Fieldwork In Medieval Archaeology:

Fieldwork in Medieval Archaeology Christopher Taylor, 1974 Medieval Studies James M. Powell, 1992-08-01 In addition to sections devoted to Latin paleography diplomatics computer assisted research numismatics archaeology problems in chronology and prosopography this text describes state of the art research methodology and critical approaches to English literature Latin philosophies law science art and music Techniques of Archaeological Excavation Philip Barker, 1993 Immediately hailed as the standard work and one of the most widely used archaeological field manuals Philip Barker's survey of current excavation techniques now in its third edition remains an indispensable guide for archaeologists The Amateur Archaeologist Stephen Wass, 2002-11 This informed and practical guide shows how anyone with an interest can take part in archaeology at many different levels whether through fieldwork undertaken individually or by joining an excavation Stephen Wass himself an enthusiast with long experience provides all that a beginner needs to know what is archaeology all about the range of skills that can be learnt examples of ideas for projects advice on what to expect on a dig clear explanations of archaeological techniques There are some 177 local archaeological societies in Britain with 40 000 members as well as numerous school extramural and university courses in archaeology It is one professional area in which the amateur however inexperienced can still not only participate but also make a real contribution and this book positively encourages people to join in Caldecote Guy Beresford, 2017-12-02 At just 132 hectares 325 acres the parish of Caldecote is one of the smallest parishes in Hertfordshire Today the settlement comprises the manor house until recently surrounded by a range of traditional farm buildings together with six labourer's cottages and the church To the north lies the site of the old rectory and the earthworks of a medieval settlement In 1973 the Department of Environment and the Deserted Medieval Village Research Group arranged a rescue excavation to examine the earthworks of the medieval village before they were levelled and ploughed Five crofts the old rectory site and much of the moated enclosure were investigated in one of the largest excavations ever conducted on a later medieval rural site in Britain Though the excavations did recover a Bronze Age beaker burial and small quantities of Roman and Iron Age pottery the medieval settlement at Caldecote was probably founded in the 10th century and by the time of the Domesday Survey there was a church a priest and nine villeins A moated site was added in the 13th century A century later Caldecote was granted to the abbots of the Benedictine monastery in St Albans at a time when there were seventeen householders Early in the second half of the 14th century the estate and demesne were subdivided into six farms each complete with a hall house and two or more barns Following the dissolution of the monastery in 1539 the manor was again held by an absentee lord and the farms continued to prosper However the late 16th and early 17th centuries for which there are several surviving wills and inventories saw their gradual abandonment After the desertion of Caldecote Marish in 1698 Caldecote was farmed as a single unit until 1970 when the estate was attached to that adjoining the manor of Newnham Of particular importance from Caldecote is the archaeological evidence for medieval peasant structures the development of the later medieval domestic plan and the structural transformation of post medieval period houses including the insertion of chimneys and second storeys The medieval and later pottery assemblage is of regional importance for its size and the range of fabrics represented The metalwork comprises many objects of personal adornment household utensils and tools for woodwork agriculture and the manufacture of textiles Other finds include copper alloy objects both domestic and agricultural whetstones quernstones mortars and clay pipes Although the economy of Caldecote was always dependant on arable farming the faunal remains elucidate aspects of the medieval diet and details of the livestock maintained on the holdings The Village & House in the Middle Ages Jean Chapelot, Robert

Fossier, 1985-01-01 The Agrarian History of England and Wales: Volume 1, Prehistory to AD 1042 Stuart Piggott, Joan Thirsk, 2011-04-28 This volume surveys the evolution of the man made landscape in Britain over the period of some three millennia before the Roman conquest The Agrarian History of England and Wales: Volume 1, Part 1, Prehistory

Christopher Dyer, Richard Jones, 2010 Assembling leading experts on the subject this account explores the circumstances surrounding the disappearance of thousands of villages and smaller settlements in England and Wales between 1340 and 1750 By revisiting the deserted villages this breakthrough study addresses questions that have plagued archaeologists geographers and historians since the 1940s including why they were deserted why some villages survived while others were abandoned and who was responsible for their desertion offering a series of exciting insights into the fate of these fascinating sites England under the Norman and Angevin Kings Robert Bartlett, 2002-08-08 This lively and far reaching account of the politics religion and culture of England in the century and a half after the Norman Conquest provides a vivid picture of everyday existence and increases our understanding of all aspects of medieval society This was a period in which the ruling dynasty and military aristocracy were deeply enmeshed with the politics and culture of France Professor Bartlett describes their conflicts and their preoccupations the sense of honour the role of violence and the glitter of tournament heraldry and Arthurian romance He explores the mechanics of government assesses the role of the Church at a time of radical developments in religious life and organization and investigates the peasant economy the foundation of this society and the growing urban and commercial activity There are colourful details of the everyday life of ordinary men and women with their views on the past on sexuality on animals on death the undead and the occult The result is a fascinating and comprehensive portrayal of a period which begins with conquest and ends in assimilation The Oxford Handbook of Later Medieval Archaeology in Britain Christopher Gerrard, Alejandra Gutiérrez, 2018-01-11 The Middle Ages are all around us in Britain The Tower of London and the castles of Scotland and Wales are mainstays of cultural tourism and an inspiring cross section of

later medieval finds can now be seen on display in museums across England Scotland and Wales Medieval institutions from Parliament and monarchy to universities are familiar to us and we come into contact with the later Middle Ages every day when we drive through a village or town look up at the castle on the hill visit a local church or wonder about the earthworks in the fields we see from the window of a train The Oxford Handbook of Later Medieval Archaeology in Britain provides an overview of the archaeology of the later Middle Ages in Britain between AD 1066 and 1550 61 entries divided into 10 thematic sections cover topics ranging from later medieval objects human remains archaeological science standing buildings and sites such as castles and monasteries to the well preserved relict landscapes which still survive This is a rich and exciting period of the past and most of what we have learnt about the material culture of our medieval past has been discovered in the past two generations This volume provides comprehensive coverage of the latest research and describes the major projects and concepts that are changing our understanding of our medieval heritage

Local History in England W. G. Hoskins, David Hey, 2014-01-14 Considered to be the classic introduction to the subject this third edition has been carefully revised and updated to take account of the developments in the subject and includes an extensive newly compiled bibliography and twice the number of illustrations as in previous editions

Landscapes of Change Neil Christie, 2017-03-02 Only in recent years has archaeology begun to examine in a coherent manner the transformation of the landscape from classical through to medieval times In Landscapes of Change leading scholars in the archaeology of the late antique and early medieval periods address the key results and directions of Roman rural fieldwork In so doing they highlight problems of analysis and interpretation whilst also identifying the variety of transformations that rural Europe experienced during and following the decline of Roman hegemony Whilst documents and standing buildings predominate in the urban context to provide a coherent and tangible guide to the evolving urban form and its society since Roman times the countryside in many ages remains rather shadowy a context for the cultivation gathering and movement of food and other resources inhabited by farmers villagers and miners Whilst the Roman period is adequately served through occasional extant remains and through the survey and excavation of villas and farmsteads as well as the writings of agronomists the medieval one is generally well marked by the presence of still extant villages across Europe often dependent on castles and manors which symbolise the so called feudal centuries But the intervening period the fourth to tenth centuries is that with the least documentation and with the fewest survivals What happened to the settlement units that made up the Roman rural world When and why do new settlement forms emerge Landscapes of Change is essential reading for anyone wanting an up to date summary of the results of archaeological and historical investigations into the changing countryside of the late Roman late antique and early medieval world between the fourth and tenth centuries AD It questions numerous aspects of change and continuity assessing the levels of impact of military and economic decay the spread and influence of Christianity and the role of Germanic Slav and Arab settlements in disrupting and redefining the ancient rural landscapes

Peasant Perceptions of Landscape

Stephen Miles, Stuart Brookes, 2021 This volume marks a change in the areas of landscape history and the history of everyday life offering the first sustained analysis of how ordinary medieval and early modern people experienced and perceived their material environment and constructed their identities in relation to the places they lived focussing on the area of Ewelme hundred

Archaeological Practice in Great Britain John Schofield, John Carmen, Paul Belford, 2011-08-19 This manual provides a unique user guide to practicing archaeology and working in the cultural heritage sector within the diverse settings of Great Britain comprising of England Scotland Wales the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands As part of their training archaeologists often seek work in parts of Britain either for experience before travelling elsewhere or directly as part of their career progression While this does involve reading published material on excavation techniques archaeological theory and specific heritage management practices or research using the Internet the ideal preparation to working in Britain for the first time requires practitioners to know a little about a lot Currently there is no single resource which provides that primary resource for budding archaeologists Archaeological Practice in Great Britain will provide just such a resource presented in an accessible style with a comprehensive and up to date bibliography and lists of useful websites Professionals with particular areas of expertise will contribute short sections on particular subjects incorporated into the main text prepared by the authors Throughout the specific contexts and differences between the various component nations and regions of Great Britain will be made clear

The Farming of Prehistoric Britain P. J. Fowler, 1983-07-07 Emphasizing past gains in knowledge from experimental aerial and field archaeology Dr Fowler demonstrates how the application of archaeological approaches to agrarian history has made the subject central to our understanding of the prehistoric period Emphasizing past gains in knowledge from experimental aerial and field archaeology Dr Fowler demonstrates how the application of archaeological approaches to agrarian history has made the subject central to our understanding of the prehistoric period

The Oxford Companion to Archaeology Neil Asher Silberman, 2012-11 The second edition of The Oxford Companion to Archaeology is a thoroughly up to date resource with new entries exploring the many advances in the field since the first edition published in 1996 In 700 entries the second edition provides thorough coverage to historical archaeology the development of archaeology as a field of study and the way the discipline works to explain the past In addition to these theoretical entries other entries describe the major excavations discoveries and innovations from the discovery of the cave paintings at Lascaux to the deciphering of Egyptian hieroglyphics and the use of luminescence dating Recent developments in methods and analytical techniques which have revolutionized the ways excavations are performed are also covered as well as new areas within archaeology such as cultural tourism and major new sites which have expanded our understanding of prehistory and human developments through time In addition to significant expansion first edition entries have been thoroughly revised and updated to reflect the progress that has been made in the last decade and a half
