According to the geographical range where it's practised, trade can be:

- Domestic: within a country's borders. It has two basic types:
 - a) Wholesale trade: buys large quantities of merchandise and sells them to other traders or businesses. For example...
 - b) Retail trade: sales directly to consumers. Traditional businesses are experiencing a crisis due to the large retail stores (supermarkets, shopping centres...). Retail trade has moved from the urban centre to the periphery in the last decades.
