Howard, 1990 Examines the relationship between the government policies of self management and the real experience in Aboriginal communities Takes Aboriginal autonomy as its central theme Includes biographical sketch selected bibliography of anthropologists the Berndts Law's Anthropology Paul Burke, 2011-11-01 Anthropologists have been appearing as key expert witnesses in native title claims for over 20 years Until now however there has been no theoretically informed detailed investigation of how the expert testimony of anthropologists is formed and how it is received by judges This book examines the structure and habitus of both the field of anthropology and the juridical field and how they have interacted in four cases including the original hearing in the Mabo case The analysis of background material has been supplemented by interviews with the key protagonists in each case This allows the reader a unique insider s perspective of the courtroom drama that unfolds in each case The book asks given the available ethnographic research how will the anthropologist reconstruct it in a way that is relevant to the legal doctrine of native title when that doctrine gives a wide leeway for interpretation on the critical questions Entangled Territorialities Francoise Dussart, Sylvie Poirier, 2017-04-24 Entangled Territorialities offers vivid ethnographic examples of how Indigenous lands in Australia and Canada are tangled with governments industries and mainstream society Most of the entangled lands to which Indigenous peoples are connected have been physically transformed and their ecological balance destroyed Each chapter in this volume refers to specific circumstances in which Indigenous peoples have become intertwined with non Aboriginal institutions and projects including the construction of hydroelectric dams and open mining pits Long after the agents of resource extraction have abandoned these lands to their fate Indigenous peoples will continue to claim ancestral ties and responsibilities that cannot be understood by agents of capitalism The editors and contributors to this volume develop an anthropology of entanglement to further examine the larger debates about the vexed relationships between settlers and indigenous peoples over the meaning knowledge and management of traditionally owned lands Australian Critical Decisions Ann Genovese,2018-02-02 The 1980s was a time of significant social political and cultural change In Australia law was pivotal to these changes The two High Court cases that this book explores Koowarta v Bjelke Petersen in 1982 and the Tasmanian Dams case in 1983 are famous legally as they marked a decisive reckoning by the Court with both international law and federal constitutionalism Yet these cases also offer a significant marker of Australia in the 1980s a shift to a different form of political engagement nationally and internationally on complex questions about race and the environment This book brings these cases together for the first time It does so to explore not only the legal legacy and relationship between Koowarta and Tasmanian Dams but also to reflect on how Australians experience their law in time and place and why those experiences might require more than the usual legal records The authors include significant figures in Australian public life some of whom were key participants in the cases as well as established and respected scholars in law history Indigenous and environmental studies The book offers a combination of personal recollections of the cases the drama of how they were brought before the courts and decided as well as a consideration of the cases ongoing significance in Australian life This book was previously published as two special issues in the Griffith Law Review Unmaking Angas Downs Shannyn Palmer,2022-08-30 Some stories dominate how we see and interpret a place while others are obscured from view Angas Downs is a pastoral station in Central Australia but pastoralism is only a fraction of what has happened there Like all places it has accrued people and stories in multiple layers over time Listening to Tjuki Tjukanku Pumpjack and Sandra Armstrong two Anangu with deep and abiding connections to Angas Downs a very different kind of place emerges from that conjured in myths and histories of pioneers and pastoralists that have shaped understandings of the past in Australia particularly in the Northern Territory Unmaking Angas Downs traces a history of colonisation in Central Australia by tracking the rise and demise of a rural enterprise across half a century as well as the complex and creative practices that transformed a cattle station into Country It grapples with the question of how people experience profound dislocation and come to make a place for themselves in the wake of rupture Angas Downs emerges as a place of dynamic interaction and social life not only lived in but also made by Anangu Indigenous Participation in Australian Economies II Natasha Fijn,Ian Keen,Christopher Lloyd,Michael Pickering,2012-07-01 This volume arises out of a conference in Canberra on Indigenous Participation in Australian Economies at the National Museum of Australia on 9 10 November 2009 which attracted more than thirty presenters Past and Present Jeremy Beckett, 1998 This book examines Aboriginal identity in various forums discourse education juvenile institutions geographic locations in terms of myths and in land rights actions A selection of authors drawn from a variety of disciplines present a readable collection of works covering the past and the present and many issues which face Aboriginal people in Australia today First World, First Nations Gunter Minnerup, Pia Solberg, 2010-10-21 Collects essays on the Indigenous peoples of Australia and Northern Europe exploring the similarities and differences between the Indigenous experiences in the Nordic countries and Australia Experiments in self-determination Nicolas Peterson, Fred Myers, 2016-01-21 Outstations which dramatically increased in numbers in the 1970s are small decentralised and relatively permanent communities of kin established by Aboriginal people on land that has social cultural or economic significance to them In 2015 they yet again came under attack this time as an expensive lifestyle choice that can no longer be supported by state governments Yet outstations are the original and most striking manifestation of remote area Aboriginal people s aspirations for self determination and of the life projects by which they seek and have sought autonomy in deciding the meaning of their life independently of projects promoted by the state and market They are not simply projects of isolation from outside influences as they have sometimes been characterised but attempts by people to take control of the course of their lives In the sometimes acrimonious debates about outstations the lived experiences motivations and histories of existing communities are missing For this reason we invited a number of anthropological witnesses to the early period in which outstations gained a purchase in remote Australia to provide accounts of what these communities were like and what their residents aspirations and experiences were Our hope is that these closer to the ground accounts provide insight into and understanding of what Indigenous aspirations were in the establishment and organisation of these communities This volume will be a great addition not only to the origins and history of outstations but in light of the closing of over 100 Aboriginal communities in Western Australia it should be a required bedtime reading for all politicians across Australia The contributors do not simply concentrate on the so called outstations movement of the 1970s but rather help the reader understand why in the 1930s 40 50s and 60s Aboriginal people moved away from cattle stations missions and settlements to reconstruct their moral compass in settings which made more contemporaneous sense not only to them but often to the whites who were there as well Professor Francoise Dussart University of Connecticut Landscape and Culture - Cross-linguistic Perspectives Helen Bromhead, 2018-09-07 The relationship between landscape and culture seen through language is an exciting and increasingly explored area This ground breaking book contributes to the linguistic examination of both cross cultural variation and unifying elements in geographical categorization The study focuses on the contrastive lexical semantics of certain landscape words in a number of languages The aim is to show how geographical vocabulary sheds light on the culturally and historically shaped ways people see and think about the land around them Notably the study presents landscape concepts as anchored in a human centred perspective based on our cognition vision and experience in places The Natural Semantic Metalanguage NSM approach allows an analysis of meaning which is both fine grained and transparent

The book is aimed first of all at scholars and students of linguistics Yet it will also be of interest to researchers in geography environmental studies anthropology cultural studies Australian Studies and Australian Aboriginal Studies because of the
