Growing Up Godless Anna Strhan,Rachael Shillitoe,2025-05-20 In Britain as in many other countries across Europe non religion has now replaced Christianity as the cultural default especially among younger age groups There is for the first time a no religion majority and only around half the overall population now express belief in some kind of God And while religion continues to feature prominently in children's education in countries like the UK schools are increasingly making space in the classroom for nonreligious stances toward life But as of yet there has been scant scholarly attention accorded to what this development means for children and families with young children Religion has long been seen as an important aspect of an upbringing that stresses character development and good moral conduct What does such an upbringing look like when children grow up non religious This book explores how when where and with whom children learn to be non religious paying particular attention to the everyday practices through which non religion is transmitted from parents and in some cases school teachers to children In this book Strhan and Shillitoe draw on their extensive ethnographic fieldwork in family homes and in children s schools and on in depth interviews with children parents and school teachers in three contrasting sites in England The views of the children themselves mostly aged 7 11 years old a period when children become aware of their identities and worldviews are taken seriously alongside those of their caregivers and instructors The authors argue that nonreligious children and their parents are motivated by an ethics focused on equality compassion and social justice values seen as unconnected to churches and other religious institutions
