Growing Up In Berkeley With The Bomb:

Growing Up in Berkeley with the Bomb Norman Lavers, 1998 Atoms, Bombs and Eskimo Kisses: A Memoir of Father and Son Claudio G. Segrè, 2019-08-09

There are few books that explore the complex relations between famous parents and their children I knew Claudio and his Nobel laureate father Emilio Segrè in this honest angry loving memoir I hear their voices again speaking across the gulf that all families struggle to bridge Richard Rhodes author of Dark Sun The Making of the Hydrogen Bomb This is a warm and openhearted book Claudio Segrè shows that all the traditional tensions between fathers and sons can still exist even in the extraordinary milieu he grew up in He evokes that experience with grace and a fine eye for the telling details Adam Hochschild author of Half the Way Home It is a wonderful book a coming of age story in the atomic era the struggle of a son for the love and respect of a famous father It is also a perceptive insight into the pursuit of science the price of fame and how families bridge differences between generations and cultures to find age old connections and ultimately love and understanding James Kunetka author of City of Fire Los Alamos and the Atomic Age and Oppenheimer The Years of Risk The Nobel Prize winning physicist Emilio Segrè gave an account of his own life in the posthumously published A Mind Always in Motion In the present book Segrè's only son now himself deceased gives an account of his growing up with such a father The experience as he describes it was not an easy one Transported in infancy from Italy to the United States Claudio was required to negotiate his way between his family's persistent conviction of European cultural superiority and the danger of being perceived as not one of us by his new compatriots Admiring his father he was conscious of himself as Son of Superman alternatively feeling eclipsed by and relishing the position Academically he was beset by a joyless desire to achieve and only seldom gained the praise or sympathy he longed for from his exacting and often sarcastic father But he discovered the delights of hot dogs comic books and baseball and forged ahead on his own by choosing the reputedly Red Reed College over his family's preferred Berkeley After graduation in search of work to which he could be as devoted as his father was to physics he spent some years as a journalist before ultimately making a creditable academic career as a historian along the way establishing an apparently satisfactory family life of his own The book ends with an account of his relations with his father as an adult including a disappointing attempt at a therapeutic confrontation

Katherine Livingston Science How does a son emerge from his father's shadow when it is the size of a mushroom cloud Such was the plight of Claudio G Segrè whose father Emilio won the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1959 and helped to create the atomic bomb He recounts his lifelong quest to establish an independent identity He also tells of his hope that his own success would earn him the respect and acceptance of his difficult father Segrè alternately describes his father as Superman a mighty king and a basilisk a mythical reptile whose very look is fatal Nevertheless his father emerges as a good caring man unsure how to handle the fame that separates him from his son It is tragic therefore that no true reconciliation occurs and that Segrè's only moment of catharsis takes place when it is already too late in 1989 when he delivers his father's eulogy Douglas A Sylva The

New York Times In this heartfelt counterpart to his father's autobiography A Mind Always in Motion journalist and professor Claudio Segr attempts to shed some thawing light on the cold peace between father and son that lasted until Emilio Segr's death in 1989 despite the affectionate nose rubbings of the title Publishers Weekly The son of a Nobel laureate and Manhattan Project collaborator meditates on the inspirations and disappointments of a difficult relationship In 1959 the author's father shared the Nobel Prize for his work on antimatter But fatherhood isn't as precise a science as physics and young Claudio mixed pride in his father's superman achievements with frustration and rage at the impossible standards and criticisms that so outweighed the occasional moment of affection between them Segr's memoir of an immigrant childhood is often poignant at bottom a thoughtful account of life with a father who found the behavior of atomic particles far easier to comprehend than the emotional life of his son Kirkus Reviews

Tangled Vines Frances Dinkelspiel, 2025-09-23 On October 12 2005 a massive fire broke out in the Wines Central wine warehouse in Vallejo California Within hours the flames had destroyed 4.5 million bottles of California's finest wine worth more than 250 million making it the largest destruction of wine in history The fire had been deliberately set by a passionate oenophile named Mark Anderson a skilled con man and thief with storage space at the warehouse who needed to cover his tracks With a propane torch and a bucket of gasoline soaked rags Anderson annihilated entire California vineyard libraries as well as bottles of some of the most sought after wines in the world Among the priceless bottles destroyed were 175 bottles of Port and Angelica from one of the oldest vineyards in California made by Frances Dinkelspiel's great great grandfather Isaias Hellman in 1875 Sadly Mark Anderson was not the first to harm the industry The history of the California wine trade dating back to the 19th Century is a story of vineyards with dark and bloody pasts tales of rich men strangling monopolies the brutal enslavement of vineyard workers and murder Five of the wine trade murders were associated with Isaias Hellman's vineyard in Rancho Cucamonga beginning with the killing of John Rains who owned the land at the time He was shot several times dragged from a wagon and left off the main road for the coyotes to feed on In her new book Frances Dinkelspiel looks beneath the casually elegant veneer of California's wine regions to find the obsession greed and violence lying in wait Few

Murphy, 2020-09-15 When D H Lawrence wrote his classic study of American literature he claimed that youth was the true myth of America Beginning from this assertion Emily A Murphy traces the ways that youth began to embody national hopes and fears at a time when the United States was transitioning to a new position of world power In the aftermath of World War II persistent calls for the nation to grow up and move beyond innocence became common and the child that had long served as a symbol of the nation was suddenly discarded in favor of a rebellious adolescent This era marked the beginning of a crisis of identity where literary critics and writers both sought to redefine U S national identity in light of the nation s new global position The figure of the adolescent is central to an understanding of U S national identity both past and present and of the cultural forms e g literature that participate in the ongoing process of representing the diverse experiences of Americans In tracing the evolution of this youthful figure Murphy revisits classics of American literature including J D Salinger s The Catcher in the Rye and Vladimir Nabokov's Lolita alongside contemporary bestsellers. The influence of the adolescent on some of America's greatest writers demonstrates the endurance of the myth that Lawrence first identified in 1923 and signals a powerful link between youth and one of the most persistent questions for the nation: What does it mean to be an American?

Bombs Away David G. Havlick, 2018-04-11 When viewed from space, the Korean Peninsula is crossed by a thin green ribbon. On the ground, its mix of dense vegetation and cleared borderlands serves as home to dozens of species that are extinct or endangered elsewhere on the peninsula. This is Korea's demilitarized zone, one of the most dangerous places on earth for humans and paradoxically one of the safest for wildlife. Although this zone was not intentionally created for conservation, across the globe, hundreds of millions of acres of former military zones and bases are being converted to restoration areas, refuges, and conservation lands. David G. Havlick has traveled the world visiting these spaces of military to wildlife transition, and in Bombs Away, he explores both the challenges, physical, historical, and cultural, and fascinating ecological possibilities of military site conversions. Looking at particular international sites of transition from Indiana's Big Oaks National Wildlife Refuge to Cold War remnants along the former Iron Curtain, Havlick argues that these new frontiers of conservation must accomplish seemingly antithetical aims: rebuilding and protecting ecosystems or restoring life while also commemorating the historical and cultural legacies of warfare and militarization. Developing these ideas further, he shows that despite the ecological devastation often wrought by military testing and training, these activities need not be inconsistent with environmental goals, and in some cases, can even complement them, a concept he calls ecological militarization. A profound, clear explication of landscapes both fraught and fecund, marked by death but also reservoirs of life, Bombs Away shows us how military activities, conservation goals, and ecological restoration efforts are made to work together.
