Group Communication in Context Lawrence R. Frey, 2005-05-18 The study of group communication has never been more critical as recent national and international events point to the fragility of group life. An emerging perspective, the bona fide group perspective, offers hope for improving group communication for it recognizes that any group—a family, community group, expedition team, social support group, organizational work group, interorganizational collaboration, or international team—must be studied and understood within the multiple contexts in which it is embedded and that significantly affects who is considered to be part of a group, what occurs within that group, and how that group interacts with other groups. In the second edition of his award-winning volume, editor Lawrence R. Frey showcases original research studies conducted on and about communication in bona fide groups, demonstrating the conceptual promise of the bona fide group perspective as realized in research practice. Divided into six sections, the chapters cover a wide range of new or relatively understudied groups, including youth, community, Internet support, climbing, expedition, families, neighborhoods, and school boards, and demonstrate the wealth of methodological approaches that can be used to study bona fide group communication, including survey methods, interviews, textual analysis, content analysis, participant observation, and discourse analysis.

Group Communication in Context: Studies of Bona Fide Groups, Second Edition, shows that the bona fide group perspective has the power to transform our thinking about groups and group communication and in time the practices in which groups and group members engage. The volume is intended for use in group communication courses as well as a reference for group scholars. It is also appropriate for classes in psychology, social work, counseling, sociology, anthropology, and related disciplines.

The Emerald Handbook of Group and Team Communication Research Stephenson J. Beck, Joann Keyton, Marshall Scott Poole, 2021-11-05 This volume considers the current research of group communication scholars, provides an overview of major foci in the discipline, and points toward possible trajectories for future scholarship. It establishes group communication's central role within research on human behaviour and fosters an identity for group communication researchers.

Group Communication Pitfalls John O. Burtis, Paul D. Turman, 2005-09-08 They have done this with a rich, provocative, and creative conceptual vocabulary that will resonate for readers who practice, supervise others practice, teach about, or do research in group life and group work.

Paul H. Ephross, MSW

Distributed Network Systems Weijia Jia, Wanlei Zhou, 2004-12-15 Both authors have taught the course of Distributed Systems for many years in the respective schools During the teaching we feel strongly that Distributed systems have evolved from traditional LAN based distributed systems towards Internet based systems Although there exist many excellent textbooks on this topic because of the fast development of distributed systems and network programming protocols we have difficulty in finding an appropriate textbook for the course of distributed systems with orientation to the requirement of the undergraduate level study for today s distributed technology Specifically from to date concepts algorithms and models to implementations for both distributed system designs and application programming Thus the philosophy behind this book is to integrate the concepts algorithm designs and implementations of distributed systems based on network programming After using several materials of other textbooks and research books we found that many texts treat the distributed systems with separation of concepts algorithm design and network programming and it is very difficult for students to map the concepts of distributed systems to the algorithm design prototyping and implementations This book intends to enable readers especially postgraduates and senior undergraduate level to study up to date concepts algorithms and network programming skills for building modern distributed systems It enables students not only to master the concepts of distributed network system but also to readily use the material introduced into implementation practices
