Genesis Of Ethics On The Authority Of God As The Origin Of Christian Ethics:

God and the Crisis of Freedom Richard Bauckham, 2002-01-01 This book outlines a biblical understanding of freedom and the particular ways in which Christians choose to exercise that freedom in response to major issues confronting the world today Specifically Bauckham constructs a Christian understanding of freedom explores the authority of Scripture in modern and postmodern contexts and also examines themes of tradition ethics oppression and ecology as they relate to issues of freedom and authority

The Genesis of Ethics Esther D. Reed, 2002 The Genesis of Ethics soundly addresses the controversial concept of God's authority and reframes the concept as separate from authoritarianism Esther D Reed views ethics as the practical expression of divine human reciprocity not as an isolated part of Christian life God's authority is not of a controlling or hegemonic kind but of the dialogic answerable kind which draws human persons into relationship writes Reed Reed proclaims that God's Word calls us to life and the way we answer with our lives is the embodiment of Christian ethics and moral theology The book presents and expounds upon a critical question How is the church to exercise authority in ways that promote the growth of personal freedom in Christ while preventing its teaching authority from becoming authoritarian

History of Christian ethics, tr. by W. Hastie Christoph Ernst Luthardt, 1889 The Origins of Christian Morality Wayne A. Meeks, 1993-01-01 By the time Christianity became a political and cultural force in the Roman Empire it had come to embody a new moral vision This wise and eloquent book describes the formative years from the crucifixion of Jesus to the end of the second century of the common era when Christian beliefs and practices shaped their unique moral order Wayne A Meeks examines the surviving documents from Christianity's beginnings some of which became the New Testament and shows that they are largely concerned with the way converts to the movement should behave Meeks finds that for these Christians the formation of morals means the formation of community the documents are addressed not to individuals but to groups and they have among their primary aims the maintenance and growth of these groups Meeks paints a picture of the process of socialization that produced the early forms of Christian morality discussing many factors that made the Christians feel that they were a single and chosen people He describes for example the impact of conversion the rapid spread of Christian household cult associations in the cities of the Roman Empire the language of Christian moral discourse as revealed in letters testaments and moral stories the rituals meetings and institutionalization of charity the Christians feelings about celibacy sex and gender roles and their sense of the end time and final judgment In each of these areas Meeks seeks to determine what is distinctive about the Christian viewpoint and what is similar to the moral components of Greco Roman or Jewish thought
