Latin in Modern Fiction Henryk

Hoffmann, 2021-07-06 The goal of this book is to prove that Latin is not a dead language by demonstrating how prevalent and strong it still is in modern Western culture. In order to do so, the author, an English philologist with a long experience as a Latin educator, catalogues, explains, and interprets Latin quotations and references in a multitude of twentieth and twenty-first century literary works by primarily mainstream authors from Aldous Huxley to Saul Bellow to John Irving, crime mystery writers from Raymond Chandler to Elizabeth George to Dennis Lehane, and frontier western novelists from Emerson Hough to Larry McMurtry. The three areas of fiction constituting the main scope of the book indicate the author's major interest and preference, as well as the subject matter of his extensive research, both prior and current, the former related to his already published books. The writers offering the most impressive contributions to the thesis are featured in the three parts of the main body; those with lesser input are listed in the Appendix. The prospective readers of the book include all Latin students and educators at the secondary and college levels worldwide. The Workings of Fiction Robert Bechtold Heilman, 1991

The Workings of Fiction is a collection of essays chiefly on British and American novels and novelists that shows a masterful critic at work. Each of the essays examines a different aspect of the novelists' art as one uniquely astute critical mind observes them. The central issue Robert Heilman confronts, often by studying the novels in pairs, is how the novelist does what he does. Dealing with subjects as diverse as Charlotte Brontë, Henry James, D. H. Lawrence, Thomas Hardy, and Evelyn Waugh, Heilman studies the workings of fiction from varied stances. He investigates the uses of the verbal medium and the several means by which a given theme is developed. As Heilman identifies and traces particular themes, he studies how parts are assembled into a whole. In addition, he explores particular generic types like the picaresque, the gothic, the tragic, as they are used by a variety of novelists. Written by a gifted man of letters, The Workings of Fiction takes us inside the process of criticism. The book offers us an original and perceptive view of Under the Volcano as it offers of Pride and Prejudice or The Turn of the Screw. Each essay presents a fresh way of looking at and understanding these novels. This collection will be of interest to anyone who desires insight into the workings of fiction. Humanitarian Fictions Megan Cole Paustian, 2024-01-02

Humanitarianism has a narrative problem. Far too often aid to Africa is envisioned through a tale of Western heroes saving African sufferers. While labeling white savior narratives has become a familiar gesture, it doesn't tell us much about the story as story Humanitarian Fictions aims to understand the workings of humanitarian literature as they engage with and critique narratives of Africa Overlapping with but distinct from human rights humanitarianism centers on a relationship of assistance focusing less on rights than on needs less on legal frameworks than moral ones less on the problem than on the nonstate solution Tracing the white savior narrative back to religious missionaries of the nineteenth century Humanitarian Fictions reveals the influence of religious thought on seemingly secular institutions and uncovers a spiritual collectivist streak in the discourse of humanity Because the humanitarian model of care transcends the boundaries of the state and its networks touch much of the globe Humanitarian Fictions redraws the boundaries of literary classification based on a shared problem space rather than a shared national space The book maps a transnational vein of Anglophone literature about Africa that features missionaries humanitarians and their so called beneficiaries Putting humanitarian thought in conversation with postcolonial critique this book brings together African British and U S writers typically read within separate traditions Paustian shows how the novel with its profound sensitivity to narrative can enrich the critique of white saviorism while also imagining alternatives that give African agency its due

Ireland and the Fiction of Improvement Helen O'Connell, 2006-09-21 This is the first study of Irish improvement fiction a neglected genre of nineteenth century literary social and political history Ireland and the Fiction of Improvement shows how the fiction of Mary Leadbeater Charles Bardin Martin Doyle and William Carleton attempted to lure Irish peasants and landowners away from popular genres such as fantasy romance and radical political tracts as well as high literary and philosophical forms of enquiry These writers attempted to cultivate a taste for the didactic tract an assertively realist mode of representation Accordingly improvement fiction laboured to demonstrate the value of hard work frugality and sobriety in a rigorously realistic idiom representing the contentment that inheres in a plain social order free of excess and embellishment Improvement discourse defined itself in opposition to the perceived extremism of revolutionary politics and literary writing seeking but failing to exemplify how both political discontent and unhappiness could be offset by a strict practicality and prosaic realism This book demonstrates how improvement reveals itself to be a literary discourse enmeshed in the very rhetorical abyss it sought to escape In addition the proudly liberal rhetoric of improvement is shown to be at one with the imperial discourse it worked to displace Helen O Connell argues that improvement discourse is embedded in the literary and cultural mainstream of modern Ireland and has hindered the development of intellectual and political debate throughout this period These issues are examined in chapters exploring the career of William Carleton peasant orality educational provision in the post Union period the Irish language secret society violence Young Ireland nationalism and the Irish Revival
