Fighting Closures Hugo Levie, Denis Gregory, Nick Lorentzen, 1984      Fighting Deindustrialisation Andy Clark, 2022-09-15 In Fighting Deindustrialisation Andy Clark outlines and examines one of the most significant and under researched periods in modern Scottish labour history Over a fourteen month period in 1981 and 1982 as Scotland suffered the effects of the accelerated deindustrialisation of its economy three workforces refused to accept the loss of their jobs The predominantly women assembly workers at Lee Jeans Greenock Lovable Bra Cumbernauld and Plessey Capacitors Bathgate were informed that their multinational employers had taken the decisions to close their plants At each site a battle was fought against capital movement corporate greed and unfair job loss The workers occupied their factories and refused to vacate until their demands were met and closure avoided At all sites this objective was achieved none of the factories completely closed following the women's occupations In this book these occupations are analysed together for the first time through a range of analytical frameworks from oral history memory studies industrial relations scholarship and deindustrialisation studies In his extensive examination Clark argues that the actions of 1981-82 should be considered as one of the most significant periods in Scotland's history of deindustrialisation However the public memory of 1981-82 is precarious Fighting Deindustrialisation begins the process of incorporating women's militant resistance within academic and popular understandings of working class activism in later 20th century Scotland      Deindustrialization and Plant Closure Paul D. Staudohar, Holly E. Brown, 1987 Contains a collection of readings on the debate over deindustrialisation and plant closure as an inevitable consequence of continual industrial restructuring      We shall not be moved Brian Marren, 2016-05-01 The city of Liverpool had frequently been prone to industrial unrest for most of its recent history but it was the dawn of Thatcher and the sanctioning of neoliberal economic strategies which made Liverpool a nucleus of resistance against the encroaching tide of right wing politics and sweeping deindustrialisation This critique explores six case studies which will illustrate how elements of a highly politicised local working class fought against the rapid rise in forced redundancies and industrial closures Some of their responses included strikes factory occupations the organisation and politicisation of the unemployed consent to radical left wing municipal politics as well as tacit endorsement a period of violent civil unrest This critique concludes that in the range intensity and use of innovative tactics deployed during these conflicts Liverpool was distinctive      Beyond Capitalism Jeff Shantz, José Brendan Macdonald, 2013-04-25 Capitalism as a global system barely allows the needs of the majority of the world's population to be met Whether from an industrialized country such as the US or from South Africa the need for an alternative can be felt all over the world It is clear nowadays that due to the non democratic nature and inadequacies of capitalism another system must take its place Such a process has already begun through the cooperative movement which this book examines along with other initiatives Featuring essays by international scholars and activists from various spheres of the anti capitalist left the work features many examples from the north and the south to cover both the historically advanced and late capitalist economies It discusses such initiatives as participatory economics the Mondragon experience worker cooperatives in Europe and Latin America solidarity economy in South Africa and more Written in an accessible manner Beyond Capitalism will be an invaluable resource for any student of social movements and political thought and for anyone looking for alternative to today's ongoing systemic crises

The Deindustrialized World Steven High, Lachlan MacKinnon, Andrew Perchard, 2017-07-20 Since the 1970s the closure of mines mills and factories has marked a rupture in working class lives The Deindustrialized World interrogates the process of industrial ruination from the first impact of layoffs in metropolitan cities suburban areas and single industry towns to the shock waves that rippled outward affecting entire regions countries and beyond Scholars from France Canada Australia the United Kingdom and the United States share personal stories of ruin and ruination and ask others what it means to be working class in a postindustrial world Part 1 examines the ruination of former workplaces and the failing health and injured bodies of industrial workers Part 2 brings to light disparities between rural resource towns and cities where hipster revitalization often overshadows industrial loss Part 3 reveals the ongoing impact of deindustrialization on working people and their place in the new global economy Together the chapters open a window on the lived experiences of people living at ground zero of deindustrialization revealing its layered impacts and examining how workers environmentalists activists and the state have responded to its challenges

The Liminal Worker Manos Spyridakis, 2016-03-03 The Liminal Worker examines the experience of work employment employment insecurity and precariousness in a context of high unemployment and welfare state crisis in modern Greece A theoretically informed anthropological exploration of the notion of work in contemporary western society and its relation to processes of political decision making this book challenges the mainstream conception of work as an economic or purely productive activity presenting a comparative analysis of work as a social phenomenon Drawing on original empirical research it explores the key themes of the transformation experience meaning and narrative of work and its relation to attendant social policies A unique examination of the complicated experience of work and labour relations within power systems institutions and organisations as well as the reactions and survival strategies of ordinary actors facing precariousness in their daily existence The Liminal Worker elaborates upon the notion of the anthropology of work and investigates the connection between ethnographic data and its critical analysis and the formation of policy As such it will be of interest to anthropologists sociologists policy makers and geographers concerned with questions of work labour relations and policy formation

Proceedings in Print, 1986 Prisoners of Want: The Experience and Protest of the Unemployed in France, 1921-45 Matt Perry, 2017-11-30 Prisoners of Want examines the experience of the unemployed and their protests in France in the interwar years Little has been written on the experience of unemployment in France despite the wealth of material social and medical investigations government reports novels memoirs and newspapers that can be used to reconstruct the representation and reality of the experience Assessing the impact of unemployed protest upon the authorities in terms of policy and the longer term development of the welfare state this book places the role of the unemployed in the wider context of European social movements in the 1930s as well as considering the significance of unemployed protests upon the French collective memory The part played by the French Communist Party in the creation and leadership of the movements of the unemployed and the range of activities these movements undertook is also explored From self help to protests hunger marches demonstrations relief work school strikes town hall occupations and riots all were strategies that the unemployed utilised to draw attention to their plight Crucial to explaining the characteristics of these movements is an understanding of the dynamics of protest and how different tactics were selected during their development particularly the extent to which tactical shifts were related to the nature of the response of the authorities By exploring these under researched facets of political life a much fuller understanding of French society during the turbulent interwar years is offered

Managing the Economy, Managing the People Jim Tomlinson, 2017 This study offers a distinctive new account of British economic life since the Second World War focussing upon the ways in which successive governments in seeking to manage the economy have sought simultaneously to manage the people to try and manage popular understanding of economic issues In doing so governments have sought not only to shape expectations for electoral purposes but to construct broader narratives about how the economy should be understood The starting point of this work is to ask why these goals have been focussed upon and differentially over time how they have been constructed to appeal to the population and insofar as this can be assessed how far the population has accepted these narratives The first half of the book analyses the development of the major narratives from the 1940s onwards addressing the notion of austerity and its particular meaning in the 1940s the rise of a narrative of economic decline from the late 1950s and the subsequent attempts to modernize the economy the attempts to roll back the state from the 1970s the impact of ideas of globalization in the 1990s and finally the way the crisis of 2008 onward was constructed as a problem of debts and deficits The second part of the book focuses on four key issues in attempts to manage the people productivity the balance of payments inflation and unemployment It shows how in each case governments sought to get the populace to understand these issues in a particular light and shaped strategies to that end
