Growing Exotic Forests:

Growing Exotic Forests Bruce Zobel, Gerrit Van Wyk, Per Stahl, 1987 This is the first text reference on growing exotic forests bringing together information that heretofore was widely scattered throughout the journal literature and is the only work to cover both tropical and temperate climates in one volume Exotic means not native to the region now exotic forestry is spreading incredibly rapidly This volume covers basic concepts widely illustrated with examples from all over the world based on the authors extensive experience in the field Written in a straightforward manner the text is understandable to both the professional and the layman Topics covered include genetic improvement of exotics developing and using land races genotype X environment interaction limitation to production in and unusual problems with exotic forests gene conservation and exotic forestry and much more Forest Production for Tropical America Frank Howard Wadsworth, 1997 The Future of Tropical Rain Forests in South East Asia J. Davidson, John Michael Davidson, Tho Yow Pong, Maarten Bijleveld, 1985

Growing from Seed Celeste Lacuna-Richman, 2011-10-05 Social Forestry and its most well known variant Community Forestry have been practiced almost as long as people have used forests During this time forests have provided people with countless goods and services including wood medicine food clean water and recreation In making use of forest resources people throughout history have frequently organized themselves and established both formal and informal rules However just as the discipline of Forestry had previously limited and concentrated the function of forests to the timber it provides the popular understanding of Social Forestry has restricted it to a Forestry sub topic that deals with welfare without any connection to income generation and is practiced only in developing countries This volume introduces the concepts of Social Forestry to the student gives examples of its practice around the world and attempts to anticipate developments in its future It aims to widen the concept of Social Forestry from a sub practice within Forestry to a practice that will make Forestry relevant in countries where wood production alone is no longer the main reason for keeping land forested thereby rediscovering and redefining this important topic Timber Production and Biodiversity Conservation in Tropical Rain Forests Andrew Grieser Johns, 1997-07-10 How timber production and tropical biodiversity conservation can be balanced materially inscribed and powerfully invoked Intimate connections to the forest are revealed to be as political as the use of its resources culminating in local claims for redress of historical dispossessions sustain their livelihoods but also to maintain their intimate links with ancestral lands where their stories and memories are materially inscribed and powerfully invoked Intimate connections to the forest are revealed to be as political as the use of its resources culminating in local claims for redress of historical dispossessions Global Environment Outlook 2000 United Nations Environment Programme (Unep),2013-11-05 The continued poverty of the majority of the planet s inhabitants and excessive consumption by the minority are the two major causes of environmental degradation The present course is unsustainable and postponing action is no longer an option Inspired political leadership and intense cooperation across all regions and sectors will be needed to put both existing and new policy instruments to work From the Synthesis Global Environment Outlook 2000 GEO 2000 is a comprehensive and authoritative review and analysis of environmental conditions around the world It is the flagship publication of the world s leading environmental organization the United Nations Environment Programme UNEP and is based on information provided by more than 30 regional and international collaborating centres The book presents a region by region analysis of the state of the world s environment highlighting key global concerns and making recommendations for policy action The regions covered include Africa Asia and the Pacific Europe and Central Asia Latin America and the Caribbean North America West Asia and the Polar Areas Chapter 1 Global Perspectives describes the main drivers of environmental change such as the economy population growth political organization and regionalization as well as potential impacts of recent global developments including the growth of the consumer culture trade and international debt Chapter 2 The State of the Environment provides a global and region by region overview of the environment at the end of the second millennium The chapter covers global issues such as ozone climate change El Nifio and nitrogen loading and universal issues of land and food forests biodiversity freshwater marine and coastal areas atmosphere and urban areas Chapter 3 Policy Responses reviews the broad range of policy instruments and responses being used to address environmental issues including multilateral environmental agreements and analyses the difficulties of compliance implementation and assessment Chapter 4 Future Perspectives looks at environmental issues that will require priority attention in the 21st century and some alternative policy options that could be used in the regions Chapter 5 Outlook and Recommendations makes recommendations for future action based on the environmental legacy left by past and present policy and management systems GEO 2000 will be the benchmark reference and guide to the state of the global environment Written in clear non technical language and supported throughout by informative graphics and tables it is essential reading for all those involved in environmental policy making implementation and assessment and for researchers and students of regional and global environmental issues Originally published in 1999 Tropical Forests Of Oceania Joshua A. Bell,Paige West,Colin Filer,2015-08-31 The tropical forests of Oceania are an enduring source of concern for indigenous communities for the migrants who move to them for the states that encompass them within their borders for the multilateral institutions and aid agencies and for the non governmental organisations that focus on their conservation Grounded in the perspective of political ecology contributors to this volume approach forests as socially alive spaces produced by a confluence of local histories and global circulations In doing so they collectively explore the multiple ways in which these forests come into view and therefore into being Exploring the local dynamics within and around these forests provides an insight into regional issues that have global resonance Intertwined as they are with cosmological beliefs and livelihoods as sites of biodiversity and Western desire these forests have been and are still being transformed by the interaction of foreign and local entities Focusing on case studies from Papua New Guinea the Solomon Islands and the Gambier Islands this volume brings new perspectives on how Pacific Islanders continue to creatively engage with the various processes at play in and around their forests

Tropical Montane Cloud Forests L. A. Bruijnzeel, F. N. Scatena, L. S. Hamilton, 2011-01-06 This volume represents a uniquely comprehensive overview of our current knowledge on tropical montane cloud forests 72 chapters cover a wide spectrum of topics including cloud forest distribution climate soils biodiversity hydrological processes hydrochemistry and water quality climate change impacts and cloud forest conservation management and restoration The final chapter presents a major synthesis by some of the world s leading cloud forest researchers which summarizes our current knowledge and considers the sustainability of these forests in an ever changing world This book presents state of the art knowledge concerning cloud forest occurrence and status as well as the biological and hydrological value of these unique forests The presentation is academic but with a firm practical emphasis It will serve as a core reference for academic researchers and students of environmental science and ecology as well as practitioners natural resources management forest conservation and decision makers at local national and international levels

Tropical Forests and Their Crops Nigel J. H. Smith, J. T. Williams, Donald L. Plucknett, Jennifer P. Talbot, 2018-05-31 The tropics are the source of many of our familiar fruits vegetables oils and spice as well as such commodities as rubber and wood Moreover other tropical fruits and vegetables are being introduced into our markets to offer variety to our diet Now as tropical forests are increasingly threatened we face a double fold crisis not only the loss of the plants but also rich pools of potentially useful genes Wild populations of crop plants harbor genes that can improve the productivity and disease resistance of cultivated crops many of which are vital to developing economies and to global commerce Eight chapters of this book are devoted to a variety of tropical crops beverages fruit starch oil resins fuelwood fodder spices timber and nuts the history of their domestication their uses today and the known extent of their gene pools both domesticated and wild Drawing on broad research the authors also consider conservation strategies such as parks and reserves corporate holdings gene banks and tissue culture collections and debt for nature swaps They stress the need for a sensitive balance between conservation and the economic well being of local populations If economic growth is part of the conservation effort local populations and governments will be more strongly motivated to save their natural resources Distinctly practical and soundly informative this book provides insight into the overwhelming abundance of tropical forests an unsettling sense of what we may lose if they are destroyed and a deep appreciation for the delicate relationships between tropical forest plants and people around the world World Trade Information Service ,1961
