Groundwater Quality Protection Policies for the Rocky Mountain Region and the Nation, 1986      Ground Water Quality Protection Strategy, Nebraska; Final Report Nebraska. Department of Environmental Quality. Water Quality Division, 1985 A plan to prevent ground water contamination and protect ground water quality in the state      Ground Water Quality Protection Deborah Fairchild, 1987-05-01 This new book provides a sound summary of the rapidly expanding body of knowledge on ground water pollution sources evaluation and control It is used to plan and implement ground water quality management programs and also may be used as a text The first three introductory chapters are about ground water quality its importance its management and information sources      Groundwater Quality Protection Stephen S. D. Foster, 2002 Groundwater is an essential natural resource for the economic and secure provision of drinking water supplies Pollution hazard assessment is an essential part of environmental best practice for water supply utilities both in terms of protecting groundwater quality from future pollution and mitigating threats posed by existing activities This book looks at the need for groundwater protection strategies and provides a technical guide to methodological approaches including mapping aquifer pollution vulnerability the delineation of groundwater supply protection areas developing an inventory of subsurface contaminant load and the assessment and control of groundwater pollution hazards The guide is particularly relevant for the Latin American and Caribbean region where many cities are highly dependent upon groundwater resources      Protecting the nation's groundwater from contamination.,      State Groundwater Protection Policies Larry B. Morandi, 1989 Ground Water Nazeer Ahmed, 1997-01-01 Prepared by the Task Committee on Ground Water Protection of the Water Resources Engineering Division of ASCE This report presents general hydrogeologic information on the occurrence of contamination in groundwater that applies nationwide as well as specific examples of approaches to groundwater protection used in various regions of the United States Because management and regulation of resources by regional authorities is one of the most important approaches to groundwater protection the majority of this report considers the approaches tried by different state and local authorities The great variety of strategies adopted by these agencies indicates the uniqueness of each aquifer and the need to adjust any strategy to account for site specific factors      Protecting the Nation's Groundwater from Contamination, 1984      Survey of State Ground-water Quality Protection Legislation Enacted from 1985 Through 1987 United States. Environmental Protection Agency. Office of Ground-Water Protection, 1988      Planning Workshops to Develop Recommendations for a Ground Water Protection Strategy, 1980      Preliminary Strategy Ground Water Quality Protection, 1987      Ground Water in Wisconsin Lon C. Ruedisili, 1972      Groundwater Quality Protection Practices Canada. Environment Canada, 1995 Reviews the applicability of groundwater protection practices developed within other jurisdictions to the Fraser River basin Begins with background information on groundwater sources within the four regions of the basin and discussion of the common sources of groundwater contamination including sources designed to discharge or store substances transport or transmission sources sources discharging substances as a consequence of other activities and naturally occurring sources affected by human activity Groundwater protection measures non regulatory and or regulatory are the reviewed and the final chapter outlines the steps involved in the development of a municipal groundwater quality protection plan Protection measures include monitoring waste collection land acquisition sewage control forest management zoning design and operation controls and inspection compliance measures Appendices include a detailed evaluation of nine selected groundwater protection plans that have been implemented at a municipal level

A Ground-water Protection Strategy for the Environmental Protection Agency United States. Environmental Protection Agency. Office of Ground-Water Protection,1984      Ground Water Contamination and Protection United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Environment and Public Works. Subcommittee on Toxic Substances and Environmental Oversight,1985      Citizen's guide to ground-water protection ,      Planning for Groundwater Protection G. William Page,2012-12-02 Planning for Groundwater Protection focuses on toxic substances contamination problems of groundwater in the United States and other industrially developed countries This book discusses the potential health risks of toxic substances caused by contamination of groundwater Organized into 14 chapters this book starts with an overview of the method in which pollutants enter the groundwater system and the natural defense mechanisms operative in the subsurface This text then proceeds with a discussion of the groundwater monitoring activities that are necessary for groundwater planning and protection which includes protecting groundwater from pollution and protecting groundwater supplies from overdraft Other chapters consider the laws and institutions that are established to protect groundwater from contamination including the Safe Drinking Water Act the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act RCRA and the Comprehensive Environmental Response Compensation and Liability Act CERCLA laws implemented by the Environmental Protection Agency This book is a valuable resource for sanitarians environmentalists chemical engineers and urban planners      A Ground Water Strategy for New Jersey New Jersey. Department of Environmental Protection,1989      State Groundwater Protection Legislation Larry B. Morandi,1990      Ground water quality protection ,1987 At the request of the Environmental Protection Agency the National Research Council established a Committee on Ground Water Quality to provide guidance on developing and enhancing ground water protection programs Summaries are presented of ten state and three local programs that represent a range of situations problems and solutions Those significant technical and institutional features that show progress and promise in providing protection of ground water quality are identified While no single program was held out as amodel for others to follow the committee found many different practices in the programs reviewed that provide an array of alternative program designs Approaches are described for information management classification standards source control and implementation
