Gruesome Body:

Hideous Progeny Angela Smith, 2012-01-24 Twisted bodies deformed faces aberrant behavior and abnormal desires characterized the hideous creatures of classic Hollywood horror which thrilled audiences with their sheer grotesqueness Most critics have interpreted these traits as symptoms of sexual repression or as metaphors for other kinds of marginalized identities yet Angela M Smith conducts a richer investigation into the period's social and cultural preoccupations She finds instead a fascination with eugenics and physical and cognitive debility in the narrative and spectacle of classic 1930s horror heightened by the viewer's desire for visions of vulnerability and transformation Reading such films as Dracula 1931 Frankenstein 1931 Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde 1931 Freaks 1932 and Mad Love 1935 against early twentieth century disability discourse and propaganda on racial and biological purity Smith showcases classic horror's dependence on the narratives of eugenics and physiognomics She also notes the genre's conflicted and often contradictory visualizations Smith ultimately locates an indictment of biological determinism in filmmakers' visceral treatments which take the impossibility of racial improvement and bodily perfection to sensationalistic heights Playing up the artifice and conventions of disabled monsters filmmakers exploited the fears and yearnings of their audience accentuating both the perversity of the medical and scientific gaze and the debilitating experience of watching horror Classic horror films therefore encourage empathy with the disabled monster offering captive viewers an unsettling encounter with their own impairment Smith's work profoundly advances cinema and disability studies in addition to general histories concerning the construction of social and political attitudes toward the Other

Wooden Ponies Geordie Gilman, 2023-06-05 Wooden Ponies is a suspenseful story about an abandoned farmhouse that should have been burned to the ground years ago when the farmer Zeke Osborne gruesomely murdered his wife and their five young children and then disappeared in the middle of a snowstorm never to be seen again. Twenty-two years later two frantic mothers rushed into the sheriff's office hysterically shouting that their two young children had not returned home and were last seen riding their bicycles toward the old farmhouse to go fishing in a nearby pond. Sheriff Roger Lefebvre hoped he had seen the last of the Osborne farmhouse having witnessed the horrific aftermath of the Osborne murders in his first year as sheriff and a later unsolved murder of a realtor found hanging from a beam in the barn. Now in his last year of serving as the county sheriff Roger must again venture into the dark farmhouse hoping to find the children safe but will encounter even more horrifying mysteries.

What IS Sex? Alenka Zupancic, 2017-09-08 Why sexuality is at the point of a short circuit between ontology and epistemology. Consider sublimation conventionally understood as a substitute satisfaction for missing sexual satisfaction. But what if as Lacan claims we can get exactly the same satisfaction that we get from sex from talking or writing painting praying or other activities. The point is not to explain the satisfaction from talking by pointing to its sexual origin but that the satisfaction from talking is itself sexual. The satisfaction from talking contains a key to sexual satisfaction and not the other way around even a key to sexuality itself and its inherent contradictions. The Lacanian perspective would make the answer to the simple seeming question What is sex rather more complex. In this volume in the Short Circuits series Alenka Zupan i approaches the question from just this perspective considering sexuality a properly philosophical problem for psychoanalysis and by psychoanalysis she means that of Freud and Lacan not that of the kind of clinician practitioners called by Lacan orthopedists of the unconscious. Zupan i argues that sexuality is at the point of a short circuit between ontology and epistemology. Sexuality and knowledge are structured around a fundamental negativity which unites them at the point of the unconscious. The unconscious as linked to sexuality is the concept of an inherent link between being and knowledge in their very negativity.

Boon,2012-01-01 Ultimately I propose that considering internalization as embodiment is a critical methodological shift in understanding mystical methods in general and especially for probing recollection mysticism in depth The inner man as opposed to the outer man is a Pauline and Lutheran commonplace that is too frequently taken out of context leading historians of the Renaissance in general and of Spanish Renaissance religion in particular to value references to internal or mental methods of spirituality as an improvement over external or bodily rituals This book takes its cue from the recent cognitive turn in medieval studies that complicates studies of the body in religion by focusing on the embodied aspects of cognition claiming a continuum between body and soul rather than a hierarchy I argue that medieval theories of cognition made the divorce of the body from the soul impossible for a Galenic doctor even one who spoke of the body and the world with contempt and by implication impossible for his Castilian audience Without serious consideration of Laredo's reliance on an embodied soul rather than on a body-soul dualism therefore no proper assessment of the unitive stage of recogimiento can be made Introduction p 67
