

On Edge Human Action Recognition Using Radar-Based Sensing and Deep Learning

Christian Gianoglio , Member, IEEE, Ammar Mohanna , Ali Rizik , Laurence Moroney , and Maurizio Valle , Senior Member, IEEE

Abstract—In this article, we propose a radar-based human action recognition system, capable of recognizing actions in real time. Range-Doppler maps extracted from a low-cost frequency-modulated continuous wave (FMCW) radar are fed into a deep neural network. The system is deployed on an edge device. The results show that the system can recognize five human actions with an accuracy of 93.2% and an inference time of 2.95 s. Raising an alarm when a harmful action happens is a crucial feature in an indoor safety application. Thus, the performance during the binary classification, i.e., fall vs nonfall actions, is also assessed, achieving an accuracy of 96.8% with a false-negative rate of 4%. To find the best tradeoff between accuracy and computational cost, the energy precision ratio of the system deployed on the edge is measured. The system achieves a 1.04 energy precision ratio value, where an ideal ratio would be close to zero.

Index Terms—Action recognition, deep neural networks (DNNs), edge deployment, frequency-modulated continuous wave (FMCW) radar.

I. INTRODUCTION

FALLS are a major public health concern and the main cause of accidental death in the senior population worldwide. Timely and accurate detection permits immediate assistance after a fall and, thereby, reduces complications of fall risk [1]. Edge-based approaches are essential to support time-dependent healthcare applications [2].

Due to the advantages of portability, low cost, and availability, wearable devices are regarded as one of the key types of sensors for fall detection and have been widely studied [3], [4], [5], [6]. The main drawback of these systems is the battery life which can limit the usability of the wearable devices. The second drawback is that the monitored subjects must always wear them, causing obvious discomfort, especially for the elderly.

Vision-based fall detection is another prominent method. Extensive effort in this direction has been demonstrated, showing promising results [7], [8], [9]. Although cameras are not as portable as wearable devices, they offer other advantages that deem them as decent options depending on the scenario: most static RGB cameras are not intrusive and wired, hence there is no need to worry about battery limitations. One major drawback of vision-based detection is the potential violation of privacy due to the levels of detail that cameras can capture, such as personal information, appearance, and visuals of the living environment. The second drawback is the high sensibility to clutters and environmental conditions (e.g., smoke, light, etc.). In addition, a vision-based approach could introduce issues related to color bias [10].

Ambient sensors (e.g., ultrasonic, WiFi antennas, radars, etc.) provide another nonintrusive means of fall detection. Ambient sensing is drawing more attention which can be attributed to being device-free for users and can solve the problem of people's privacy and color bias. Ultrasonic sensor network systems are one of the solutions for fall detection [11]. One drawback is that the waves are affected by environmental factors, such as humidity and smoke. These would affect the accuracy of the measurement. In [12], a fall detection approach uses WiFi signals, showing promising results in detecting falls. This approach is susceptible to security threats and has a limited range of efficiency.

Radars have become popular in recent years, proving to be an effective sensor to recognize human actions in cluttered environments [13]. In [14] and [15], the human action recognition is performed by a machine learning (ML) algorithm trained on hand-crafted features extracted from the radar signals. The main drawback is the time and effort required for the processing of the data and the feature extraction operation. Some other works propose deep neural networks (DNNs) to automatically extract features for human action recognition and fall detection. In [16], stack autoencoders (AEs) are used to automatically extract the features from the gray-scale spectrogram and to classify four activities including the fall. In [17], the authors combine convolutional neural networks (CNNs) and AEs to classify 12 actions based on micro-Doppler signatures. In [18], two DNNs
