Bogardus,2017-10-13 Excerpt from Field Cover and Trap Shooting For much the greater part of that period Captain Bogardus has maintained and brought up his respectable and interesting family almost solely by his gun From that fact I concluded that his was the knowledge and experience which would be valuable and instructive to sportsmen young and old and interesting to the general public The former do not want to listen to people who know no more than they know them selves The latter do not want to peruse the work of a man on any subject if he never rises above mediocrity while they gladly welcome the book of one who has proved himself a master of his art Because Captain Bogardus had been able to live for many years solely by his gun he was of all men best qualified to enlighten Old sportsmen and instruct the young in regard to the habits and haunts Of game and the art of shooting About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Field and Stream ,1926 Field, Cover, and Trap Shooting; Embracing Hints for Skilled Marksmen; Instructions for Young Sportsmen; Haunts and Habits of Game Birds; Flight and R Adam H. Bogardus,2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1874 edition Excerpt of pigeon shooting and not go on under loose lax methods It is essential that the rule as to holding the gun should be habitually complied with that is the butt must be kept below the elbow of the shooter until the bird is on the wing It is just as easy to conform to this rule as not provided it is done habitually and constantly and it will save a great deal of trouble when public matches or sweepstakes are engaged in If it is not regarded at home in their own clubs the shooters will be certain to have birds decided lost which they have killed when shooting elsewhere by reason of breach of this rule When several men are shooting at home that is the place to learn to shoot according to the rules If they are disregarded the club and its chosen marksmen will pay the penalty of their neglect another day when there will be a smart to it Therefore I say it is better for members of these clubs to pay for a few birds at home by enforcement of the rules than to be beaten elsewhere through having dead birds challenged for improper holding of the gun I have acted as referee many times and have seen numbers of birds killed in such a manner that if an appeal had been made I should have been compelled to decide against the shooters for having brought up the gun to the shoulder too soon It is better to get used to holding the gun well down When the habit is formed a man can shoot as well that way as the other and then he will not be bothered and confused by being challenged under the rule in a strange place Conform to the rules at home and it will be easy to observe them abroad Shooters need not suppose that they will not be enforced in other places because they have been accustomed to disregard them at home When I first Fly-fishing and Fly-making for Trout, Bass, Salmon, Etc John Harrington Keene,1891 Hitting Vs.
