting to distill implications of their findings for policy and practice
