records management classifying records and documenting their context creating and capturing records managing appraisal retention and disposition maintaining records and assuring their integrity providing access implementing records management The appendices provide a wealth of additional information including a list of standards for records management an annotated bibliography and sources of further information and details of professional and advisory bodies Readership This much needed manual is an indispensable purchase for organizations wishing to introduce better practices for managing their records The book is intended to be of value to experienced records managers as well as LIS practitioners and newcomers to the field It should be on the desk of every manager and every information professional with responsibility for records management

Reference Services for Archives and Manuscripts Laura B Cohen, 2012-11-12 Like their librarian colleagues reference archivists mediate between the user and the source material However given the nature of archival materials and of their holding repositories unique issues arise While such matters as provenance and original order and access and security continue to be vital underpinnings of their work a myriad of other issues comes into play as reference archivists attempt to balance the competing demands of donors researchers the public and the press From the creation and dissemination of finding aids for electronic resources to the implementation of marketing strategies to increase support and strengthen service Reference Services for Archives and Manuscripts shows you how to thrive in the changing world of archival reference Intended to foster an appreciation of the issues both within and beyond the field of archives Reference Services for Archives and Manuscripts reveals that today's archivist is straddling the world of the traditional with the world of the new The book establishes its value as it guides you through new concerns such as how to take advantage of technological developments in appraisal accession and preservation address copyright privacy and funding issues for electronic resources mount archival cataloging records on local and wide area databases create a publicly available site on the Internet improve in house access tools professional abilities and the caliber of public service address security issues and respond to theft Reference Services for Archives and Manuscripts also helps you by preparing you for changes in the relationship between archivist and researcher that will inevitably occur with further changes in technology Other vital issues discussed are improved access for unserved and underserved groups a revision in ethical codes and the ability of archivists to become more customer centered

Recordkeeping, Ethics and Law Livia Iacovino, 2006-07-20 Distributed networks such as the Internet have altered the fundamental way a record is created captured accessed and managed over time and therefore who controls has access to and is responsible for its authenticity Law and ethics provide the major sources of regulatory controls over participants in such networks This book analyses the interrelationship of recordkeeping ethics and law in terms of existing regulatory models and their application to the Internet environment It proposes the legal and social relationship model as an analytical tool for identifying the rights and obligations of recordkeeping participants in networked business transactions within communities of common interest based on trust The model is also used to examine the legal concepts of property access privacy and evidence with particular reference to its Internet context As legal relationships have their basis in the law of obligations found in both common and civil law systems as well as archival science the model has a broad based application The approach in this book has been to reconcile a number of archival traditions the common strands rather than the differences in particular concepts of identity trust acts actors and social relationships as fundamental concepts to social regulation It is therefore primarily directed to archives and records academics and practitioners especially those working within the realm of electronic records in order to provide them with a sound theoretical and practical knowledge of the legal and ethical dimensions of records created in distributed environments
