From Practice to Praxis: A reflexive turn Susan Groundwater-Smith, 2016-11-10

From Practice to Praxis is an exploration of the development of ethical practice as it applies to the meaning of quality within the tradition of practitioner inquiry and participatory research. Chronicling some of her most important works, this is a compelling overview of Susan Groundwater Smith's contribution to the evolution of the nexus between thinking and theory as it stands between the academy and the field. It traces the steps between instrumental reasoning towards a more liberatory and challenging stance. The book selects from a number of publications, each representing the genesis of the nascent ideas that have informed Susan's practice as a scholar and researcher. Taking a praxis stance draws attention not only to procedural concerns (how things are done) but also substantive issues that are associated with different forms of dialogue and trustworthiness (why things are done). In addition to the assemblage of articles and chapters, the book is prefaced by a long essay that reveals those features of the writer's self-understanding as it is illuminated throughout the selection. The work is situated within a professional life history as well as relating to extant writings on theory and practice within a complex cultural and ever-changing professional educational environment. From Practice to Praxis will appeal to initial teacher education students in both primary and secondary settings as well as postgraduate students with an interest in action research participant research with both practitioners in the field and young people.

The Multifaith Movement: Global Risks and Cosmopolitan Solutions Anna Halaf, 2012-10-29

This book documents the ultramodern rise of the multifaith movement as multifaith initiatives have been increasingly deployed as cosmopolitan solutions to counter global risks such as terrorism and climate change at the turn of the 21st century. These projects aim to enhance common security, particularly in Western societies following the events of September 11, 2001, and the July 2005 London bombings, where multifaith engagement has been promoted as a strategy to counter violent extremism. The author draws on interviews with 56 leading figures in the field of multifaith relations, including Paul Knitter, Eboo Patel, Marcus Braybrooke, Katherine Marshall, John Voll, and Krista Tippett. Identifying the principle aims of the multifaith movement, the analysis explores the benefits and challenges of multifaith engagement as well as the effectiveness of multifaith initiatives in countering the process of radicalization. Building on notions of cosmopolitanism, the work proposes a new theoretical framework termed Netpeace, which recognizes the interconnectedness of global problems and their solutions. In doing so, it acknowledges the capacity of multi-actor peacebuilding networks, including religious and state actors, to address the pressing dilemmas of our times. The primary intention of the book is to assist in the formation of new models of activism and governance founded on a politics of understanding modeled by the multifaith movement.

A Case for Radical Pragmatic Leaders and Personalised Learning Schools Andrew Bills, 2020-06-23

Thousands of young people from disadvantaged backgrounds are forsaking education in secondary mainstream schools across Australia. This book places a sociological and lived experience phenomenological lens on public policy that is working against school inclusion learning engagement and post school opportunity The school case studies provided here highlight the damage done and the opportunity for refreshed policy approaches to address this malaise Across the educational landscape there are a number of fine examples of schools that are choosing to do schooling against the grain of unhelpful regulatory policy that works to exclude many from their educational entitlement These schools and their practices are examined in this book and are presented as examples for policy learning If education systems learn to embrace an ongoing culture of research and inquiry where the evidence based and contextual learning experiences of students teachers and Principals are equally valued and heard in the policy realm the phenomenon of early school leaving can begin to turn around This work calls upon Principals in the first instance to become more radical and pragmatic in their leadership of schools collectively working with courage to ensure that the experience of schooling is personalised to the learning needs and career aspirations of all young people

Student Equity in Australian Higher Education Andrew Harvey, Catherine Burnheim, Matthew Brett, 2016-03-29 This book examines twenty five years of the Australian framework for student equity in higher education A Fair Chance for All Divided into two sections the book reflects on the legacy of equity policy in higher education the effectiveness of current approaches and the likely challenges facing future policymakers The first section explores the creation of the framework including the major elements of the policy the political context of its development and how it compares with international models developed during the same period The performance of the six student equity groups identified within the framework is also examined The second section of the book considers future trends and challenges The Australian university sector has undergone seismic change in the past twenty five years and faces further changes of equal magnitude The twenty fifth anniversary of A Fair Chance for All comes as Australian higher education is poised for another wave of transformation with rising expansion competition and stratification While the emerging landscape is new the questions have changed little since A Fair Chance for All was first conceived How should we define student equity and what policies are likely to promote it
