Performance Lawrence R. Klein,Edwin Burmeister,2016-11-11 Models of the American economy exist in government research institutes universities and private corporations Given the proliferation it is wise to take stock because these models come from diverse sources and describe different conditions from alternative points of view They could be saying different things about the economy The high level comparative studies in this volume gathered from several issues of the International Economic Review with a substantive introduction and the addition of more comparative material evaluate the performance of eleven models of the American economy the Wharton Mark III Model Brookings Model Hickman Coen Annual Model Liu Hwa Monthly Model Data Resources Inc DRI Model Federal Reserve Bank of St Louis Model Michigan Quarterly Econometric MOEM Model Wharton Annual and Industry Model Anticipation Version of the Wharton Mark III Model Fair Model U S Department of Commerce BEA Model Each of the proprietors or builders of these models describes his own system in his own words These studies come closer than ever before to standardizing model operations for testing purposes Some of the models are monthly while others are annual but the quarterly unit of time is the most frequent Some are demand oriented others are supply oriented and focus on the input output sectors of the economy Some use only observed objective data others use subjective anticipatory data Both large and small models are included In spite of the diversity the contributors have cooperated to trace the differences between their models to root causes and to report jointly the results of their research There are also some general papers that look at model performance from outside the CEME group      Studies in Income and Wealth Conference on Research in Income and Wealth,1972      The Structural Econometric Time Series Analysis Approach Arnold Zellner,Franz C. Palm,2004-10-21 Bringing together a collection of previously published work this book provides a discussion of major considerations relating to the construction of econometric models that work well to explain economic phenomena predict future outcomes and be useful for policy making Analytical relations between dynamic econometric structural models and empirical time series MVARMA VAR transfer function and univariate ARIMA models are established with important application for model checking and model construction The theory and applications of these procedures to a variety of econometric modeling and forecasting problems as well as Bayesian and non Bayesian testing shrinkage estimation and forecasting procedures are also presented and applied Finally attention is focused on the effects of disaggregation on forecasting precision and the Marshallian Macroeconomic Model that features demand supply and entry equations for major sectors of economies is analysed and described This volume will prove invaluable to professionals academics and students alike

Comparative Performance of U.S. Econometric Models Lawrence Robert Klein,1991 Each year a number of different economic groups in the USA use their own econometric models to forecast what will happen to the economy in the coming year This volume consists of chapters by distinguished economists comparing the different models now being used

Specification, Estimation, and Analysis of Macroeconometric Models Ray C. Fair,1984 This book gives a practical applications oriented account of the latest techniques for estimating and analyzing large nonlinear macroeconomic models Ray Fair demonstrates the application of these techniques in a detailed presentation of several actual models including his United States model his multicountry model Sargent s classical macroeconomic model autoregressive and vector autoregressive models and a small twelve equation linear structural model He devotes a good deal of attention to the difficult and often neglected problem of moving from theoretical to econometric models In addition he provides an extensive discussion of optimal control techniques and methods for estimating and analyzing rational expectations models A computer program that handles all the techniques in the book is available from the author making it possible to use the techniques with little additional programming The book presents the logic of this program A smaller program for personal microcomputers for analysis of Fair s United States model is available from Urban Systems Research Engineering Inc Anyone wanting to learn how to use large macroeconomic models including researchers graduate students economic forecasters and people in business and government both in the United States and abroad will find this an essential guidebook

Stochastic Dynamic Properties of Linear Econometric Models J. Wolters,2012-12-06 Econometric Models of Asian Link Shinichi Ichimura,Mitsuo Ezaki,2012-12-06 This is the first outcome of our effort in ASIAN LINK PROJECT to construct the econometric models of Asian developing countries and analyze their inter dependence with major trading partners the United States and Japan The model we present here is called Asian Link System The countries in this system include Korea Taiwan Hong Kong China the Philippines Thailand Malaysia Singapore Indonesia Japan and the United States They are covered by national models The rest of the world is divided into several regions and treated by simple proto type models The main characteristics of Asian Link System are to deal with the inter dependent relations between Asian developing countries on the one hand and Japan and United States on the other hand Here are presented these national models and the Asian Link System with the underlying statistical data so that any econometrician can re estimate our models and check the results of our research work Nowadays most articles and books in econometrics report only the final results or conclusions of research so that no other econometrician can re calculate or re examine the findings This is very serious in the empirical research because as theorists may make mistakes positive economists do commit errors or miss some possible considerations Unless statistical data are offered other econometricians cannot make suggestions or improve the models This is the main reason why empirical research in econometrics or applied econometrics are not making substantial progress in recent years

Econometric Model Selection Antonio Aznar Grasa,2013-03-09 This book proposes a new methodology for the selection of one model from among a set of alternative econometric models Let us recall that a model is an abstract representation of reality which brings out what is relevant to a particular economic issue An econometric model is also an analytical characterization of the joint probability distribution of some random variables of interest which yields some information on how the actual economy works This information will be useful only if it is accurate and precise that is the information must be far from ambiguous and close to what we observe in the real world Thus model selection should be performed on the basis of statistics which summarize the degree of accuracy and precision of each model A model is accurate if it predicts right it is precise if it produces tight confidence intervals A first general approach to model selection includes those procedures based on both characteristics precision and accuracy A particularly interesting example of this approach is that of Hildebrand Laing and Rosenthal 1980 See also Hendry and Richard 1982 A second general approach includes those procedures that use only one of the two dimensions to discriminate among models In general most of the tests we are going to examine correspond to this category

Evaluation of Econometric Models Jan Kmenta,James B. Ramsey,2014-05-10 Evaluation of Econometric Models

presents approaches to assessing and enhancing the progress of applied economic research This book discusses the problems and issues in evaluating econometric models use of exploratory methods in economic analysis and model construction and evaluation when theoretical knowledge is scarce The data analysis by partial least squares prediction analysis of economic models and aggregation and disaggregation of nonlinear equations are also elaborated This text likewise covers the comparison of econometric models by optimal control techniques role of time series analysis in econometric model evaluation and hypothesis testing in spectral regression Other topics include the relevance of laboratory experiments to testing resource allocation theory and token economy and animal models for the experimental analysis of economic behavior This publication is intended for students and researchers interested in evaluating econometric models
