Fight For Plover Hill:

Irish Children's Literature and Culture Keith O'Sullivan, Valerie Coghlan, 2011-03-17 Irish Children's Literature and Culture looks critically at Irish writing for children from the 1980s to the present examining the work of many writers and illustrators and engaging with major genres forms and issues including the gothic the speculative picturebooks ethnicity and globalization It contextualizes modern Irish children's literature in relation to Irish mythology and earlier writings as well as in relation to Irish writing for adults thereby demonstrating the complexity of this fascinating area What constitutes a national literature is rarely straightforward and it is especially complex when discussing writing for young people in an Irish context Until recently there was only a slight body of work that could be classified as Irish children's literature in comparison with Ireland's contribution to adult literature in the twentieth century The contributors to the volume examine a range of texts in relation to contemporary literary and cultural theory and children's literature internationally raising provocative questions about the future of the topic Irish Children's Literature and Culture is essential reading for those interested in Irish literature culture sociology childhood and children's literature Valerie Coghlan Church of Ireland College of Education Dublin is a librarian and lecturer She is a former co editor of Bookbird An International Journal of Children's Literature She has published widely on Irish children's literature and co edited several books on the topic She is a former board member of the IRSCLE and a founder member of the Irish Society for the Study of Children's Literature Children's Books Ireland and IBBY Ireland Keith O'Sullivan lectures in English at the Church of Ireland College of Education Dublin He is a founder member of the Irish Society for the Study of Children's Literature a former member of the board of directors of Children's Books Ireland and past chair of the Children's Books Ireland Bisto Book of the Year Awards He has published on the works of Philip Pullman and Emily Brontë

Adam's Starling Gillian Perdue, 2001 Adam is shy and a dreamer and he is picked on at school He doesn't know what to do Then his special starling who follows him to school needs his help Will Adam find courage at last

The Fight for Plover Hill Eilis Dillon, 2001 John's grandfather Old Dan refuses to leave his farm on Plover Hill even when the valley around it is flooded and it becomes an island The only sensible option is for John to move in there with him When their idyllic lifestyle and the rich wildlife of the island is threatened John wonders will he be able to save Plover Hill for his grandfather and for the animals for whom it is a sanctuary
