Field of Cultural Production: Essays on Art and Criticism Pierre Bourdieu,1997-03-01 Composing Ambiguity: The Early Music of Morton Feldman Alistair Noble,2016-05-23 American composer Morton Feldman is increasingly seen to have been one of the key figures in late twentieth century music with his work exerting a powerful influence into the twenty first century At the same time much about his music remains enigmatic largely due to long standing myths about supposedly intuitive or aleatoric working practices In Composing Ambiguity Alistair Noble reveals key aspects of Feldman s musical language as it developed during a crucial period in the early 1950s Drawing models from primary sources including Feldman s musical sketches he shows that Feldman worked deliberately within a two dimensional frame allowing a focus upon the fundamental materials of sounding pitch in time Beyond this Feldman s work is revealed to be essentially concerned with the 12 tone chromatic field and with the delineation of complexes of simple proportions in crystalline forms Through close reading of several important works from the early 1950s Noble shows that there is a remarkable consistency of compositional method despite the varied experimental notations used by Feldman at this time Not only are there direct relations to be found between staff notated works and grid scores but much of the language developed by Feldman in this period was still in use even in his late works of the 1980s Art and Cultural Production in the Gulf Cooperation Council Suzi

Mirgani,2019-10-23 State driven investments in art and cultural production in the states of the Gulf Cooperation Council GCC are an important part of the search for longer term alternatives to the longer term unsustainability of the hydrocarbon based economic development model They also are an element in the search for soft power and status and intersect with the nation building project The long term planned and unplanned effects of such cultural initiatives include a necessary opening up to a future of unexpected and often undesired cultural encounters whether in the classroom the art gallery the sports stadium or the labor office As states driven by a desire to raise both their regional and international status but needing to satisfy their domestic conservative constituencies their greatest test will be their judicious negotiating of the conflicting sociocultural elements of an increasingly globalized world This volume offers a comprehensive multi disciplinary analysis of this complex arena and the state of art and cultural production in these Gulf societies through original studies on identity formation and an emerging museology the aesthetics of censorship the question of authenticity cultural projects as state driven soft power efforts the phenomenon of public art and artistic engagements with migrant labor communities The chapters originally published as a special issue in the Journal of Arabian Studies

Minority

Accommodation through Territorial and Non-Territorial Autonomy Tove H. Malloy,Francesco Palermo,2015-10-08 Minority Accommodation through Territorial and Non Territorial Autonomy explores the relationship between minority territory and autonomy and how it informs our understanding of non territorial autonomy NTA as a strategy for accommodating ethno cultural diversity in modern societies While territorial autonomy TA is defined by a claim to a certain territory NTA does not assume that it is derived from any particular right to territory allocated to groups that are dispersed among the majority while belonging to a certain self identified notion of group identity In seeking to understand the value of NTA as a public policy tool for social cohesion this volume critically dissects the autonomy arrangements of both NTA and TA and through a conceptual analysis and case study examination of the two models rethinks the viability of autonomy arrangements as institutions of diversity management This is the second volume in a five part series exploring the protection and representation of minorities through non territorial means examining this paradox within law and international relations with specific attention to non territorial autonomy NTA

Welsch, 2020-03-31 The Selling and Self Regulation of Contemporary Poetry is the first book length study of the contemporary poetry industry By documenting radical changes over the past decade in the way poems are published sold and consumed it connects the seemingly small world of poetry with the other wider creative industries In reassessing an art form that has been traditionally seen as free from or even resistant to material concerns the book confronts the real pressures and real opportunities faced by poets and publishers in the wake of economic and cultural shifts since 2008 The changing role of anthologies prizes and publishers are considered alongside new technologies new arts policy and re conceptions of poetic labour Ultimately it argues that poetry's continued growth and diversification also leaves individuals with more responsibility than ever for sustaining its communities Building Institution Kim Förster, 2024-02-21 Building Institution chronicles the expansion of architecture as a profession and discipline in the postmodern era Kim Förster traces the compelling history of the Institute for Architecture and Urban Studies which was active in New York from 1967 to 1985 Drawing on extensive archival research and oral histories he constructs a collective biography that details the Institute's diverse roles and the dynamic interplay between research and design education culture and publishing By exploring the transformation of cultural production into a practice as well as the culturalization and global postmodernization of architecture the volume contributes

Paper Monsters Samuel Fallon, 2019-06-07 In Paper Monsters Samuel Fallon charts the striking rise at the turn to the seventeenth century of a new species of textual being the serial semifictional persona When Thomas Nashe introduced his charismatic alter ego Pierce Penilesse in a 1592 text he described the figure as a paper monster not fashioned but begotten into something curiously like life The next decade bore this description out as Pierce took on a life of his own inspiring other writers to insert him into their own works And Pierce was hardly alone such figures as the polemicist Martin Marprelate the lovers Philisides and Astrophil the shepherd laureate Colin Clout the prodigal wit Euphues and in an odd twist the historical author Robert Greene all outgrew their fictional origins moving from text to text and author to author purporting to speak their own words even surviving their creators deaths and installing themselves in the process as agents at large in the real world of writing publication and reception In seeking to understand these paper monsters as a historically specific and rather short lived phenomenon Fallon looks to the rapid expansion of the London book trade in the years of their ascendancy Personae were products of print the medium that rendered them portable free floating figures But they were also the central fictions of a burgeoning literary field they embodied that field's negotiations between manuscript and print and they forged a new form of public textual selfhood Sustained by the appropriative rewritings they inspired personae came to seem like autonomous citizens of the literary public Fallon argues that their status as collective fictions passed among writers publishers and readers positioned personae as the animating figures of what we have come to call print culture

Urban Regeneration and Neoliberalism Clare Kinsella, 2020-10-29 This book explores the concept of home in Liverpool over phases of regeneration following the Second World War Using qualitative research in the oral history tradition it explores what the author conceptualises as forward facing regeneration in the period up to the 1980s and neoliberal regeneration interventions that prioritise the past from the 1980s to the present The author examines how the shift towards city centre focused redevelopment and event led initiatives has implications for the way residents make sense of their conceptualisations of home and demonstrates how the shift in regeneration focus discourse and practice away from Liverpool's neighbourhood districts and towards the city centre has produced changes in the ways that residents identify with neighbourhoods and the city centre with prominence being given to the latter. Employing Pierre Bourdieu's concepts of habitus and field as mechanisms for understanding different senses of home and shifts from localised views to globalised views, this book will appeal to those with interests in urban sociology, regeneration, geography, sociology, home cultures and cities.

Reframing Translators, Translators as Reframers Dominique Faria, Marta Pacheco Pinto, Joana Moura, 2022-07-29 This collection explores the notion of reframing as a framework for better understanding the multi-agent and multi-level nature of the translation process, generating new conversations in current debates on translational agency, authority and power. The volume puts forward reframing as an alternative metaphor to traditional conceptualizations and descriptions of translation, which often position the process in such terms as transformation, reproduction, transposition and transfer. Chapters in the book reflect on the translator figure as a central agent in actively moving a translated text to a new context and the translation process as shaped by different forces and subjectivities when translational agency comes into play. The book brings together cross-disciplinary perspectives for viewing translation through the lens of agents, drawing on a wide range of examples across geographic settings, historical eras and language pairs. The volume integrates analyses from the translated texts themselves as well as their paratexts to offer unique insights into the different layers of mediation in translation and the new frames created for those texts. This book will be of interest to scholars in translation studies, comparative studies, reception studies and cultural studies.

Museum Architecture Suzanne MacLeod, 2013-04-12 Recent decades have witnessed an explosion of museum building around the world and the subsequent publication of multiple texts dedicated to the subject. Museum Architecture is a new biography that focuses on the stories we tell of museum buildings in order to explore the nature of museum architecture and the problems of architectural history when applied to the museum and gallery. Starting from a discussion of the key issues in contemporary museum design, the book explores the role of architectural history in the prioritisation of specific stories of museum building and museum architects and the exclusion of other actors from the history of museum making. These omissions have contemporary relevance and impact directly on the ways in which the physical structures of museums are shaped. Theoretically, the book places a particular emphasis on the work of Pierre Bourdieu and Henri Lefebvre in order to establish an understanding of buildings as social relations, the outcome of complex human interactions and relationships. The book utilises a micro-history and an in-depth case study of the National Gallery of the North, the Walker Art Gallery in Liverpool, to expose the myriad ways in which museum architecture is made. Coupled with this detailed exploration is an emphasis on contemporary museum design which utilises the understanding of the social realities of museum making to explore ideas for a socially sustainable museum architecture fit for the twenty-first century.
