technical terms used throughout the work The Field Guide to Mixing Social and Biophysical Methods in Environmental Research Rebecca Lave, Stuart Lane, 2025-02-25 Despite ongoing debates about its origins the Anthropocene a new epoch characterized by significant human impact on the Earth's geology and ecosystems is widely acknowledged Our environment is increasingly a product of interacting biophysical and social forces shaped by climate change colonial legacies gender norms hydrological processes and more Understanding these intricate interactions requires a mixed methods approach that combines qualitative and quantitative biophysical and social research However mixed methods environmental research remains rare hindered by academic boundaries limited training and the challenges of interdisciplinary collaboration Time funding and the integration of diverse data further complicate this research whilst the dynamics and ethics of interdisciplinary teams add another layer of complexity Despite these challenges mixed methods research offers a more robust and ultimately transformative understanding of environmental questions This Field Guide aims to inspire and equip researchers to undertake such studies Organized like a recipe book it assists researchers in the preparation of their field work as well as offering entry points to key methods and providing examples of successful mixed methods projects This book will be of interest to scholars wishing to tackle environmental research in a more holistic manner spanning sister disciplines such as anthropology statistics political science public health archaeology geography history ecology and Earth science

Anthropology's World Ulf Hannerz, 2010-07-06 In this masterly state of the art work Ulf Hannerz maps the contemporary social world of anthropologists and its relation to the wider world in which they carry out their work Raising fundamental questions such as What is anthropology really about How does the public understand or misunderstand anthropology and What and where do anthropologists study now and for whom do they write Hannerz invites anthropologists to think again about where their discipline is going Full of insights and practical advice from Hannerz's long experience at the top of the discipline this book is essential for all anthropologists who want their craft to survive and develop in a volatile world and contribute to new understandings of its ever changing diversity and interconnections Archaeology Richard Michael Stewart, 2002 Archaeology Basic Field Methods introduces archaeological field methods and provides a basis for understanding the links between the nature of archaeological evidence the recognition of that evidence in the field and the techniques involved in the search for and recovery of archaeological evidence in a variety of settings Outstanding Features Provides a basic introduction to sediments soils stratigraphy and geomorphology Discusses ethical concerns and codes of professional conduct Discusses cultural resource management CRM and its impact on the practice of field archaeology Contains exercises and discussion questions at the end of each chapter Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965-70 Routes James Clifford, 1997-04-21 When culture makes itself at home in motion where does an anthropologist stand In a follow up to The Predicament of Culture one of the defining books for anthropology in the last decade James Clifford takes the proper measure a moving picture of a world that doesn't stand still that reveals itself en route in the airport lounge and the parking lot as much as in the marketplace and the museum In this collage of essays meditations poems and travel reports Clifford takes travel and its difficult companion translation as openings into a complex modernity He contemplates a world ever more connected yet not homogeneous a global history proceeding from the fraught legacies of exploration colonization capitalist expansion immigration labor mobility and tourism Ranging from Highland New Guinea to northern California from Vancouver to London he probes current approaches to the interpretation and display of non Western arts and cultures Wherever people and things cross paths and where institutional forces work to discipline unruly encounters Clifford s concern is with struggles to displace stereotypes to recognize divergent histories to sustain postcolonial and tribal identities in contexts of domination and globalization Travel diaspora border crossing self location the making of homes away from home these are transcultural predicaments for the late twentieth century The map that might account for them the history of an entangled modernity emerges here as an unfinished series of paths and negotiations leading in many directions while returning again and again to the struggles and arts of cultural encounter the impossible inescapable tasks of translation
