more than one thousand entries covering all aspects of African history civilization and culture Approaching African History Michael Brett, 2013 Africa is a huge continent as large as the more habitable areas of Europe and Asia put together This book takes as its subject the last 10 000 years of African history and traces the way in which human society on the continent has evolved from communities of hunters and gatherers to the complex populations of today A History of African Societies to 1870 Elizabeth Isichei, 1997-04-13 This comprehensive and detailed exploration of the African past from prehistory to approximately 1870 is intended to provide a fully up to date complement to the Cambridge History of Africa Reflecting several emphases in recent scholarship it focusses on the changing modes of production on gender relations and on ecology laying particular stress on viewing history from below A distinctive theme is to be found in its analyses of cognitive history The work falls into three sections The first comprises a historiographic analysis and covers the period from the dawn of prehistory to the end of the Early Iron Age The second and third sections are for the most part organised on regional lines the second section ends in the sixteenth century the third carries the story on to 1870 A second volume now in preparation will cover the period from 1870 to 1995 This book attempts a more rounded view of African history than most of the other textbooks on the subject addressed to a largely undergraduate level student Earlier histories have tended to ignore some of the current foci in the scholarly literature on Africa generally not reflected in the textbooks these include discussions of topical issues like ecology and gender Isichei's book is also more radical The Civilizations of Africa Christopher Ehret, 2016 Since its initial publication The Civilizations of Africa has established itself as the most authoritative text available on early African history Addressing the glaring lack of works concentrating on earlier African eras Christopher Ehret's trailblazing book has been paired with histories of Africa since 1800 to build a full and well rounded understanding of the roles of Africa's peoples in human history Examining inventions and civilizations from 22 000 BCE to 1800 CE Ehret explores the wide range of social and cultural as well as technological and economic change in Africa relating all these facets of African history to developments in the rest of the world This updated edition incorporates new research as well as an extensive new selection of color images
