Women Fielding Danger Martha K. Huggins,Marie-Louise Glebbeek,2009-01-16 In a compelling exploration of an oft hidden aspect of qualitative field research Women Fielding Danger shows how identity performances can facilitate or block field research outcomes The book asks questions that are crucial for all women engaged in field research Do researchers enter their field site with a totally neutral identity Can a researcher s own identity be at odds with how interviewees see her Could a researcher be of the wrong gender sexuality nationality or religion for those being studied Must some of a researcher s identities be subsumed in certain research settings How much identity disguise is possible before a researcher violates research ethics or loses herself Together these questions inform the book s themes of the centrality of gender social and political danger the negotiation of identities and on site ethics Focusing on ethnographic research across a wide range of disciplines and world regions this deeply informed book presents practical to dos and technical research strategies In addition it offers unique illustrations of how the political geographic and organizational realities of field sites shape identity negotiations and research outcomes Understanding these dynamics the authors show is key to surviving the ethnographic field

Ethical Concerns in Research on Human Trafficking Dina Siegel,Roos de Wildt,2015-12-08 This book presents a vivid description of the solutions that researchers have discovered for ethical dilemmas that pose themselves at studying disadvantaged vulnerable and victimized populations Ethical codes prescribe that the scholar should in all circumstances avoid potential harm that informed consent is necessary and that the limits of confidentiality should always be respected. However, in the practice of research among women involved in prostitution, illegal immigrant workers, enslaved children, people who sell their organs, and all the traffickers thereof, the ethical rules cannot always be followed. This book shows that there is a surprising variety of arguable possibilities in dealing with ethical dilemmas in the field. Authors reflect on concrete experiences from their own fieldwork in a wide variety of settings such as the USA, Singapore, Kosovo, and The Netherlands. Some choose to work on the basis of conscientious partiality, others negotiate the rules with their informants, and still others purposely break the rules in order to disclose and damage the exploiters. Researchers may find themselves in a vulnerable position. Their experiences as presented in this volume will help field workers, university administrators, representatives of vulnerable groups, philosophers of ethics, and most of all students to go into the field well prepared. This is a book that every researcher planning to do fieldwork in the difficult field of hidden, illicit, and victimized people should read in advance.

Gender and Citizenship in Transitional Justice Sanne Weber, 2024-12-10. Through two Colombian case studies, Sanne Weber identifies the ways in which conflict experiences are defined by structures of gender inequality and how these could be transformed in the post-conflict context. The author reveals that current, apparently gender-sensitive transitional justice (TJ) and disarmament, demobilization, and reintegration (DDR) laws and policies ultimately undermine rather than transform gender equality and consequently weaken the chances of achieving holistic and durable peace. To overcome this, Weber offers an innovative approach to TJ and DDR that places gendered citizenship as both the starting point and the continued driving force of post-conflict reconstruction.

The Criminology of War Ruth Jamieson, 2017-07-05. The essays selected for this volume provide an overview of the range of issues confronting scholars interested in the complex and multiple relationships between war and criminality and map the many connections between war, security, governmentality, punishment, gender, and crime. The collection draws on the recent theoretical advances made by both criminologists and scholars from cognate disciplines such as law, politics, anthropology, and gender studies in order to open out criminological thinking about what war is, how it is related to crime, and how these war-crime relationships reach into peace. The volume features contributions from key thinkers in the field and serves as a valuable resource for academics and students with an interest in the criminology of war. Viens, 2017-03-02 The essays selected for this volume focus on issues that arise when attempting to design review and undertake research involving human participants who are experiencing a private or public emergency The main themes discussed by the essays are the distinctive and significant ethical questions as to how research participants can be treated during emergency settings the ethical challenges raised by emergencies for researchers undertaking research and its effects on the nature of research pursued and procedural obstacles raised by emergencies which can affect the quality of good research ethics review The volume is unique in that it is the first collection to exclusively deal with all of the central ethical aspects of conducting human subject research in the context of emergency Responsibility to Protect Rama Mani, Thomas G. Weiss, 2013-03 This volume explores in a novel and challenging way the emerging norm of the Responsibility to Protect R2P initially adopted by the United Nations World Summit in 2005 following significant debate throughout the preceding decade This work seeks to uncover whether this norm and its founding values have resonance and grounding within diverse cultures and within the experiences of societies that have directly been torn apart by mass atrocity crimes The contributors to this collection analyze the responsibility to protect through multiple disciplines philosophy religion and spirituality anthropology and aesthetics in addition to international relations and law to explore what light alternative perspectives outside of political science and international relations shed upon this emerging norm In each case the disciplinary analysis emanates from the global South and from scholars located within countries that experienced violent political upheaval Hence they draw upon not only theory but also the first hand experience with conscience shocking crimes Their retrospective and prospective analyses could and should help shape the future implementation of R2P in accordance with insights from vastly different contexts Offering a cutting edge contribution to thinking in the area this is essential reading for all those with an interest in humanitarian intervention peace and conflict studies critical security studies and peacebuilding Critical Terrorism Studies Richard Jackson, Marie Breen Smyth, Jeroen Gunning, 2009-02-05 In response to the growth of a critical perspective on contemporary issues of terrorism this edited volume brings together a number of leading scholars to debate the new subfield of critical terrorism studies In the years since the 9 11 attacks terrorism studies has undergone a major transformation from minor subfield of security studies into a large stand alone field and is probably one of the fastest expanding areas of research in the Western academic world However much of the literature is beset by a number of problems limiting its potential for producing rigorous empirical findings and genuine theoretical advancement In response to these weaknesses in the broader field a small but increasing number of scholars have begun to articulate a critical perspective on contemporary issues of terrorism This volume brings together a number of leading scholars to debate the need for and the shape of this exciting new subfield The first part of the volume examines some of the main shortcomings and limitations of orthodox terrorism studies while the second examines exactly what a critical terrorism studies would look like Contributors from a variety of methodological and disciplinary perspectives give this volume diversity and it will lay the foundations for and provoke debate about the future research agenda of this new field This book will be of much interest to students of critical security studies terrorism studies and IR theory in general Richard Jackson is Reader in the Department of International Politics Aberystwyth University where he is also Senior Researcher at the Centre for the Study of Radicalisation and Contemporary Political Violence CSRV He is the founding editor of the journal Critical Studies on Terrorism Marie Breen Smyth is Director of the Centre for the Study of Radicalisation and Contemporary Political Violence CSRV at Aberystwyth University She is a Reader in International Politics and co editor of the journal Critical Studies on Terrorism Jeroen Gunning is Lecturer in International Politics at Aberystwyth University Deputy Director of the Centre for the Study of Radicalisation and Contemporary Political Violence and co editor of the journal Critical Studies on Terrorism
