Eco-Trauma Cinema Anil Narine, 2014-09-19 Film has taken a powerful position alongside the global environmental movement from didactic documentaries to the fantasy pleasures of commercial franchises This book investigates in particular film's complex role in representing ecological traumas Eco trauma cinema represents the harm we as humans inflict upon our natural surroundings or the injuries we sustain from nature in its unforgiving iterations. The term encompasses both circumstances because these seemingly distinct instances of ecological harm are often related and even symbiotic the traumas we perpetuate in an ecosystem through pollution and unsustainable resource management inevitably return to harm us Contributors to this volume engage with eco trauma cinema in its three general forms accounts of people who are traumatized by the natural world narratives that represent people or social processes which traumatize the environment or its species and stories that depict the aftermath of ecological catastrophe The films they examine represent a central challenge of our age to overcome our disavowal of environmental crises to reflect on the unsavoury forces reshaping the planet's ecosystems and to restructure the mechanisms responsible for the state of the earth Bear With Me Daniel Horowitz, 2025-07-18 Daniel Horowitz traces American popular culture s two century long fascination with bears showing how teddy bears Smokey Bear Winnie the Pooh and other real and fictional bears have embedded themselves in American culture Of Mice and Men Nandita Batra, Vartan P. The Rediscovery of the Wild Peter H. Kahn, Jr., Patricia H. Hasbach, 2013-01-25 A compelling case for connecting with the wild for our psychological and physical well being and to flourish as a species We often enjoy the benefits of connecting with nearby domesticated nature a city park a backyard garden But this book makes the provocative case for the necessity of connecting with wild nature untamed unmanaged not encompassed self organizing and unencumbered and unmediated by technological artifice We can love the wild We can fear it We are strengthened and nurtured by it As a species we came of age in a natural world far wilder than today s and much of the need for wildness still exists within us body and mind The Rediscovery of the Wild considers ways to engage with the wild protect it and recover it for our psychological and physical well being and to flourish as a species The contributors offer a range of perspectives on the wild discussing such topics as the evolutionary underpinnings of our need for the wild the wild within including the primal passions of sexuality and aggression birding as a portal to wildness children's fascination with wild animals wildness and psychological healing the shifting baseline of what we consider wild and the true work of conservation The Cinema of Werner Herzog Brad Prager, 2007 More than any other director Werner Herzog is renowned for pushing the boundaries of conventional cinema especially those between the fictional and the factual the fantastic and the real Drawing on over 35 films this book explores his continuing search for what he has described as the ecstatic truth
