Grounding In English And Arabic News Discourse:

Grounding in English and Arabic News Discourse Esam N. Khalil, 2000-12-04 Grounding in English and Arabic News Discourse explores the discourse notion of grounding viz the foreground background structure and examines it in the various structures that occur in short news texts A text level approach to grounding and the differentiation between several core concepts relating to the various textual and non textual structures distinguish the book from other approaches in the field A corpus based analysis focuses on sentence initial expressions and examines the grounding signalling function of several markers in both English and Arabic The analysis captures constraints on the occurrence of particular markers and the extensive illustrative examples explain the strategies that writers employ to cope with problems of recasting grounding values in news texts The author also shows how the failure to signal appropriate grounding values is likewise associated with the failure to deliver the appropriate type of text Grounding is a relatively unexplored area of investigation in Arabic text linguistics and the study identifies a series of previously unrecognized language features highlighting the discourse pragmatic function that syntax serves The book will be invaluable to researchers and students of discourse pragmatics contrastive rhetoric and communication It will also be of interest to all those involved in translation and intercultural studies

Grounding in English and Arabic News Discourse Esam Nazmi Khalil, 1999 Early Modern English News Discourse Andreas H. Jucker, 2009 Printbegr nsninger Der kan printes 10 sider ad gangen og max 40 sider pr session The Familiar Letter in Early Modern English Susan M. Fitzmaurice, 2002 This research monograph examines familiar letters in seventeenth and eighteenth century English to provide a pragmatic reading of the meanings that writers make and readers infer The first part of the book presents a method of analyzing historical texts The second part seeks to validate this method through case studies that illuminate how modern pragmatic theory may be applied to distant speech communities in both history and culture in order to reveal how speakers understand one another and how they exploit intended and unintended meanings for their own communicative ends The analysis demonstrates the application of pragmatic theory including speech act theory deixis politeness implicature and relevance theory to the study of historical literary and fictional letters from extended correspondences producing an historically informed richly situated account of the meanings and interpretations of those letters that a close reading affords This book will be of interest to scholars of the history of the English language historical pragmatics discourse analysis as well as to social and cultural historians and literary critics

Second Language

Interaction Salla Kurhila, 2006-01-01 Members of divergent societies are increasingly involved in interactional situations both publicly and privately where participants do not share linguistic resources Second language conversations have become common everyday events in the globalized world and an interest has evolved to determine how interaction is conducted and understanding achieved in such asymmetric conversations This book describes how mutual intelligibility is established checked and remedied in authentic interaction between first and second language speakers both in institutional and everyday situations The study is rooted in the interactional view on language and it contributes to our knowledge on interactional practices in particular in cases where some doubt exists about the level of intersubjectivity between the participants It expands the traditional research agenda of conversation analysis that is based on the concepts of membership and members shared competences By showing in detail how speakers with restricted linguistic resources can interact successfully and achieve the institutional goals of interactions this study also adds to our knowledge of the questions that are central in second language research such as when and how the non native speakers linguistic output is modified by themselves or by the native speakers or when the non native speakers display uptake after these modifications

Beyond

Misunderstanding Kristin Bührig, Jan D. ten Thije, 2006-01-01 This book challenges two tacit presumptions in the field of intercultural communication research Firstly misunderstandings can frequently be found in intercultural communication although one could not claim that intercultural communication is constituted by misunderstandings alone This volume shows how new perspectives on linguistic analyses of intercultural communication go beyond the analysis of misunderstanding Secondly intercultural communication is not solely constituted by the fact that individuals from different cultural groups interact Each contribution of this volume analyses to what extent instances of discourse are institutionally and or interculturally determined These linguistic reflections involve different theoretical frameworks e g functional grammar systemic functional linguistics functional pragmatics rhetorical conversation analysis ethno methodological conversation analysis linguistic anthropology and a critical discourse approach As the contributions focus on the discourse of genetic counseling gate keeping discourse international team co operation international business communication workplace discourse internet communication and lamentation discourse the book exemplifies that the analysis of intercultural communication is organized in response to social needs and therefore may contribute to the social justification of linguistics

Academic Writing Eija Ventola, Anna Mauranen, 1996-03-15 Writing is crucial to the academic world It is the main mode of communication among scientists and scholars and also a means for students for obtaining their degrees The papers in this volume highlight the intercultural generic and textual complexities of academic writing Comparisons are made between various traditions of academic writing in different cultures and contexts and the studies combine linguistic analyses with analyses of the social settings in which academic writing takes place and is acquired The common denominator for the papers is writing in English and attention is given to native English writers and non native writers problems in different disciplines The articles in the book introduce a variety of methodological approaches for analyses and search for better teaching methods and ways of improving the syllabi of writing curricula The book as a whole illustrates how linguists strive for new research methods and practical applications in applied linguistics

Thou and You in Early Modern English Dialogues Terry Walker, 2007 This book is a corpus based study examining thou and you in three speech related genres from 1560 1760 a crucial period in the history of second person singular pronouns spanning the time from when you became dominant to when thou became all but obsolete The study embraces the fields of corpus linguistics historical pragmatics and historical sociolinguistics Using data drawn from the recently released A Corpus of English Dialogues 1560 1760 and manuscript material the aim is to ascertain which extra linguistic and linguistic factors highlighted by previous research appear particularly relevant in the selection and relative distribution of thou and you Previous research on thou and you has tended to concentrate on Drama and or been primarily qualitative in nature Depositions in particular have hitherto received very little attention This book is intended to help fill a gap in the literature by presenting an in depth qualitative and quantitative analysis of pronoun usage in Trials Depositions and for comparative purposes Drama Comedy

Request Strategies Yong-Ju Rue, Grace Zhang, 2008-06-11 This book investigates request strategies in Mandarin Chinese and Korean and is one of the first attempts to address cross cultural strategies employed in the speech act of requests in two non Western languages The data drawn from role plays and naturally recorded conversations complement each other in terms of exhaustiveness and authenticity This study explores the similarities and differences of the request patterns that emerged in the Chinese and Korean data and the intricate relation between request strategies and social factors such as power and distance The findings raise questions about the influence of methodology on data and the applicability of so called universals to East Asian languages They also offer new insights into generally held ideas of directness and requesting behaviours in Chinese and Korean and the problems of cross cultural and cross linguistic communication This research is suggestive for the disciplines of cross cultural pragmatics cross cultural communication contrastive linguistics applied linguistics and discourse analysis

Taboo in Advertising Elsa Simões Lucas

Freitas,2008-07-09 Taboos are much more than just a synonym of forbidden Proof of the concept s complexity can be found in the way ads often try to hide the taboo inherent to their products or conversely in the way certain taboo readings are foregrounded on purpose in other ads This volume shows why and how that happens using print and television ads to exemplify a the elaborate strategies used by ads for certain products to cleverly hide the taboo inherent to them and b the deliberate recourse to taboo references in ads for products that do not present any taboo connotation The linguistic analysis undertaken takes into account the different modes verbal language music sound effects moving and static images that convey meaning in ads Taboo is very often conveyed or disguised through one of the channels while the others play the opposite role thus achieving a balance that prevents the ad from being too obscure to be understood or too daring for the general public to accept it For this comprehensive approach concepts are drawn from different disciplines textual and semiotic analysis from linguistics theories of taboo from anthropology and background to advertising from media studies

Languages and Cultures in Contrast and Comparison María A. Gómez-González,J. Lachlan Mackenzie,Elsa González Alvarez,2008 This volume explores various hitherto under researched relationships between languages and their discourse cultural settings The first two sections analyze the complex interplay between lexico grammatical organization and communicative contexts Part I focuses on structural options in syntax deepening the analysis of information packaging strategies Part II turns to lexical studies covering such matters as human perception and emotion the psychological understanding of home and abroad the development of children s emotional life and the relation between lexical choice and sexual orientation The final chapters consider how new techniques of contrastive linguistics and pragmatics are contributing to the primary field of application for contrastive analysis language teaching and learning The book will be of special interest to scholars and students of linguistics discourse analysis and cultural studies and to those entrusted with teaching European languages and cultures The major languages covered are Akan Dutch English Finnish French German Italian Norwegian Spanish and Swedish

Confronting Metaphor in Use Mara Sophia Zanutto,Lynne Cameron,Marilda C. Cavalcanti,2008-03-27 It is timely for researchers to approach metaphor as social and situated as a matter of language and discourse and not just as a matter of thought Over the last twenty five years scholars have come to appreciate in depth the cognitive motivated and embodied nature of metaphor but have tended to background the linguistic form of metaphor and have largely ignored how this connects to its role in the discourses in which our lives are constructed and lived This book brings language and social dimensions into the picture offering snapshots of metaphor use in real language and in real lives across the very different cultures of Europe and Brazil and contributing to the theorizing of metaphor in discourse

Email Hoaxes Theresa Heyd, 2008-04-02 How genres emerge and evolve on the Internet has become one of the central questions in studies of computer mediated communication CMC This book addresses the issue of genrefication by giving an in depth analysis of email hoaxes as a candidate for digital genre status Email hoaxes are deceptive messages that spread in digital social networks they are a fascinating object for discourse linguistics as they exemplify a major pragmatic tendency in CMC namely deceptivity and a lowering of sincerity standards This study examines formal and functional aspects of email hoaxes and provides ample evidence both from a systematized corpus and in situ data collected online Besides a structural and microlinguistic analysis it identifies key issues such as pragmatic duality narrativity and textual variation and change in email hoaxes In conclusion a digital genre model is outlined that bridges both the old new and the formal functional gaps and may be applied to many other digital genre ecologies

Metalanguage in Interaction Yael Maschler, 2009 Metalanguage in Interaction is about the crystallization of metalanguage employed throughout interaction into the discourse markers which permeate talk Based on close analysis of naturally occurring Hebrew conversation it is a synchronic study of the grammaticization of discourse markers a phenomenon until now mostly studied from a diachronic perspective It constitutes the first monograph in the fields of Hebrew interactional linguistics and Hebrew discourse markers The book first presents what is unique to the present approach to discourse markers and gives them an operational definition Discourse markers are explored as a system illuminating their patterning in terms of function structure and the moments in interaction at which they are employed Next detailed analysis of four Hebrew discourse markers illuminates not only the functions and grammaticization patterns of these markers but also what they reveal about quintessential aspects of Israeli society identity and culture The conclusion discusses commonalities and differences in the grammaticization patterns of the four markers and relates the grammaticization of discourse markers from interaction to projectability in discourse

The Language of Daily Life in England (1400-1800) Arja Nurmi, Minna Nevala, Minna Palander-Collin, 2009-04-15 The Language of Daily Life in England 1400 1800 is an important state of the art account of historical sociolinguistic and socio pragmatic research The volume contains nine studies and an introductory essay which discuss linguistic and social variation and change over four centuries Each study tackles a linguistic or social phenomenon and approaches it with a combination of quantitative and qualitative methods always embedded in the socio historical context The volume presents new information on linguistic variation and change while evaluating and developing the relevant theoretical and methodological tools The writers form one of the leading research teams in the field and as compilers of the Corpus of Early English Correspondence have an informed understanding of the data in all its depth This volume will be of interest to scholars in historical linguistics sociolinguistics and socio pragmatics but also e.g. social history. The approachable style of writing makes it also inviting for advanced students.

Contrastive Pragmatics Wieslaw Oleksy, 1989-01-01. This volume deals with a variety of pragmatic issues involved in cross language and interlanguage studies as well as second language acquisition and cross cultural studies. Part I contains papers dealing with general issues stemming from contrastive work, for example the question of tertium comparationis and its place in the development of contrastive studies as well as the applicability of generalizations proposed by speech act theorists in contrasting concrete languages and cultures. The second part tackles a number of pragmatic issues involved in second language learners' written productions, classroom discourse as well as more general questions pertaining to pragmatic errors and learners' interlanguage. An Index of terms and an Index of names complete the volume. Youngspeak in a
