Grouse Foolish And Other Stories:

Grouse Foolish and Other Stories Harry Vanderweide, 1979      Down East, 1980      Maine Books, 1983      The Phantom Setter, and Other Stories Robert Murphy, 1966      Back o' the Moon, and other stories Oliver Onions, 2019-12-03

In Back o the Moon and other stories Oliver Onions weaves a tapestry of narratives that explore the intricacies of human experience intertwined with the supernatural. Characterized by his distinctive style, Onions adeptly blends realism with the eerie, giving rise to a collection that resonates with the psychological complexities of his characters. Each story navigates themes of memory, identity, and the uncanny, often unfolding in settings that evoke a profound sense of place rooted in the early 20th-century English landscape, contributing significantly to the broader tradition of ghost stories and speculative fiction of the time.

Oliver Onions, born in 1873, emerged as a notable figure in early modernist literature, often overshadowed by his contemporaries. His experiences as a writer and editor in a rapidly changing society informed his literary voice, one that frequently oscillated between the ordinary and the extraordinary. Onions' interest in the supernatural and his ability to transcend the mundane with psychological depth were likely influenced by both his personal encounters and the shifting societal paradigms of the post-Victorian era.

For readers drawn to atmospheric storytelling and psychological insight, Back o the Moon and other stories is a recommended exploration of the human psyche's darker corners. Onions' nuanced portrayals and haunting narratives challenge the boundaries of reality, inviting readers to question their perceptions of the world around them.

The Carcass & Other Stories Dave Sims, 2020-03-17

I'm pleased to have been asked to write the forward to this collection of splendid and heretofore mostly unseen short stories, all of which were written from roughly the mid-1980s to the mid-2000s by my longstanding friend and constant teacher, Dave Sims. Mostly, the stories transpire in what might reasonably be called working-class settings. They're inhabited by a range of peculiar characters, many of them troubled and distressed, some of them near death, all of them ingeniously sprung from Sims' singularly rich and fertile imagination. These are stories that deserve to be read, pondered, and, of course, enjoyed.

While recently re-reading them, I was struck as happened often when I first encountered them years ago, by how strange and real and fully alive the characters seemed. I marveled once again at the details and contours of the stories themselves, their beautiful and inventive architecture, the snap and rhythm of the sentences, and the keen, restless intelligence from whence they sprang.

Lambing Out and Other Stories Mary Clearman Blew, 2001-04-01

The short fiction of Mary Clearman Blew, set in Montana, reflects the brutality of the region as seen in the mountains, the severe weather, and the personal hardships of the people living there. In each of these seven stories, the characters, driven to hurt or be hurt, reflect a range of violence in their interaction with each other, their relationships with animals, or the effect the harsh environment has on their lives. Whether the turmoil is external, the snowstorm in Lambing Out, or internal, the sisters' memories in Paths unto the Dead, its toll on the person touched is clear and sharp. The result is an acceptance of even a love for the cruelty of the harsh environment.

Girls' Night Out: And Other

Stories of Myrcia J.S. Mawdsley, 2023-12-16 Growing up is hard for everyone but when you're a member of a frankly terrible family royalty or both it's especially hard See how the future leaders of Myrcia came of age in these standalone fantasy short stories

Chelkash and Other Stories Maksim Gorky, 2020-09-28 This happened in 1892 a famine year at a point between Sukhum and Ochetchiry on the shore of the Kodor River so near the sea that through the gay babble of the clear waters of the mountain stream the muffled thunder of the billows was distinctly heard It was an autumn day Yellow cherry laurel leaves were circling and glistening in the white foam of the Kodor like nimble salmon fry I was sitting on some rocks near the bank and reflecting that the sea gulls and cormorants too must be mistaking the leaves for fish and that was why their cries were so fretful over there to the right behind the trees where the sea was rumbling The chestnut trees overhead were decked out in gold at my feet lay piles of leaves which looked like the palms of hands that had been cut off On the opposite bank the hornbeam boughs were already bare and hung in the air like a torn net caught in it as it were a red and yellow mountain woodpecker hopped along tapping the bark with his black beak while adroit titmice and dove colored nuthatches visitors from the distant north pecked the insects he drove out To the left above the mountain peaks hung smoky heavy rain laden clouds they cast shadows over the green slopes dotted with boxwood the dead tree Here in the hollows of old beeches and lindens is found that heady honey the intoxicating sweetness of which nearly caused the downfall of the soldiers of Pompey the Great long ago having overcome a whole legion of iron Romans The bees make it from laurel and azalea blossoms and tramps get it out of the hollows and eat it spreading it on what the natives called lavash a thin flat cake made of wheat flour That is exactly what I was doing as I sat under the chestnut trees Stung all over by angry bees I was dipping pieces of bread into a kettle full of honey and eating while I admired the lazy play of the weary autumnal sun

Bluebeard's Goat and Other Stories H. L. Mencken, 2012-12-04 H. L. Mencken in his illustrious career as a journalist made his reputation with satirical writing and controversial ideals Although his is a name not customarily associated with short fiction it was his first literary love From 1900 to 1919 he published nearly 60 stories and short shorts sometimes pseudonymously Here for the first time 30 of Mencken's thoroughly entertaining stories are collected showcasing Mencken's wit and skill in a medium for which he is not well known. Meet a bumbling anarchist newspaper editor, the Charmed Circle of Long Island in a story strikingly prescient of F. Scott Fitzgerald, a shop owner whose mannequins belie a horrific secret, and a pair of wily entrepreneurs working in the Caribbean among plenty of other excellent amusing and memorable stories. Superb clever or hilarious use of language. Read Epithalamium, a sendup of the social rigmarole of marriage for its exquisite choice of words, or the Poe-esque The Window of Horrors about a clothier and his obsession with life-like mannequins for its chills. For quintessential Mencken, read The Man of God, whose lowly grocer becomes an evangelist. Publishers Weekly

The Princess and Other Stories Anton Pavlovich Chekhov, 1999. A practising doctor, Chekhov was an acute observer of Russian society's moral as well as physical sickness. Joining The Russian Master, Ward Number Six, and A Woman's Kingdom in the World's Classics series, this collection including The Party After the Theatre and A Case History again poses his recurrent literary quandary of whether to moralize, hoping to reform these ailments, or simply to entertain. The solution is to be found in the stories themselves, which like his plays offer no easy answers but pinpoint the anguish, tedium, or downright evil of his characters with an irony that makes them both poignant and truthful.

Books Out-of-print, 1986      Patrick White's *The Eye of the Storm, Voss, and Other Novels Herbert Reaske, 1977

How the Two Ivans Quarrelled and Other Russian Comic Stories Nikolai Gogol, 2019-07-07. The first story in this volume, How the Two Ivans Quarrelled, is an amusing portrayal of two exceptionally close friends, the mortal insult that drives them apart, and the ensuing chaos that occurs. This is Gogol's humour at its best, where the most irrelevant-seeming details and turns of phrase suddenly take on a bizarre life of their own. The second story, Ivan Krylov's Panegyric in Memory of My Grandfather, has an ingenuous narrator praise the nobility and modesty of a landowner whose actions prove him to be otherwise. The final two stories by the Russian satirist Mikhail Saltykov-Shchedrin are satirical attacks on the inability of civil servants to cope with real life and on Russia's autocracy. Together they represent some of Russia's finest comic writing before the twentieth century.

Ward Number Six and Other Stories Anton Pavlovich Chekhov, 1998. Writing towards the close of the nineteenth century, Chekhov himself a country doctor, recorded in his fiction the symptoms of a diseased society. The seven stories collected here are a bleakly savage indictment of a society paralysed by spiritual malaise and morbidly conscious of evils which can neither be killed nor cured. This volume also contains an Introduction by Ronald Hingley.
