Field Work Of A Museum Naturalist:

Field Work of a Museum Naturalist, 1919-1922 Alfred Marshall Bailey, 1971      The Canadian Field-naturalist , 1928

Naturalists in the Field , 2018-04-24 Interposed between the natural world in all its diversity and the edited form in which we encounter it in literature imagery and the museum lie the multiple practices of the naturalists in selecting recording and preserving the specimens from which our world view is to be reconstituted The factors that weigh at every stage are here dissected analysed and set within a historical narrative that spans more than five centuries During that era every aspect evolved and changed as engagement with nature moved from a speculative pursuit heavily influenced by classical scholarship to a systematic science drawing on advanced theory and technology Far from being neutrally objective the process of representing nature is shown as fraught with constraint and compromise With a Foreword by Sir David Attenborough Contributors are Marie Addyman Peter Barnard Paul D Brinkman Ian Convery Peter Davis Felix Driver Florike Egmond Annemarie Jordan Gschwend Geoff Hancock Stephen Harris Hanna Hodacs Stuart Houston Dominik Huenniger Rob Huxley Charlie Jarvis Malgosia Nowak Kemp Shepard Krech III Mark Lawley Arthur Lucas Marco Masseti Geoff Moore Pat Morris Charles Nelson Robert Peck Helen Scales Han F Vermeulen and Glyn Williams      British Naturalists in Qing China Fa-ti FAN, Fa-ti Fan, 2009-06-30 In the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Western scientific interest in China focused primarily on natural history Prominent scholars in Europe as well as Westerners in China including missionaries merchants consular officers and visiting plant hunters eagerly investigated the flora and fauna of China Yet despite the importance and extent of this scientific activity it has been entirely neglected by historians of science This book is the first comprehensive study on this topic In a series of vivid chapters Fa ti Fan examines the research of British naturalists in China in relation to the history of natural history of empire and of Sino Western relations The author gives a panoramic view of how the British naturalists and the Chinese explored studied and represented China s natural world in the social and cultural environment of Qing China Using the example of British naturalists in China the author argues for reinterpreting the history of natural history by including neglected historical actors intellectual traditions and cultural practices His approach moves beyond viewing the history of science and empire within European history and considers the exchange of ideas aesthetic tastes material culture and plants and animals in local and global contexts This compelling book provides an innovative framework for understanding the formation of scientific practice and knowledge in cultural encounters Table of Contents Acknowledgments Introduction I The Port 1 Natural History in a Chinese Entrep t 2 Art Commerce and Natural History II The Land 3 Science and Informal Empire 4 Sinology and Natural History 5 Travel and Fieldwork in the Interior Epilogue Appendix Selected Biographical Notes Abbreviations Notes Index Fa ti Fan s study of the encounter between the British culture of the naturalist and the Chinese culture of the Qing is both a delight and a revelation The topic has scarcely been addressed by historians of science and this work fills important gaps in our knowledge of British scientific practice in a noncolonial context and of

Chinese reactions to Western science in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries In addition to the culture of Victorian naturalists and Sinology Fan shows an admirable grasp of visual representation in science Chinese taxonomic schemes Chinese export art British imperial scholarship and journeys of exploration His treatment of the China trade and descriptions of Chinese markets and nurseries are especially welcome I learned a great deal and I strongly recommend this book Philip Rehbock author of Philosophical Naturalists Themes in Early Nineteenth Century British Biology By focusing on the experiences of British naturalists in China during a time when it was gradually being opened up to foreign influences Fan makes at least two important contributions to history of science He gives us an authoritative study of British naturalists in China as far as I know the only one of its kind and he forces us to rethink some of our categories for doing history of science including how we conceive of the relationship between science and imperialism and between Western naturalist and native Fan s scholarship is meticulous with careful attention to detail and his prose is clear controlled and succinct Bernard Lightman editor of Victorian Science in Context

United States. Department of the Interior,1931     The New Science of Geology Martin J.S. Rudwick,2023-04-14 The science of geology was constructed in the decades around 1800 from earlier practices that had been significantly different in their cognitive goals In the studies collected here Martin Rudwick traces how it came to be recognised as a new kind of natural science because it was constituted around the idea that the natural world had its own history The earth had to be understood not only in relation to unchanging natural laws that could be observed in action in the present but also in terms of a pre human past that could be reliably known even if not directly observable and its traces only fragmentarily preserved In contrast to this radically novel sense of nature s own contingent history the earth s unimaginably vast timescale was already taken for granted by many naturalists though not yet by the wider public and the concurrent development of biblical scholarship precluded any significant sense of conflict with religious tradition A companion volume Lyell and Darwin Geologists Studies in the Earth Sciences in the Age of Reform was published in 2005     Subject Index of the Modern Works Added to the British Museum Library ,1906     Landscapes and Labscapes Robert E. Kohler,2010-11-15 What is it like to do field biology in a world that exalts experiments and laboratories How have field biologists assimilated laboratory values and practices and crafted an exact quantitative science without losing their naturalist souls In Landscapes and Labscapes Robert E Kohler explores the people places and practices of field biology in the United States from the 1890s to the 1950s He takes readers into the fields and forests where field biologists learned to count and measure nature and to read the imperfect records of nature s experiments He shows how field researchers use nature s particularities to develop practices of place that achieve in nature what laboratory researchers can only do with simplified experiments Using historical frontiers as models Kohler shows how biologists created vigorous new border sciences of ecology and evolutionary biology     Naturalists' Journal and Naturalists' Guide ,1899
