Aphasia Compendium Dragoş Cătălin Jianu, Dafin

F. Muresanu, 2022-06-01 Aphasia is an acquired central disorder of language that impairs a person's ability to understand and/or produce spoken or writing language. The study of aphasia is important in different clinical and fundamental areas including neurology, psychology, linguistics, and speech language pathology. This book presents comprehensive information on the diagnosis and treatment of aphasia. Chapters cover such topics as linguistics and the study of aphasia, different types of aphasia, treatment approaches, imaging, and much more. The Strands of Speech and Language Therapy Katy

James, 2020-09-16 This book is written by a team of speech and language therapists from The Wolfson Neurorehabilitation Centre. It is intended for practitioners working with patients who have acquired communication disorders resulting from brain injury, aphasia, cognitive communication disorder, dysarthria, apraxia. The authors believe that a therapeutic programme should have its foundations in the linguistic, non-verbal, neurological, and neuropsychological perspective of the patient's difficulties. The approach the team has developed consists of several different strands of therapy, with each strand representing an element of the rehabilitation process: assessment, goal planning, specific individualised treatment, education, friends and family, and psychosocial adjustment. This book describes these strands, illustrates in a user-friendly way how each one relates to therapy, and gives some practical ideas of how practitioners might work within them. Each chapter begins with the guiding principles and evidence bases that underlie the rationale for one particular strand of therapy. They then follow examples of practice and case studies of a real-life example of each strand. This book describes a speech and language therapy service that aims to be responsive to patients' needs and develops tailor-made intervention programmes that are unique to each individual. It includes downloadable resources containing assessments and practical tools.
