The Elements of the Short Story Edward Hale,Fredrick T. Dawsib,2016-08-23 From the INTRODUCTION The method of studying the short story here presented is based upon two ideas The first is that the well equipped student of the short story should have in mind a number of standard examples which exhibit in concrete form the chief elements and principles of importance The second is that the best way to see in those examples the elements and principles in question is by some very definite and systematic method of analysis The study of the short story has developed of late into diverse lines There have been excellent studies of the history of the matter which have exhibited the development of the form from very early times There have been critical analyses which have taken their illustrations of principles or qualities from whatever examples might be found in the broad field There have been guides to the writing of the short story which have given such practical and theoretical help as was possible to those who wished to write short stories themselves We have followed none of these methods Any treatment of the short story will include a good deal of general material and much within our pages will be familiar to all who have followed the development of the study But our particular course is different from those just mentioned We have presented a limited number of well known standard stories In the study of any phase or form of art the student should have well in mind a few classic examples Then he can pursue with intelligence a broad reading which will present to him all the possibilities of the art in which he is interested We have selected our chief examples from American literature partly because it was in America that the modern short story was first developed and partly because in a limited field we can indicate something of the actual development which we do not treat in detail In the study of these examples we have followed a very definite method because it seems the case that in the study of fiction at least a student's attention is especially likely to become diffused over a broad field so that he often neglects the very thing that would be useful to him at the time while gaining perhaps something that would be better at another time We have made these exercises very specific not because all literary study should be of this specific sort but because at the beginning of a study like this one wants to get correct ideas to measure by We by no means feel that we are pointing out ways in which one should always study the short story We are pointing out ways which will train the mind to look at short stories so as to perceive instinctively certain things After such study the mind should work naturally in certain ways as we may say The student will know the main things that have been done with the short story and he will turn to the current short story with the ability to compare and enjoy
