Fields Of Vision Essays In Film Studies Visual Anthropology And Photography:

Fields of Vision Leslie Devereaux, Roger Hillman, 1995-05-15 Filmed images dominate our time from the movies and TV that entertain us to the news and documentary that inform us and shape our cultural vocabulary Crossing disciplinary boundaries Fields of Vision is a path breaking collection that inquires into the power and limits of film and photography to make sense of ourselves and others As critics social scientists filmmakers and literary scholars the contributors converge on the issues of representation and the construction of visual meaning across cultures From the dismembered bodies of horror film to the exotic bodies of ethnographic film and the gorgeous bodies of romantic cinema Fields of Vision moves through eras genres and societies Always asking how images work to produce meaning the essays address the way the real on film creates fantasy news as well as science and considers this problematic process as cultural boundaries are crossed One essay discusses the effects of Hollywood's high capital world wide commercial hegemony on local and non Western cinemas while another explores the response of indigenous people in central Australia to the forces of mass media and video Other essays uncover the work of the unconscious in cinema the shaping of female spectatorship by the women's film genre of the 1920s and the effects of the personal and subjective in documentary films and the photographs of war reportage In illuminating dark elided or wilfully neglected areas of representation these essays uncover new fields of vision People's Lives, Public Images Astrid Böger, 2001

Doing Visual Ethnography Sarah Pink, 2007 Those already proficient in ethnographic methods will find Doing Visual Ethnography a foray into what should be an increasingly normative terrain and what is certainly a much needed addition to the literature They will be challenged to simultaneously take on new methodological conceits and their application beyond traditional boundaries Library Information Science Research Following on from the success of Doing Visual Ethnography this fully revised and updated second edition explores the use and potential of photography video and hypermedia in ethnographic and social research It offers a reflexive approach to theoretical methodological practical and ethical issues of using these media now that they are increasingly being incorporated into field research Sarah Pink adopts the viewpoint that visual research methods should be rooted in a critical understanding of local and academic visual cultures the visual media and technologies being used and the ethical issues they raise The book demonstrates that these new challenges that shape ethnographic knowledge can be met by understanding the reflexivity and experience through which visual and ethnographic materials are produced and interpreted New to the Second Edition General updating of figures terminology and literature to bring the book up to date with recent innovations in theory practice and technology Annotated reading lists added to each chapter to guide the reader to further literature Completely rewritten chapter on digital technology to ensure the text is in line with the latest developments in technology and methodological thinking Drawing from her own experiences of using photography video and hypermedia in research as well as the work of others the author follows the research process from project design planning and implementing and practising fieldwork to analysis and representation suggesting how visual images and technologies can be combined to form an integrated process throughout the different stages of research The Second Edition of Doing Visual Ethnography is an excellent resource for students of sociology anthropology cultural studies media studies and those doing ethnographic and qualitative research It also provides valuable reading for researchers and postgraduates The Films of Lenny Abrahamson Barry

Documenting Ourselves Sharon R. Sherman, 2021-10-21 Since Robert Flaherty's landmark film Nanook of the North 1922 arguments have raged over whether or not film records of people and traditions can ever be authentic And yet never before has a single volume combined documentary ethnographic and folkloristic filmmaking to explore this controversy What happens when we turn the camera on ourselves This question has long plagued documentary filmmakers concerned with issues of reflexivity subject participation and self consciousness Documenting Ourselves includes interviews with filmmakers Les Blank Pat Ferrero Jorge Preloran Bill Ferris and others who discuss the ways their own productions and subjects have influenced them Sharon Sherman examines the history of documentary films and discusses current theories and techniques of folklore and fieldwork But Sharon Sherman does not limit herself to the problems faced by filmmakers today She examines the history of documentary films tracing them from their origins as a means of capturing human motion through the emergence of various film styles She also discusses current theories and techniques of folklore and fieldwork concluding that advances in video technology have made the camcorder an essential tool that has the potential to redefine the nature of the documentary itself

Photography, Early Cinema and Colonial Modernity Robert Dixon, 2013-11-15 Photography Early Cinema and Colonial Modernity is not a biography of Frank Hurley the man it is instead an examination of the social life of the many marvellous and meaningful things he made as a professional photographer and film maker The focus of this volume surrounds the media events that encompassed these various creations what Hurley called his synchronized lecture entertainments These media events were at once national and international they involved Hurley in an entire culture industry that was constantly in movement along global lines of travel and communication This raises complex questions both about the authorship of Hurley's photographic and filmic texts which were often produced and presented by other people and about their ontology as they were often in a state of reassemblage in response to changing market opportunities This unique study re imagines from inside the quiet and stillness of the archive the prior social life enjoyed by Hurley s creations amidst the complicated topography of the early twentieth century s rapidly internationalizing mass media landscape As a way to conceive of that space and of the social life of the people and things within it this study uses the concept of colonial modernity Experimental Ethnography Catherine Russell,1999 A sophisticated theoretical consideration of the related aesthetics and histories of ethnographic and experimental non fiction films Feminism and Documentary Diane Waldman,Janet Walker,1999 Documentary and feminist film studies have long been separate or parallel universes that need to converse or collide The essays in this volume written by prominent scholars and filmmakers demonstrate the challenges that feminist perspectives pose for documentary theory history and practice They also show how fuller attention to documentary enriches and complicates feminist theory especially regarding the relationship between gender and sexuality race and ethnicity class and nation Feminism and Documentary begins with a substantial historical introduction that highlights several of the specific areas that contributors address debates over realism the relationship between filmmaker and subject historical thinking about documentary and thinking about the historical documentary biography and autobiography and the use of psychoanalysis Other essays most of which appear here for the first time range from broad overviews to close analyses of particular films and videos and from discussions of well known works such as Roger and Me and Don t Look Back to lesser known texts that might revise the canon The collection includes an extensive filmography and videography with useful distribution information and a bibliography of work in this neglected area of scholarship Lucid sophisticated and eye opening this book will galvanize documentary studies and demonstrate the need for women s and cultural studies to grapple with visual media what cu Film as Cultural Artifact Mathew P. John,2017-06-15 Film is popularly described as a mirror of culture It plays a pivotal role in facilitating intercultural dialogue in our global village World cinema helps us understand and appreciate each other s cultural identity and promotes harmony across different cultures in our pluralistic society It introduces us to the life of the other in an entertaining yet engaging fashion creating cultural bridges that foster a sense of unity in the midst of our diversity This book argues that cultural anthropology and theology offer two distinct yet intrinsically connected theoretical frameworks to formulate a more holistic reading of religion from world cinema It proposes an integrated methodology for religious criticism of film in which we look at religion as a subsystem of culture and observe how religious experiences depicted on the screen are mediated through the personal bias of the auteur and the context in which the film is produced It thus creates a renewed appreciation for the religious diversity in our world by providing a new way of observing and interpreting ethnographic information from world cinema An Introduction to Visual Research Methods in Tourism Tijana Rakić,Donna Chambers,2011-07-27 An Introduction to Visual Research Methods in Tourism is the first book to present discuss and promote the use of a range of visual methods including still images such as photographs postcards drawings and moving images such as video within the context of tourism research The book focuses on key issues important for students researchers and academics actively doing visual tourism research or those who are contemplating using these methods These range from the questions surrounding philosophical approaches inter disciplinary location range and choice of methods implementation and data analysis techniques to provide an essential guide to using visual methods in tourism research While recognising that visual methods are predominantly employed within qualitative research this text will discuss various philosophical approaches and academic disciplines indicating how these influence a particular choice of visual method mode of implementation and type of analysis In this regard this book will incorporate perspectives from a range of disciplines including anthropology geography and sociology demonstrating how these might be applied within the context of studies in tourism The discussions surrounding these key issues are supplemented with international case studies from existing research to show how these methods are used in practice In addition to this practical tip boxes are included to help avoid some of the pitfalls associated with visual research This book is an essential guide for tourism students academics and researchers embarking on research using visual methodology in this field

Working Images Ana Isabel Alfonso, Laszlo Kurti, Sarah Pink, 2004-08-02 Visual methods such as drawing painting video photography and hypermedia offer increasingly accessible and popular resources for ethnographic research In Working Images prominent visual anthropologists and artists explore how old and new visual media can be integrated into contemporary forms of research and representation Drawing upon projects undertaken both at home in their native countries and abroad in locations such as Ethiopia and Venezuela the book's contributors demonstrate how visual methods are used in the field and how these methods can produce and communicate knowledge about our own and other cultures As well as focusing on key issues such as ethics and the relationship between word and image they emphasize the huge range of visual methods currently opening up new possibilities for field research from cartoons and graphic art to new media such as digital video and online technologies

Indigenous Movements, Self-Representation, and the State in Latin America Kay B. Warren, Jean E. Jackson, 2010-07-22 Throughout Latin America indigenous peoples are responding to state violence and pro democracy social movements by asserting their rights to a greater measure of cultural autonomy and self determination This volume's rich case studies of movements in Colombia Guatemala and Brazil weigh the degree of success achieved by indigenous leaders in influencing national agendas when governments display highly ambivalent attitudes about strengthening ethnic diversity The contributors to this volume are leading anthropologists and indigenous activists from the United States and Latin America They address the double binds of indigenous organizing and working within the system as well as the flexibility of political tactics used to achieve cultural goals outside the scope of state politics The contributors answer questions about who speaks for indigenous communities how indigenous movements relate to the popular left and how conflicts between the national indigenous leadership and local communities play out in specific cultural and political contexts The volume sheds new light on the realities of asymmetrical power relations and on the ways in which indigenous communities and their representatives employ Western constructions of subjectivity alterity and authentic versus counterfeit identity as well as how they manipulate bureaucratic structures international organizations and the mass media to advance goals that involve distinctive visions of an indigenous future
