Genetic Governance Health Risk And Ethics In A Biotech Age:

Genetic Governance Robin Bunton, Alan Petersen, 2005-03-18 A new perspective on a topical and hotly debated subject Both editors have individually and collaboratively written successful books for Routledge Contributors from key international academics in public health and genetics      The Social Context of Birth Caroline Squire, 2009 Providing an understanding of the impact of social circumstance on women giving birth their babies and families in the 21st century this title explains to midwives and other health professionals how social issues such as domestic violence race and poverty can affect the birth progress      The Governance of Legal Pluralism Werner Zips, Markus Weilenmann, 2011 Law is considered by lawyers and sociologists to be at the very center of social integration in Western societies whereas social anthropological discourses regard law as marginal in non Western societies Empirical studies of multi sited legal frameworks in many post colonial political settings demonstrate the difficulties to achieve any predictable mode of governance much less good governance This book challenges both the marginalization of legal arrangements and discourses in social anthropology as well as the marginalization of legal anthropology within social anthropology It combines the related fields of Political and Legal Anthropology in order to contribute towards a meaningful re integration of the anthropology of law into the mainstream of social anthropology Series Ethnologie Forschung und Wissenschaft Vol 12      Biomedicine as Culture Regula Valérie Burri, Joseph Dumit, 2007-11-21 This collection of essays brings together leading scholars from cultural anthropology history sociology and science studies to conduct a critical dialogue on the culture s of biomedical practice discussing its material epistemic and social implications      Neoliberal Governance and Health Jessica Polzer, 2016-09-01 Provoking urgent questions about the politics of health in the twenty first century this collection interrogates how neoliberal approaches to governance frame health and risk in ways that promote individual responsibility and the implications of such framings for the well being of the collective The essays examine a range of important issues including childhood obesity genetic testing HPV vaccination Aboriginal health pandemic preparedness environmental health disability policy aging contingent work and women s access to social services With specific attention to the Canadian context contributors reveal how neoliberal practices and policies shape the health experiences of individuals disadvantaged groups and communities by cultivating self discipline while further exposing to harm the lives and bodies of those already marginalized in consumer society Building on the theoretical conceptualizations of power and government of French philosopher Michel Foucault the case studies extend our understanding of the effects of neoliberal practices and policies in relation to social class gender racialized identity colonization and ability and provide insight into how health related discourse creates new requirements for citizenship and forms of social stratification A timely intervention in the field of health studies Neoliberal Governance and Health establishes the need for critical interdisciplinary scholarship to counter the individualizing and marginalizing tendencies of health related policy practice and research      Being at Genetic Risk Kelly Pender, 2020-04-27 Rhetorics of choice have dominated the biosocial discourses surrounding BRCA risk for decades telling women at genetic risk for breast and ovarian cancers that they are free to choose how and whether to deal with their risk Critics argue that women at genetic risk are in fact not free to choose but rather are forced to make particular choices In Being at Genetic Risk Kelly Pender argues for a change in the conversation around genetic risk that focuses less on choice and more on care Being at Genetic Risk offers a new set of conceptual starting points for understanding what is at stake with a BRCA diagnosis and what the focus on choice obstructs from view Through a praxiographic reading of the medical practices associated with BRCA risk Pender's analysis shows that genetic risk is not just something BRCA women know but also something that they do It is through this doing that genetic cancer risk becomes a reality in their lives one that we can explain but not one that we can explain away Well researched and thoughtfully argued Being at Genetic Risk will be welcomed by scholars of rhetoric and communication particularly those who work in the rhetoric of science technology and medicine as well as scholars in allied fields who study the social ethical and political implications of genetic medicine Pender's insight will also be of interest to organizations that advocate for those at genetic risk of breast and ovarian cancers

Gendered Risks Kelly Hannah-Moffat, Pat O'Malley, 2007-11-13 This international collection of edited interdisciplinary papers analyzes what is currently known about gendered risks and identifies some new directions and challenges for research and theory

The Sociology of Medical Screening Natalie Armstrong, Helen Eborall, 2012-06-12 The Sociology of Medical Screening Critical Perspectives New Directions presents a series of readings that provide an up to date overview of the diverse sociological issues relating to population based medical screening Features new research data in most of the contributions Includes contributions from eminent sociologists such as David Armstrong Stefan Timmermans and Alison Pilnick Represents one of the only collections to specifically address the sociology of medical screening

Human Genes and Neoliberal Governance Antoinette Rouvroy, 2007-12-13 Original and interdisciplinary this is the first book to explore the relationship between a neoliberal mode of governance and the so called genetic revolution Looking at the knowledge power relations in the post genomic era and addressing the pressing issues of genetic privacy and discrimination in the context of neoliberal governance this book demonstrates and explains the mechanisms of mutual production between biotechnology and cultural political economic and legal frameworks In the first part Antoinette Rouvroy explores the social political and economic conditions and consequences of this new perceptual regime In the second she pursues her analysis through a consideration of the impact of geneticization on political support of the welfare state and on the operation of private health and life insurances Genetics and neoliberalism she argues are complicit in fostering the belief that social and economic patterns have a fixed nature beyond the reach of democratic deliberation whilst the characteristics of individuals are unusually plastic and within the scope of individual choice and responsibility This book will be of interest to all students of law sociology and politics

Genetic Governance Robin Bunton, Alan Petersen, 2005-03-18 Ethical and practical issues around genetic research are of major international concern

both in academia and in the public domain Questions concerning what interventions are possible and appropriate with the increasing amount of genetic information available challenge our understandings of ourselves our health and wellbeing and the role of medical ethics public health surveillance and risk However there has been little reflection on the socio political effects of this new genetic knowledge and the changes in practice that are currently impacting on our lives Containing contributions from key international researchers this book examines the broader issues of genetic debates and looks at how prediction and risk assessment is being changed in the arenas of health medicine and reproduction bringing new insight on the dangers of surveillance regulation and increased inequality Developed out of the Taylor and Francis journal Critical Public Health the book considers the implications of developments in genetics for contemporary liberal governance as well as for the future of healthcare and public health      Contemporary Theorists for Medical Sociology Graham Scambler,2012 Contemporary Theorists for Medical Sociology explores the work of key social theorists and the application of their ideas to issues around health and illness Encouraging students and researchers to use mainstream sociological thought to inform and deepen their knowledge and understanding of the many arenas of health and healthcare this text discusses and critically reviews the work of several influential contemporary thinkers including Foucault Bauman Habermas Luhmann Bourdieu Merleau Ponty Wallerstein Archer Deleuze Guattari and Castells Each chapter includes a critical introduction to the central theses of a major social theorist ways in which their ideas might inform medical sociology and some worked examples of how their ideas can be applied Containing contributions from established scholars rising stars and innovative practitioners this book is a valuable read for those studying and researching the sociology of health and illness      Engendering Emotions A. Petersen,2004-10-11 Engendering Emotions examines the production and promotion of the idea of sex gender difference in emotional experience and expression in the contemporary West Focusing on the psychology of emotions and on the spheres of aggression and war and love intimacy and sex it explores how the idea of emotional difference serves to define and govern relations between men and women The book draws on diverse theoretical work and recent empirical data to chart new territory in the study of sex gender differences      American Book Publishing Record ,2007      Insuring Security Luis Lobo-Guerrero,2010-10-04 This book offers a genealogical interrogation of the relationship between security and risk through its materialisation in insurance      Autism and Representation Mark Osteen,2010-04-26 This volume the first scholarly book on autism and the humanities brings scholars from several different disciplines together with adults on the autism spectrum to investigate the diverse ways that autism has been represented in novels poems autobiographies films and clinical discourses and to explore the connections and demarcations between autistic and normal creative expression      The Turning Points of Environmental History Frank Uekötter,2010-11-21 From the time when humans first learned to harness fire cultivate crops and domesticate livestock they have altered their environment as a means of survival In the modern era however natural resources have been devoured and defiled in the wake of a consumerism that goes beyond mere subsistence In this volume an international group of environmental historians documents the significant ways in which humans have impacted their surroundings throughout history John McNeill introduces the collection with an overarching account of the history of human environmental impact Other contributors explore the use and abuse of the earth's land in the development of agriculture commercial forestry and in the battle against desertification in arid and semi arid regions Cities which first appeared some 5 500 years ago have posed their own unique environmental challenges including dilemmas of solid waste disposal sewerage disease pollution and sustainable food and water supplies The rise of nation states brought environmental legislation which often meant selling off natural resources through eminent domain Perhaps the most damaging environmental event in history resulted from a perfect storm of effects cheap fossil fuels especially petroleum and the rapid rise of personal incomes during the 1950s brought an exponential increase in energy consumption and unforeseen levels of greenhouse gases to the earth's atmosphere By the 1970s the deterioration of air land and water due to industrialization population growth and consumerism led to the birth of the environmental and ecological movements Overall the volume points to the ability and responsibility of humans to reverse the course of detrimental trends and to achieve environmental sustainability for existing and future populations to the field      Critical Interventions in the Ethics of Healthcare Dave Holmes, 2016-04-22 Critical Interventions in the Ethics of Healthcare argues that traditional modes of bioethics are proving incommensurable with burgeoning biotechnologies and consequently emerging subjectivities. Drawn from diverse disciplines, this volume works toward a new mode of discourse in bioethics, offering a critique of the current norms and constraints under which Western healthcare operates. The contributions imagine new, less paternalistic terms by which bioethics might proceed, terms that do not resort to exclusively Western models of liberal humanism or to the logic of neoliberal economies. It is argued that in this way we can begin to develop an ethical vocabulary that does justice to the challenges of our age. Bringing together theorists, practitioners, and clinicians to present a wide variety of related disciplinary concerns and perspectives on bioethics, this volume challenges the underlying assumptions that continue to hold sway in the ethics of medicine and health sciences.

Culturing Consent Ruha Benjamin, 2008      Human Nature in an Age of Biotechnology Tamar Sharon, 2013-10-11 New biotechnologies have propelled the question of what it means to be human or posthuman to the forefront of societal and scientific consideration. This volume provides an accessible critical overview of the main approaches in the debate on posthumanism and argues that they do not adequately address the question of what it means to be human in an age of biotechnology. Not because they belong to rival political camps but because they are grounded in a humanist ontology that presupposes a radical separation between human subjects and technological objects. The volume offers a comprehensive mapping of posthumanist discourse, divided into four broad approaches: two humanist-based approaches (dystopic and liberal posthumanism) and two non-humanist approaches (radical and methodological posthumanism). The author compares and contrasts these models via an exploration of key issues from human enhancement to eugenics to new configurations of biopower, questioning what role technology plays in defining the boundaries of the human, the subject, and nature for each. Building on the contributions and limitations of radical and methodological posthumanism, the author develops a novel perspective: mediated posthumanism, that brings together insights in the philosophy of technology, the sociology of biomedicine, and Michel Foucault's work on ethical subject constitution. In this framework, technology is neither a neutral tool nor a force that alienates humanity from itself but something that is always already part of the experience of being human, and subjectivity is viewed as an emergent property that is constantly being shaped and transformed by its engagements with biotechnologies. Mediated posthumanism becomes a tool for identifying novel ethical modes of human experience that are richer and more multifaceted than current posthumanist perspectives allow for. The book will be essential reading for students and scholars working on ethics and technology, philosophy of technology, poststructuralism, technology and the body, and medical ethics.
