only to be resorted to when all peaceful modes of arrangement have been vainly tried and when the law of self defence justifies a State like an individual in using force to protect itself from imminent and serious injury For a writer therefore of the present day to choose battles for his favourite topic merely because they were battles merely because so many myriads of troops were arrayed in them and so many hundreds or thousands of human beings stabbed hewed or shot each other to death during them would argue strange weakness or depravity of mind
