My Body

There are lots of ways our bodies are similar to and different from people around us. Some of these similarities are body parts that we may all have. These may include heads, wrists, necks, hands, arms and legs. The genitals are an example of ways male and female bodies are different. Female bodies have genitals called a vulva and a vagina, and male bodies have genitals called a penis and testicles.

These are the bodies of two children. They are different from each other. They are also different from the bodies of other children. They are also different from the bodies of adults.

Key Vocabulary

genitals

Parts of our body that are private. Females have genitals called a vulva and a vagina, and males have genitals called a penis and testicles.

private parts

Parts of our body that are just for us.

similar

To be like someone else or the same in certain ways.

different

To not be the same in certain ways.

vulva

Part of the female genitals.

penis

Part of the male genitals.

vagina

Part of the female genitals.

testicles

Part of the male genitals.

respect

A way of treating or thinking about someone that shows they are important and they are valued.

consent

To give permission or agree to something.

trusted adults

Adults who we know we can talk to about anything that worries us.

rules

Instructions we need to follow to stay safe.

stereotypes

Thinking someone knows something about someone else based on the way they look, the way they speak, where they come from or their gender.

unique

Something that is special and unlike anything else.

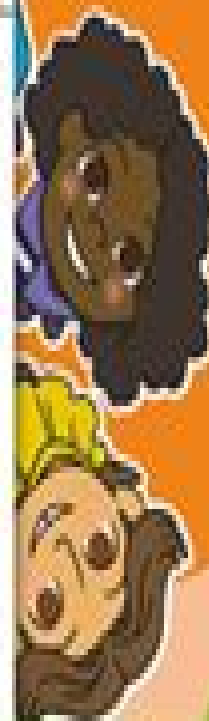

change

When something becomes different.

Each of these changes may be uncomfortable. Talking to family, talking to allowing ourselves to get like some things that were, we may have more a change and our bodies ask about what we might if we know something is the next class, there are this. This way, we will change.
