theology within a constructive evangelical theological method It examines Black Liberation Theology's claims of embedded racism within White theological systems and then asks both if Reformed North American Evangelicalism evidences racism within its theology and if so how might that be addressed biblically and doctrinally while remaining true to the theological essence of evangelicalism Along the way the author engages critically with an evangelical tradition represented by John Calvin Jonathan Edwards Charles Hobbs and Carl F H Henry and considers it in the light of the critique of James Cone Having identified racism within the theological tradition the author then offers a constructive evangelical theology of power and privilege that he accesses as truly antiracist In pursuit of this theological conclusion the author explores biblical texts on liberation subjection and obedience and applies his conclusions to constructive work on the Doctrine of God This is done within an evangelical hermeneutical methodology that privileges the biblical text This book will be of interest to evangelicals who are engaged in debates around race racism and social justice either theologically or historically and theologians generally interested in the application of hermeneutics to theological method It will also be of interest to anyone regardless of tradition as a guide to how white theologians can take seriously the contributions and value of the Black intellectual tradition to their work

Fighting Racism Gus Hall, 1985 Anarchism in Korea Dongyoun Hwang, 2016-09-30 A regional and transnational history of anarchism in Korea This book provides a history of anarchism in Korea and challenges conventional views of Korean anarchism as merely part of nationalist ideology situating the study within a wider East Asian regional context Dongyoun Hwang demonstrates that although the anarchist movement in Korea began as part of its struggle for independence from Japan connections with anarchists and ideas from China and Japan gave the movement a regional and transnational dimension that transcended its initial nationalistic scope Following the movement after 1945 Hwang shows how anarchism in Korea was deradicalized and evolved into an idea for both social revolution and alternative national development with emphasis on organizing and educating peasants and developing rural villages In contrast to dominant Korean language scholarship this book has a dialectical understanding of the relationship between anarchism and nationalism one that understands the importance of nationalism for revolution in the colonial context but one that also shows convincingly that as anarchism in Korea grew and deepened it acquired significantly transnational dimensions Christopher Connery author of The Empire of the Text Writing and Authority in Early Imperial China
