Fictional Lives:

Fictional Lives Hugh Fleetwood, 2013-11-21 In this 1980 collection Hugh Fleetwood links four tales by a red thread of theme Author Tina Courtland having retired to the Italian countryside is lured back to London to write the life of the only man she has ever admired Andrew Stairs who has spent his life refusing to set foot on foreign soil is tempted by romance to try the risky unknown of abroad Walter Drake a novelist cursed by a sense of the failure of his life's work resolves bitterly to write his autobiography And Fran Niebauer a well-heeled patron of writers is forced to reconsider her motives for this patronage Fleetwood can write like a dream and really get into your head He reaches down and stirs with venomous delight the nameless faceless things swimming far below the level of consciousness Scotsman The Fictional Lives of Shakespeare Kevin Gilvary, 2017-12-12 Modern biographies of William Shakespeare abound however close scrutiny of the surviving records clearly show that there is insufficient material for a cradle to grave account of his life that most of what is written about him cannot be verified from primary sources and that Shakespearean biography did not attain scholarly or academic respectability until long after Samuel Schoenbaum published William Shakespeare A Documentary Life in 1975 This study begins with a short survey of the history and practice of biography and then surveys the very limited biographical material for Shakespeare Although Shakespeare gradually attained the status as a national hero during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries there were no serious attempts to reconstruct his life Any attempt at an account of his life or personality amounts however merely to biogfiction Modern biographers differ sharply on Shakespeare's apparent relationships with Southampton and with Jonson which merely underlines the fact that the documentary record has to be greatly expanded through contextual description and speculation in order to appear like a Life of Shakespeare The Distinction of Fiction Dorrit Cohn, 2000-12 Winner of the Aldo and Jeanne Scaglione Prize for Comparative Literary Studies from the Modern Language Association Winner of the Modern Language Association's Aldo and Jeanne Scaglione Prize for Comparative Literary Studies The border between fact and fiction has been trespassed so often it seems to be a highway Works of history that include fictional techniques are usually held in contempt but works of fiction that include history are among the greatest of classics Fiction claims to be able to convey its own unique kinds of truth But unless a reader knows in advance whether a narrative is fictional or not judgment can be frustrated and confused In The Distinction of Fiction Dorrit Cohn argues that fiction does present specific clues to its fictionality and its own justifications Indeed except in cases of deliberate deception fiction achieves its purposes best by exercising generic conventions that inform the reader that it is fiction Cohn tests her conclusions against major narrative works including Proust's A la Recherche du temps perdu Mann's Death in Venice Tolstoy's War and Peace and Freud's case studies She contests widespread poststructuralist views that all narratives are fictional On the contrary she separates fiction and nonfiction as necessarily distinct even when bound together An expansion of Cohn's Christian Gauss lectures at Princeton and the product of many years of labor and thought The Distinction of Fiction builds on narratological and phenomenological theories to show that boundaries between fiction and history can be firmly and systematically explored Historical Dictionary of Postmodernist Literature and Theater Fran Mason,2016-12-12 The main aim of the book has been to include writers movements forms of writing and textual strategies critical ideas and texts that are significant in relation to postmodernist literature In addition important scholars journals and cultural processes have been included where these are felt to be relevant to an understanding of postmodernist writing This second edition of Historical Dictionary of Postmodernist Literature and Theater contains a chronology an introduction and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has over 400 cross referenced entries on postmodernist writers the important postmodernist aesthetic practices significant texts produced throughout the history of postmodernist writing and important movements and ideas that have created a variety of literary approaches within the form This book is an excellent access point for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about the postmodernist literature and theater The ^AOxford Handbook of Philosophy and Literature Richard Eldridge,2009-03-27 This volume contains twenty three newly commissioned essays by major philosophers and literary scholars that investigate literature as a form of attention to human life Various forms of attention are considered under the headings of Genres Periods Devices and Powers and Contexts and Uses Balzac's Lives Peter Brooks,2020-10-06 Enter the mind of French literary giant Honor de Balzac through a study of nine of his greatest characters and the novels they inhabit Balzac s Lives illuminates the writer s life era and work in a completely original way Balzac more than anyone invented the nineteenth century novel and Oscar Wilde went so far as to say that Balzac had invented the nineteenth century But it was above all through the wonderful unforgettable extravagant characters that Balzac dreamed up and made flesh entrepreneurs bankers inventors industrialists poets artists bohemians of both sexes journalists aristocrats politicians prostitutes that he brought to life the dynamic forces of an era that ushered in our own Peter Brooks s Balzac s Lives is a vivid and searching portrait of a great novelist as revealed through the fictional lives he imagined Materiality in Modernist Short Fiction Laura Oulanne,2021-05-30 Materiality in Modernist Short

Fiction provides a fresh approach to reading material things in modern fiction accounting for the interplay of the material and the cultural This volume investigates how Djuna Barnes Katherine Mansfield and Jean Rhys use the short story form to evoke the material world as both living and lived and how the spaces they create for challenging gendered social norms can also be nonanthropocentric spaces for encounters between the human and the nonhuman Using the unique knowledge created by literary works to spark new conversations between phenomenology cognitive studies and new materialisms complemented with a feminist perspective this book explores how literature can touch the basic experience of being in feeling and making sense of a material world that is itself alive and active From a sensitive reading of how three women used the material world to make their readers see feel and question the norms shaping our experience this volume draws a theory of reading affective materiality that illuminates modernism and the short story form but also reaches beyond them The Open

The Rise of the Russian Novel Richard Freeborn, 1973-01-04 This introduction to the study of the Russian novel demonstrates how the form evolved from imitative beginnings to the point in the 1860s when it reached maturity and established itself as part of the European tradition Professor Freeborn considers selected novels by Pushkin, Lermontov, Gogol, Dostoyevsky and Tolstoy Extended introductory sections to the studies of Dostoyevsk and Tolstoy deal with their earlier works A final chapter summarises the principal points of contrast between Crime and Punishment and War and Peace and argues that in certain specific ways they represent the peaks in the evolution of the form of the Russian novel Quotations are translated but key passages are also given in the original Professor Freeborn treats the novel as a literary form and avoids the overworked formulae on which much historical writing on Russian literature has been based He is concerned with the literary development of a great form

The Oxford History of Life-writing Karen Anne Winstead, Alan Stewart, 2018 The Oxford History of Life Writing consolidates recent academic research and debate to provide a multi-volume history of life writing Each volume provides a selective survey of the range of life writing in a given period with particular focus on the most important or influential authors and works within the genre VOLUME 1 The Middle Ages explores the richness and variety of life writing in the Middle Ages ranging from Anglo-Latin lives of missionaries, prelates and princes to high medieval lives of scholars and visionaries to late medieval lives of authors and laypeople VOLUME 2 Early modern explores life writing in England between 1500 and 1700 and argues that this was a period which saw remarkable innovations in biography, autobiography and diary keeping that laid the foundations for our modern life writing

Founded in Fiction Thomas Koenigs, 2024-11-26 This monograph presents a new history of early American literature that traces the diverse forms of fiction circulating in the early United States 1789-1861 and how they shaped the way Americans thought and argued about political and cultural issues of their age

Agatha Christie and New Directions in Reading Detective Fiction Alistair Rolls, 2022-06-16 This book brings a new lens to the work of Agatha Christie through a series of close readings which challenge the official solutions by Hercule Poirot and Miss Marple This book's approach interweaves two core ideas first it explores the importance of French critic Pierre Bayard's self-styled detective criticism second it takes detective criticism in a new direction by refocusing on the beginnings of Agatha Christie's novels In this way the book counters the end orientation that has traditionally dominated the reading experience of and critical response to detective fiction by exploring the potential of the beginning to host other interpretations and stories Offering a new way of reading detective fiction this book is a mixture of narratology and detective criticism and deploys it in the form of radical new readings of a number of Christie's most famous works This illuminating text will interest students and scholars of crime and detective fiction literary studies and comparative literature

The Lives of Literature Arnold Weinstein, 2024-01-16 A passionate, witty and personal book about how the greatest works of literature illuminate our lives

Why do we read literature For Arnold Weinstein the answer is clear literature allows us to become someone else Literature changes us by giving us intimate access to an astonishing variety of other lives experiences and places across the ages Reflecting on a lifetime of reading teaching and writing The Lives of Literature explores with passion humor and whirring intellect a professor's life the thrills and traps of teaching and most of all the power of literature to lead us to a deeper understanding of ourselves and the worlds we inhabit As an identical twin Weinstein experienced early the dislocation of being mistaken for another person and of feeling that he might be someone other than he had thought In vivid readings elucidating the classics of authors ranging from Sophocles to James Joyce and Toni Morrison he explores what we learn by identifying with their protagonists including those who undone by wreckage and loss discover that all their beliefs are illusions Weinstein masterfully argues that literature's knowing differs entirely from what one ends up knowing when studying mathematics or physics or even history by entering these characters lives readers acquire a unique form of knowledge and come to understand its cost In The Lives of Literature a master writer and teacher shares his love of the books that he has taught and been taught by showing us that literature matters because we never stop discovering who we are Living Well with Pessimism in Nineteenth-Century France Joseph Acquisto, 2021-02-04 This book traces the emergence of modern pessimism in nineteenth century France and examines its aesthetic epistemological ethical and political implications It explores how since pessimism as a worldview is not empirically verifiable writers on pessimism shift the discussion to verisimilitude opening up rich territory for cross fertilization between philosophy and literature The book traces debates on pessimism in the nineteenth century among French nonfiction writers who either lauded its promotion of compassion or condemned it for being a sick and unliveable attempt at renunciation It then examines the way novelists and poets take up and transform these questions by portraying characters in lived situations that serve as testing grounds for the merits or limitations of pessimism The debate on pessimism that emerged in the nineteenth century is still very much with us and this book offers an interhistorical argument for embracing pessimism as a way of living well in the world aesthetically ethically and politically

Literature and the Taste of Knowledge Michael Wood, 2005-09-29 What does literature know Does it offer us knowledge of its own or does it only interrupt and question other forms of knowledge This 2005 book seeks to answer and to prolong these questions through the close examination of individual works and the exploration of a broad array of examples Chapters on Henry James Kafka and the form of the villanelle are interspersed with wider ranging inquiries into forms of irony indirection and the uses of fiction with examples ranging from Auden to Proust and Rilke and from Calvino to Jean Rhys and Yeats Literature is a form of pretence But every pretence could tilt us into the real and many of them do There is no safe place for the reader no literalist's haven where fact is always fact and no paradise of metaphor where our poems plays and novels have no truck at all with the harsh and shifting world

Fiction and the Ways of Knowing Avrom Fleishman, 2014-07-03 In this highly individual study Avrom Fleishman explores a wide range of literary

references to human culture the culture of ideas facts and images Each critical essay in Fiction and the Ways of Knowing takes up for sustained analysis a major British novel of the nineteenth or the twentieth century The novels are analyzed in the light of social historical philosophical and other perspectives that can be grouped under the human sciences The diversity of critical contexts in these thirteen essays is organized by Avrom Fleishman's governing belief in the interrelations of literature and other ways of interpreting the world The underlying assumptions of this approach as explained in his introductory essay are that fiction is capable of encompassing even the most recondite facts and recalcitrant ideas that fiction though never a mirror of reality is linked to realities and takes part in the real and that a critical reading may be informed by scientific knowledge without reducing the literary work to a schematic formula Fleishman investigates the matters of fact and belief that make up the designated meanings the intellectual contexts and the speculative parallels in three types of novel Some of the novels discussed make it clear that their authors are informed on matters beyond the nonspecialist's range these essays help bridge this information gap Other fictional works are only to be grasped in an awareness of the cultural lore tacitly distributed in their own time a modern reader must make the effort to fathom their anachronisms And other novels can be found to open passageways that their authors can only have glimpsed intuitively these must be pursued with great caution but equal diligence The novels discussed include Little Dorrit The Way We Live Now Daniel Deronda The Return of the Native and The Magus Also examined are Wuthering Heights Vanity Fair Northanger Abbey To the Lighthouse Under Western Eyes Ulysses and A Passage to India

Fiction on the Fringe Grammatiki A. Karla, 2009 This collection of essays offers a comprehensive examination of texts that traditionally have been excluded from the main corpus of the ancient Greek novel and confined to the margins of the genre such as the Life of Aesop the Life of Alexander the Great and the Acts of the Christian Martyrs Through comparison and contrast intertextual analysis and close examination the boundaries of the dichotomy between the fringe vs the canonical or erotic novel are explored and so the generic identity of the texts in each group is more clearly outlined The collective outcome brings the fringe from the periphery of scholarly research to the centre of critical attention and provides methodological tools for the exploration of other fringe texts The Novel and the Problem of New Life

Aaron Matz, 2021-07-15 The novel since the nineteenth century has displayed a thorny ambivalence toward the question of having children In its representation of human vitality it can seem to promote the giving of life but again and again it betrays a nagging doubt about the moral implications of procreation The Novel and the Problem of New Life identifies this tension as a defining quality of the modern British and European novel Beginning with the procreative skeptical writings of Flaubert Butler and Hardy then turning to the high modernist work of Lawrence Woolf and Huxley and culminating in the postwar fiction of Lessing and others this book chronicles the history of the novel as it came to accommodate greater misgivings about the morality of reproduction This is the first study to examine in literature a problem that has long troubled philosophers environmental thinkers and so many people in everyday life Shakespeare Was a Woman and Other Heresies

Elizabeth Winkler, 2024-04-23 A delightful romp through the Shakespeare authorship question exploring how doubting that William Shakespeare wrote the plays attributed to him became an act of blasphemy and who the Bard might really be Life-Writing Donald J. Winslow, 1995-01-01 This text presents an introduction and a reference source of terms in the writing of biographies autobiographies and related literature
