Social Change and Political Participation in Turkey Ergun Ozbudun, 2015-03-08 Scholars have long argued that political participation tends to increase with economic and social modernization In this study of Turkey however the author shows that rapid socio economic growth has coincided with a substantial decline in turnout at the polls His ecological analysis of subnational aggregate voting data for the sixties and the explanation of his startling findings form the core of this up to date and comprehensive survey of Turkey s political development Turkey is one of very few countries to combine rapid socio economic change with a democratic system The author demonstrates that in this context modernization tends to increase autonomous instrumental and class based political participation and to decrease mobilized deferential and communal based political participation The topics he examines include social cleavages and the party system distribution of land and income geographical and social mobility access to education regional variations in voting turnout urban rural differences in voting behavior socio economic correlates of voting activity and party votes and patterns of participation among peasants and the urban poor Originally published in 1977 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
