Growing Up In A Company Town:

Growing Up in St. Francois County James Bequette, 2001 In 1673 Father Marquette and Louis Joliet paddled southward down the Mississippi River and maintained a detailed journal of their observations Their reports spoke glowingly of vast mineral deposits in the area destined to become Southeastern Missouri From those earliest known beginnings and continuing until the outbreak of the Civil War numerous mining camps flourished The St Joseph Lead Company located in Bonne Terre St Francois County became the world's largest producer of lead ore With nearly 100 vintage images and personal stories of growing up in Bonne Terre James Bequette's informative memoir displays the influence the lead company had on the community and in turn the love the community had for St Joe The first image seen by visitors of the town ring true proclaiming Welcome to Bonne Terre Good Earth Good People

Company Towns in the Americas Oliver Jürgen Dinius, Angela Vergara, 2011-01-01 Company towns were the spatial manifestation of a social ideology and an economic rationale The contributors to this volume show how national politics social protest and local culture transformed those founding ideologies by examining the histories of company towns in six countries Argentina Firmat Brazil Volta Redonda Santos Fordl ndia Canada Sudbury Chile El Salvador Mexico Santa Rosa R o Blanco and the United States Anaconda Kellogg and Sunflower City Company towns across the Americas played similar economic and social roles They advanced the frontiers of industrial capitalism and became powerful symbols of modernity They expanded national economies by supporting extractive industries on thinly settled frontiers and as a result brought more land natural resources and people under the control of corporations U S multinational companies exported ideas about work discipline race and gender to Latin America as they established company towns there to extend their economic reach Employers indeed shaped social relations in these company towns through education welfare and leisure programs but these essays also show how working class communities reshaped these programs to serve their needs The editors introduction and a theoretical essay by labor geographer Andrew Herod provide the context for the case studies and illuminate how the company town serves as a window into both the comparative and transnational histories of labor under industrial capitalism

Growing Up with the Town Dorothy Schwieder, 2005-05 In this unusual blend of chronological and personal history Dorothy Hubbard Schwieder combines scholarly sources with family memories to create a loving and informed history of Presho South Dakota and her family's life there from the time of settlement in 1905 to the mid 1950s Schwieder tells the story of this small town in the West River country with its harsh and unpredictable physical environment through the activities of her father Walter Hubbard and his family of ten children Walter Hubbard's experiences as a business owner and town builder and his attitudes toward work education and family both reflected and shaped the lives of Presho's inhabitants and the town itself While most histories of the Plains focus on farm life Schwieder writes entirely about small town society She uses newspaper accounts state and county histories census data interviews with residents and the childhood memories of herself and her nine siblings to create an entwined first hand social and economic portrait of life on main street from the perspective of its citizens

Growing Up In A Pennsylvania Steel Town Edward Nebinger,2012-10-01 The author was inspired to write these memoirs of the years he spent growing up in the Pennsylvania steel town of Bethlehem before the Second World War by the realization that they were a pivotal time in American history While Americans were struggling with the economic hardships of the Great Depression they never gave up and instead made the best of what they had Out of their triumph over hardship grew the generation that fought and won the Second World War The society and culture exemplified by the Pennsylvania steel towns has now vanished but it is hard not to think that while we have gained much as a society we have also lost far too many things worthy of preservation One of these was the great Bethlehem Steel plant itself the ruins of which stretch for miles along the Lehigh River Dominating the ruins are the ghostly remains of the five great blast furnaces preserved to remind people of the greatness that was once Bethlehem Steel and the community that lived in its shadows Growing Up
