Education for Manhood Samuel Levi Horst, 1977      Education for Manhood Samuel L. Horst, 1987      The Education of Blacks in the South, 1860-1935 James D. Anderson, 2010-01-27 James Anderson critically reinterprets the history of southern black education from Reconstruction to the Great Depression By placing black schooling within a political cultural and economic context he offers fresh insights into black commitment to education the peculiar significance of Tuskegee Institute and the conflicting goals of various philanthropic groups among other matters Initially ex slaves attempted to create an educational system that would support and extend their emancipation but their children were pushed into a system of industrial education that presupposed black political and economic subordination This conception of education and social order supported by northern industrial philanthropists some black educators and most southern school officials conflicted with the aspirations of ex slaves and their descendants resulting at the turn of the century in a bitter national debate over the purposes of black education Because blacks lacked economic and political power white elites were able to control the structure and content of black elementary secondary normal and college education during the first third of the twentieth century Nonetheless blacks persisted in their struggle to develop an educational system in accordance with their own needs and desires

Jordan, 1995 A study of the role of Afro Virginians in the Civil War      Encyclopedia of African-American Education Charles A. Asbury, D. Kamili Anderson, Michael Fultz, Sylvia M. Jacobs, Faustine C. Jones-Wilson, Margo Okazawa-Rey, 1996-08-28 This indispensable reference is a comprehensive guide to significant issues policies historical events laws theories and persons related to the education of African Americans in the United States Through several hundred alphabetically arranged entries the volume chronicles the history of African American education from the systematic long term denial of schooling to blacks before the Civil War to the establishment of the Freedmen s Bureau and the era of Reconstruction to Brown v Board of Education and the civil rights reforms of the last few decades Entries are written by expert contributors and contain valuable bibliographies while a selected bibliography of general sources concludes the volume The African American population is unique in that its educational history includes as law and public policy the systematic long term denial of the acquisition of knowledge In the 18th century African Americans were initially legally forbidden to be taught academic subjects in the South where most African Americans lived This period which ended around 1865 with the conclusion of the Civil War and the establishment of the Freedmen s Bureau was followed by the introduction of laws policies and practices providing for rudimentary education for 69 years under the dual school separate but equal policies established by Plessy v Ferguson 1896 These policies did not end until the Brown v Board of Education decisions of 1954 and 1955 were reinforced by the passage of civil rights and equal opportunity legislation in the mid 1960s The education of African Americans has been a continuing moral political legal economic and psychological issue throughout this country's history. It continues to consume time and attention and it remains an unresolved dilemma for the nation. Through several hundred alphabetically arranged entries, this indispensable reference offers a comprehensive overview of significant issues, policies, historical events, laws, persons, and theories related to African American education from the early years of this country to the present day. The entries are written by expert contributors and each entry includes a bibliography of works for further reading. Virginia at War, 1865 William C. Davis, James I. Robertson, 2012-01-06 The final volume in this comprehensive history of Confederate Virginia examines the end of the Civil War in the Old Dominion. By January 1865, most of Virginia's schools were closed, many newspapers had ceased publication, businesses suffered, and food was scarce. Having endured major defeats on their home soil and the loss of much of the state's territory to the Union army, Virginia's Confederate soldiers began to desert at higher rates than at any other time in the war, returning home to provide their families with whatever assistance they could muster. It was a dark year for Virginia. Virginia at War 1865 presents a striking depiction of a state ravaged by violence and destruction. In the final volume of the Virginia at War series, editors William C. Davis and James I. Robertson Jr. have once again assembled an impressive collection of essays covering topics that include land operations, women and families, wartime economy, music and entertainment, the demobilization of Lee's army, and the war's aftermath. The volume ends with the final installment of Judith Brockenbrough McGuire's popular and important Diary of a Southern Refugee during the War.

Christianity and Race in the American South Paul Harvey, 2016-11-21 This in-depth study examines the social structures and religious beliefs that helped shape Southern history from colonization to the twenty-first century. The history of race and religion in the American South is infused with tragedy, survival, resistance, and even transcendence. In Christianity and Race in the American South, Paul Harvey provides an enlightening narrative history that fundamentally transforms our understanding of American Christianity and religious identity. Harvey examines the intertwined histories of race and religion in the South dating back to the first days of European settlement. He reveals a complex story rife with strange alliances, unlikely parallels, and far too many tragedies. He shows how the role of Southern churches was critically shaped by the conflicts over slavery and race that defined southern life. More broadly, Harvey's book offers essential insight into today's volatile brew of race, violence, religion, and southern identity.

Schooling the Freed People Ronald E. Butchart, 2010-09-27 Conventional wisdom holds that freedmen's education was largely the work of privileged single white northern women motivated by evangelical beliefs and abolitionism. Backed by pathbreaking research, Ronald E. Butchart's Schooling the Freed People shatters this notion. The most comprehensive quantitative study of the origins of black education in freedom ever undertaken, this definitive book on freedmen's teachers in the South is an outstanding contribution to social history and our understanding of African American education.

Histories of Social Studies and Race: 1865-2000 Christine Woyshner, Chara Haeussler Bohan, 2012-09-06 This collection of historical essays on race develops lines of inquiry into race and social studies such as geography history and vocational education Contributors focus on the ways African Americans were excluded or included in the social education curriculum and the roles that black teachers played in crafting social education curricula Education of the African American Adult Harvey Neufeldt, Leo McGee, 1990-07-24 The essays in this collection highlight some of the efforts made by both blacks and whites to promote adult education for the African American community from 1619 to the present Part I highlights adult education efforts in antebellum society The flurry of educational activities within the African American community during the periods of the Civil War and Reconstruction are the focus of Part II Part III examines institutional governmental and voluntary association efforts in black adult education since the 1890s Race, Politics, and Reconstruction Rory McGovern, Ronald G. Machoian, 2024-10-11 The first in depth study of racial integration at West Point after the Civil War Race Politics and Reconstruction tells the story of racial integration at the United States Military Academy after the Civil War and spotlights the social environment and cultural currents that led to its failure The first attempt to racially integrate West Point proved not simply a lost opportunity but an opportunity sabotaged with shocking degrees of forethought and deliberation By investigating West Point's experience with race from varied and nuanced perspectives including those of the first Black cadets the US Army officer corps white cadets the Academy's faculty and staff and the Black and white American publics the contributors to this volume cast both the promise and the failure of integration at West Point as an illuminating microcosm of Reconstruction itself Contributors Jonathan D Bratten Army National Guard Makonen A Campbell United States Military Academy Adam H Domby Auburn University Le Trice Donaldson Auburn University Louisa Koebrich US Army North Ronald G Machoian University of Wisconsin Madison Cameron McCoy US Naval War College Rory McGovern United States Military Academy Amanda M Nagel US Army Command and General Staff College Toussaint Louverture and the American Civil War Matthew J. Clavin, 2012-02-23 At the end of the eighteenth century a massive slave revolt rocked French Saint Domingue the most profitable European colony in the Americas Under the leadership of the charismatic former slave François Dominique Toussaint Louverture a disciplined and determined republican army consisting almost entirely of rebel slaves defeated all of its rivals and restored peace to the embattled territory The slave uprising that we now refer to as the Haitian Revolution concluded on January 1 1804 with the establishment of Haiti the first black republic in the Western Hemisphere The Haitian Revolution cast a long shadow over the Atlantic world In the United States according to Matthew J Clavin there emerged two competing narratives that vied for the revolution's legacy One emphasized vengeful African slaves committing unspeakable acts of violence against white men women and children The other was the story of an enslaved people who under the leadership of Louverture vanquished their oppressors in an effort to eradicate slavery and build a new nation Toussaint Louverture and the American Civil War examines the significance of these competing narratives in American society on the eve of and during the Civil War Clavin argues that at the height of the longstanding conflict between North and South Louverture and the Haitian Revolution were resonant polarizing symbols which antislavery and proslavery groups exploited both to provoke a violent confrontation and to determine the fate of slavery in the United States In public orations and printed texts African Americans and their white allies insisted that the Civil War was a second Haitian Revolution a bloody conflict in which thousands of armed bondmen American Toussaints would redeem the republic by securing the abolition of slavery and proving the equality of the black race Southern secessionists and northern anti abolitionists responded by launching a cultural counterrevolution to prevent a second Haitian Revolution from taking place Christian Reconstruction Joe M. Richardson,2009-01-20 Christian Reconstruction traces the history of the American Missionary Association the most ambitious and successful of the many benevolent societies that worked with the former slaves during the Civil War and Reconstruction Navigating Liberty John Cimprich,2022-11-02 Winner of the Phi Alpha Theta Best Subsequent Book Award When thousands of African Americans freed themselves from slavery during the American Civil War and launched the larger process of emancipation hundreds of northern antislavery reformers traveled to the federally occupied South to assist them The two groups brought views and practices from their backgrounds that both helped and hampered the transition out of slavery While enslaved many Blacks assumed a certain guarded demeanor when dealing with whites In freedom they resented northerners paternalistic attitudes and preconceptions about race leading some to oppose aid programs included those related to education vocational training and religious and social activities initiated by whites Some interactions resulted in constructive cooperation and adjustments to curriculum but the frequent disputes more often compelled Blacks to seek additional autonomy In an exhaustive analysis of the relationship between the formerly enslaved and northern reformers John Cimprich shows how the unusual circumstances of emancipation in wartime presented new opportunities and spawned social movements for change yet produced intractable challenges and limited results Navigating Liberty serves as the first comprehensive study of the two groups collaboration and conflict adding an essential chapter to the history of slavery s end in the United States Authority and the Historical Document in Late Twentieth-Century Literature Elizabeth Rich,2021-08-23 After the Fact Authority and the Historical Document in Late Twentieth Century Literature examines historiographic metafiction s epistemological concern with the historical document The six texts herein recover official and neglected documents viewing history from marginal perspectives endeavoring an ethical reconsideration of dominant historical narratives Thematically paired chapters focus on eye witness narratives legal and official government documents and news publications The first two chapters D M Thomas The White Hotel with Toni Morrison s Beloved explore the writers reconsideration of eye witness accounts specifically the Holocaust survivor narrative and the slave narrative The second pair reviews mythologies of the nation in the United States Susan Howe s Singularities rewrites the Indian captivity narrative Hannah Weiner s Spoke revises the 1868 Black Hills treaty to focus on how popular and official texts promote the colonial imaginary and function to justify colonial expansion The final two chapters examine Margaret Atwood s Alias Grace and Robert Coover's The Public Burning which critique the press's authority by questioning its claim to objectivity      Before Jim Crow Jane Dailey, 2009-11-30 Long before the Montgomery bus boycott ushered in the modern civil rights movement black and white southerners struggled to forge interracial democracy in America This innovative book examines the most successful interracial coalition in the nineteenth century South Virginia's Readjuster Party and uncovers a surprising degree of fluidity in postemancipation southern politics Melding social cultural and political history Jane Dailey chronicles the Readjusters efforts to foster political cooperation across the color line She demonstrates that the power of racial rhetoric and the divisiveness of racial politics derived from the everyday experiences of individual Virginians from their local encounters on the sidewalk before the magistrate's bench in the schoolroom In the process she reveals the power of black and white southerners to both create and resist new systems of racial discrimination The story of the Readjusters shows how hard white southerners had to work to establish racial domination after emancipation and how passionately black southerners fought each and every infringement of their rights as Americans      (Re)Constructing Memory: Textbooks, Identity, Nation, and State James H. Williams, Wendy D. Bokhorst-Heng, 2016-07-08 This book engages readers in thirteen conversations presented by authors from around the world regarding the role that textbooks play in helping readers imagine membership in the nation Authors voices come from a variety of contexts some historical some contemporary some providing analyses over time But they all consider the changing portrayal of diversity belonging and exclusion in multiethnic and diverse societies where silenced invisible marginalized members have struggled to make their voices heard and to have their identities incorporated into the national narrative The authors discuss portrayals of past exclusions around religion ethnicity sexual orientation as they look at the shifting boundaries of insider and outsider This book is thus about who we are not only demographically but also in terms of the past especially how and whether we teach discredited pasts through textbooks The concluding chapters provides ways forward in thinking about what can be done to promote curricula that are more inclusive critical and positively bonding in increasingly larger and more inclusive contexts      Race Man Ann Field Alexander, 2002 Although he has largely receded from the public consciousness John Mitchell Jr the editor and publisher of the Richmond Planet was well known to many black and not a few white Americans in his day A contemporary of Booker T Washington Mitchell contrasted sharply with Washington in temperament In his career as an editor politician and businessman Mitchell followed the trajectory of optimism bitter disappointment and retrenchment that characterized African American life in the Reconstruction and Jim Crow South Best known for his crusade against lynching in the 1880s Mitchell was also involved in a number of civil rights crusades that seem more contemporary to the 1950s and 1960s than the turn of that century He led a boycott against segregated streetcars in 1904 and fought residential segregation in Richmond in 1911 His political career included eight years on the Richmond city council which ended with disenfranchisement in 1896 As Jim Crow strengthened its hold on the South Mitchell like many African American leaders turned to creating strong financial institutions within the black community He became a bank president and urged Planet readers to comport themselves as gentlemen but a year after he ran for governor in 1921 Mitchell's fortunes suffered a drastic reversal His bank failed and he was convicted of fraud and sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary The conviction was overturned on technicalities but the so called reforms that allowed state regulation of black businesses had done their worst and Mitchell died in poverty and some disgrace Basing her portrait on thorough primary research conducted over several decades Ann Field Alexander brings Mitchell to life in all his complexity and contradiction a combative resilient figure of protest and accommodation who epitomizes the African American experience in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries
