K.,MANGAL, SHUBHRA,2019-05-01 The book with comprehensive and practicable coverage acquaints its readers with thorough knowledge and skills to help the growing children in their proper growth and development enabling them to reach the limit of their excellence on one hand and instilling in them the sense of responsibility towards their society and nation on the other hand It dwells on the essential topics such as nature of the process of growth and development going on at the various ages and developmental stages of children their developmental needs and characteristics individual differences and diversities existing among them development of various abilities and capacities like intelligence creativity and overall personality characteristics nature of the age linked behavioural problems adjustment and mental health parenting styles and methods of dealing with the behavioural problems adjustment and stressful conditions of the developing children The text equips the readers with all what is in demand for helping the developing children at this juncture of rapid industrialisation globalisation urbanisation modernisation and economic change It is primarily designed for the undergraduate students of education and elementary education KEY FEATURES Incorporates quite advanced topics such as emotional intelligence use of reflective journals anecdotal records and narratives as method of understanding child s behaviour and so on Includes detailed discussion of theories of child development theories of learning theories of intelligence theories of achievement motivation theories of creativity and theories of personality Offers engaging

Burns,2008-04-06 While this book is concerned with psychology let no reader believe that after studying it he or she will be a budding psychologist Only those elements of psychology which are central to the adequate functioning of the professional in the health and allied caring services are covered Many popular topics such as intelligence memory concept formation will not be found within the covers of this book The objective of this book is to enable those professionals who have responsibility for the well being health and care of others to develop insight into and to become more empathetic to the needs motivations feelings and behaviour of their charges An ancillary objective is that the readers too might come to understand a little more about their own behaviour particularly in relation to their work situation Patients in hospital children in residential care the elderly in the old folks home are all perceiving and thinking organisms not merely interesting medical cases a classical set of symptoms a collection of statistics or a bulging case file Every person whether professional or client is affected by the way others respond to them by the feelings each has for the other by the non verbal signals of eye contact smile and voice tone etc      Childhood, Philosophy and Open Society Chi-Ming Lam,2013-02-26 The purpose of this book is to develop a theory and practice of education from Karl Popper s non justificationist philosophy for promoting an open society Specifically the book is designed to develop an educational programme for fostering critical thinking in children particularly when they are involved in group discussion The study conducted an experiment to assess the effectiveness of Matthew Lipman s Philosophy for Children P4C programme in promoting Hong Long Chinese children s critical thinking Forty two Secondary 1 students volunteered for the experiment from whom 28 students were randomly selected and randomly assigned to two groups of 14 each one receiving P4C lessons and the other receiving English lessons The students who were taught P4C were found to perform better in the reasoning test than those who were not to be capable of discussing philosophical problems in a competent way and to have a very positive attitude towards doing philosophy in the classroom It was also found that P4C played a major role in developing the students critical thinking Considering that the construction of children by adults as incompetent in the sense of lacking reason maturity or independence reinforces the traditional structure of adult authority over children in society it runs counter to the goal of fostering critical thinking in children As a way to return justice to childhood and to effectively promote critical thinking in children the present study suggested reconstructing the concept of childhood highlighting the importance of establishing a coherent public policy on promotion of agency in children and also the importance of empowering them to participate actively in research legal and educational institutions Growing Up in an Egyptian Village H.M.

Hewitt,Matt DeLisi,2010-02-17 Democratic Education in an Armed Society Samantha Deane,2023-11-21 Democratic Education in an Armed Society Learning to Live with Guns examines the points of intersection between school gun violence and democratic education Samantha Deane explores the connection between how we teach children to think of themselves as democratic actors and the unceasing plague of gun violence Juxtaposing two images of political agency Deane connects an essentialized view of humans as masters of themselves objects and history with discourses that aim to train individuals to be autonomous and rational users of objects like guns This liberal view gives us no way to think about how objects narratives and norms contour the selves we claim to be Deane suggests that we must learn to attend to the ways in which our ability to act in the world is shared and distributed In a society shot through with guns and enamored with individualism the future of associational life depends on whether we learn to do democracy with the objects we hold dear Essential Society E.

Laszlo,2012-12-06 There are greatly divergent modes of thinking and widely differing problems subsumed as belonging to the domain of eontemporary philosophy Some philosophers may weil find that they have little more in eommon with their coileagues than their interest in exposing a problem on the level of thought systematically and with the optimum regard for the validity of their argumentation The traditional conflit between philosophie schools lies in the solution different thinkers propose to a problem In our day however there is a deeper schism between the exponents of different sehools than a difference in the problem s solution The conflict involves already the formulation of the problem There are at least two general modes of pursuing philosophical investigation where no conflict in the solution of problems not beeause there would be agreement among the thinkers is possible but because the problems attacked by the thought of one school are not taken into consideration by the adherents of the other In general it may be said without fear of serious opposition that the kind of problems dealt with by neo positivists and positivistic analysts are seldom if ever closely examined by ontologists metaphysicians existentialists and certain other schools of the speculative branch of philosophy while these philosophers deal with problems which are generally regarded to be outside the scope of philosophie inquiry by positivists and analysts

Childhood in Modern Europe Colin Heywood, 2018-09-06 This invaluable introduction to the history of childhood in both Western and Eastern Europe between c 1700 and 2000 seeks to give a voice to children as well as adults wherever possible. The work is divided into three parts covering in turn childhood in rural village societies during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries in the towns during the Industrial Revolution period c 1750-1870 and in society generally during the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Each part has a succinct introduction to a number of key topics such as conceptions of childhood, infant and child mortality, the material conditions of children, their cultural life, the welfare facilities available to them from charities and the state, and the balance of work and schooling. Combining a chronological with a thematic approach, this book will be of particular interest to students and academics in a number of disciplines including history, sociology, anthropology, geography, literature, and education.

Racial Stereotyping and Child Development D. T. Slaughter-Defoe, 2012-05-10 In contemporary societies, children's racial identity is co-constructed in response to racial stereotyping with extended family, peers, and teachers, and potent media sources. The studies in this volume take cognizance of earlier research into skin color and racial stereotyping but advance its contemporary implications. Developmental trajectories of racial attitudes of Black and White children, examining recent empirical research from the perspective of theorizing associated with experimental studies of stereotyped threat, are discussed. Reviewed are also the theoretical and empirical role of media images in influencing the race-related images as well as the PVEST theoretical model in considering the significance of parental racial messages and stories. The last paper argues that youth can be victimized by racial cultural stereotyping despite being majority Black cultural members. Interdisciplinary commentaries by scholar researchers are given for each chapter. Researchers, academicians, and practitioners will find in this publication a succinct update inclusive of references and bibliographies regarding the latest information in the development and socialization of racial attitudes and racial stereotyping.

Joining Society Anne-Nelly Perret-Clermont, 2004 Joining Society asks precise questions: To what are the young socialized? Which skills, modes of thinking or action are required from them, and what are their developmental value? Socialization tends to be viewed within the confines of a particular geographical or cultural situation. The multi-national list of contributors brings an international perspective to the problem of socialization to work and to adult life while at the same time emphasizing the common issues that face youth around the world. Some of the topics addressed are the rules and roles involved in socialization, attaining personal agency through collective activity, use of new technologies, and the role of intergenerational relationships. This book sheds new light on the processes through which society may hope to intervene in positive ways with today's youth.
