The Politics Of Linking Schools And Social Services

Louise Adler, Sid Gardner, 2002-11-01 From the time the reform movement began in the progressive era with concerns about public health and universal access to education arguments have been raised for and against linking schools and social services and the merits or otherwise of each system A new argument for the collaboration is that integration will lead to substantially better services than those provided by separate organizations This volume brings together a wide array of cross national research and public policy issues to focus on a new framework of service provision It looks at the different networks of organizations of which schools and social services have been a part and at the political implications or results of bringing together the professionals from such organizations It takes into account the constraints resulting from the larger institutional network experience by such organizations The book also presents a range of perspectives on the way preparation is followed by four responses that present somewhat varying points of view The contributors come from a wide range of experiences including specialists in politics of education law urban studies children s issues and those providing reflections on practical experience

Schools Of The 21st Century Matia Finn-stevenson, 2018-02-12 An engaging discussion about the new roles schools are taking and how they are expanding their traditional mission n this timely book Matia Finn Stevenson and Edward Zigler argue that the federal government alone cannot address the need for child care and family support services that like education should be addressed locally The authors use their Schools of the 21st Century 21C program as an example of how schools can provide child care outreach services home visitations and health and nutrition services in addition to reading writing and arithmetic Whereas Part Two of the book discusses the authors Schools of the 21st Century program in considerable detail Parts One and Three address a broader range of issues concerning the effects that early education has on later school success and the various policy and conceptual approaches that have been tried both nationally and internationally in an effort to reform schools The authors also critically review the research on the effects of child care on childrens development and the importance of family support services Included is a wealth of information on the research and practical applications of school reform initiatives in general and the implementation of child and family support services in particular In this timely book Matia Finn Stevenson and Edward Zigler argue that the federal government alone cannot address the need for child care and family support services that like education should be addressed locally The authors use their Schools of the 21st Century 21C program as an example of how schools can provide child care outreach services home visitations and health and nutrition services in addition to reading writing and arithmetic Conceptualized in 1987 in response to the child care crisis in this country 21C has been implemented in over 600 schools in seventeen states However schools involvement with increasingly younger children is not without controversy The authors also address questions regarding evaluation and effective implementation and scale up strategies and consider what changes in teacher training programs should occur to prepare teachers for working in schools of the twenty first century what provisions should be made to accommodate for the need to staff schools with personnel trained in early child development and what changes need to be made in the financial structures of schools to accommodate child care and support services Whereas Part Two of the book discusses the authors Schools of the 21st Century program in considerable detail Parts One and Three address a broader range of issues concerning the effects that early education has on later school success and the various policy and conceptual approaches that have been tried both nationally and internationally Finn Stevenson and Zigler also critically review the research on the effects of child care on children and other school reform initiatives that have been implemented in schools Schools of the 21st Century is an engaging discussion about the new roles schools are taking and how they are expanding their traditional mission Shaping the Culture of Schooling Cheryl Taylor Desmond, 1996-01-01 Focusing on the cultural history of the origins of outcome based education OBE this book investigates the social and economic culture of Johnson City New York schools OBE has often been proclaimed the salvation for ailing American schools and has spread to thousands of school districts throughout the United States The reform has also been the lightning rod for fierce challenges from community members who oppose OBE s dismantling of the bell shaped curve and its promotion of secular humanism The author uncovers the messy business of school change and its deep roots in the values of the local community and economy Grounding the story historically and theoretically Desmond analyzes the reshaping of the Johnson City schools from a production mill for blue collar workers to a development center of technologically minded middle class well educated citizens She argues that the heart of successful synergistic school reform lies in the consensus that children have unlimited learning capacity and a long term moral leadership that is committed to caring reciprocal relationships of power
