Sociocultural Situatedness Roslyn M. Frank, René Dirven, Tom Ziemke, Enrique Bernárdez, 2008-08-27 The contributions contained in the second volume of the two volume set Body Language and Mind introduce and elaborate upon the concept of sociocultural situatedness understood broadly as the way in which minds and cognitive processes are shaped both individually and collectively by their interaction with socioculturally contextualized structures and practices and furthermore how these structures interact contextually with language and can become embodied in it Drawing on theoretical concepts and analytical tools within the purview of cognitive linguistics and related fields the volume explores the relationship between body language and mind focusing on the complex mutually reinforcing relationships holding between the sociocultural contextualisation of language and inversely the linguistic contextualisation of culture Stated differently the notion of sociocultural situatedness allows for language to be seen as a cultural activity and at the same time as a subtle mechanism for organizing culture and thought The volume offers a representative multi and interdisciplinary collection of new papers on sociocultural situatedness bringing together for the first time a wide variety of perspectives and case studies directed explicitly to elucidating the analytical potential of this concept for cognitive linguists and other researchers working in allied fields such as AI discourse studies and cognitive anthropology The book brings together several core issues related to the notion of sociocultural situatedness some of which have been addressed previously although to a large degree sporadically and from a variety of disciplinary perspectives without fully exploring the possible analytical advantages of this concept as a tool for investigating the role of culturally entrenched schemata in cognition and language In short this is the first comprehensive survey of sociocultural situatedness theory

The God/Man/World Triangle R. Crawford, 1997-10-06 Why is there a world Does it reflect the presence of God in any way Did the world spontaneously come into existence or is there a creator How will it end Does God Exist Do religions give a coherent view of His existence and nature Can we enter into relation with Him Robert Crawford tries to answer these and other questions by arguing that religion and science complement one another and while they use different sources and methods insights can be gleaned from both concerning our nature the world and God Major attention is given to Christianity because modern science arose in that context but the discussion includes the teachings of five other religions in the hope that we can also learn from them

Animal Biotechnology and Ethics Alan J. Holland, Andrew Johnson, 2012-12-06 Advanced biomedical techniques such as genetic engineering are now used extensively in animal related research and development As the pace of development has quickened there has been growing public anxiety about the ethical issues involved Animal Biotechnology and Ethics draws together in one book some of the leading themes and issues which have emerged in the recent debates surrounding biotechnology as applied to animals With contributions from authors of many different viewpoints the subject is given a thorough and balanced treatment Among those to whom the book will be of particular interest are practitioners of animal biotechnology and those whose interest lies in assessing its credentials such as philosophers and social or political scientists It also has a great deal to interest policy makers and pressure groups as well as more general readers The strong chapters on the legal and regulatory framework will make it useful to those involved in advising on company policy patenting or litigation
