Fall present a thorough discussion of the rationale for using group counseling with an emphasis on the group's role as a preventive environment and as a setting for self discovery. The authors examine the group facilitator's internal frame of reference and ways to overcome initial anxiety about leading groups and they also explore typical problems in the development, facilitation and termination of the group process and provide suggested solutions. Application of group counseling is considered with children, adolescents, adults as well as with special populations such as abused children, juvenile offenders and individuals with emotional difficulties. A helpful glossary of group counseling terminology provides a quick reference source for important terms. New to this edition are a chapter on diversity and social justice in group work, an expanded chapter on co leadership, a topic often ignored in other group counseling texts, separate chapters on group work with children and group work with adolescents so that reader can focus more easily on the unique aspects of working with each population, a chapter on evaluating groups at the leader, group and individual member levels. A collection of supplemental resources is available online to benefit both instructors and students. Instructors will find PowerPoint slides and test banks to aid in conducting their courses and students can access questions for thought and reflection to supplement their review of the chapters in the text.
