Fighter Pilots Summer Sequel To The Bestselling Fighter Pilot:

We Can Take It! Mark Connelly, 2014-07-10 We Can Take It shows that the British remember the war in a peculiar way thanks to a mix of particular images and evidence Our memory has been shaped by material which is completely removed from historical reality These images including complete inventions have combined to make a new history The vision is mostly cosy and suits the way in which the Britons conceive of themselves dogged good humoured occasionally bumbling unified and enjoying diversity In fact Britons load their memory towards the early part of the war Dunkirk Blitz Battle of Britain rather than when we were successful in the air or against Italy and Germany with invasions This suits our love of being the underdog fighting against the odds and being in a crisis Conversely the periods of the war during which Britain was in the ascendant are perversely far more hazy in the public memory

The Burning Blue Jeremy A. Crang, Paul Addison, 2010-07-15 It was of course the Battle of Britain or rather its conclusion that prompted one of Winston Churchill's most memorable pieces of oratory that has its epitome in the sentence 'Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few'. If the Battle of Britain had been lost it is very likely the New Order to which the Axis powers had pledged themselves would have become global with unthinkable consequences for the world afterwards. The importance of the Battle of Britain cannot be exaggerated though inevitably in the succeeding years the accretion of myth has brought about many distortions. This multi-faceted symposium emerged from the Centre of Second World War Studies at Edinburgh University with the aim in the words of the editors to reassess established themes while opening up new ones. After a masterly introduction by Brian Bond the book is divided into six parts: Before the Battle, The Battle, The View from Afar, Experience and Memory, The Making of a British Legend, and The Significance. The contributors are Klaus A. Maier, Malcolm Smith, Horst Boog, Sebastian Cox, Sergei Kudryshov, Richard P. Hallion, Theodore F. Cook, Hans Ekkehard Bob Wallace, Cunningham, Nigel Rose, Owen Dudley Edwards, Angus Calder, Tony Aldgate, Adrian Gregory, Jeremy Lake, and John Schofield. Paul Addison and Jeremy A. Crang and Richard Overy. No survey could be more wide-ranging or fascinating. First published in 2000 to mark the 60th anniversary it is now being reissued in 2010 to mark the 70th anniversary. But it is terrific. It's not only an acknowledgement of the heroism of the fighter pilots and all the ancillary crew but a serious contribution to the historical record. Seventeen contributors write about the Battle from pretty much every conceivable angle and Addison and Crang have chosen them well. This is not an automatically worshipful book; it poses questions about the morality of war, the existence of heroism, the reliability of memory. But it treats the subject honestly and with justice. And it tells us why we won because it would appear it helps to come from a society that is sceptical of authority rather than in blind, unthinking terror of it. Nicholas Lezard, Guardian. This book is a first-class piece of work, stimulating, informative and concise. Brian Holden Reid, Times Higher Education Supplement. This is a nugget of a book; it assembles most readably a range of authoritative and international views on the Battle, its history and its significance. Air Chief Marshal Sir Michael Graydon, Royal United Services Institute. This is a much-told story but the varied viewpoints of the 20 contributors to Burning Blue, ranging from a fascinating essay by Owen Dudley Edwards on the air war as reflected in children's literature to the memories of pilots who fought in it on both sides, give an impressive breadth and depth. And even though it strips away hindsight and refuses to burnish legends, what is left is still one of the most remarkable stories in the whole of British history. The British empire didn't last a thousand years but the man was right: this truly was its finest hour. David Robinson, The Scotsman. Aerospace Historian, 1981. In the Ranks of Death Richard Doherty, 2010-06-15 When war broke out in 1939 over 20,000 Irishmen were serving in the Royal Navy, Army and Royal Air Force, with the greatest proportion in the Army. During the war this rose to over 120,000, suggesting that about 100,000 enlisted during the war. Nine earned the Victoria Cross, three members of the Royal Navy including a Fleet Air Arm pilot, four soldiers including a member of the Australian forces and two RAF pilots The author looks at the seven Irish regiments in campaigns across the globe at Irish soldiers across the Army at Irish sailors from the Battle of the River Plate to the final actions against Japan and at Irish airmen from the first bombing raids of the war to the closing days of war Included are outstanding personalities such as the Chavasse brothers who earned three DSOs three DSCs and two MiDs Bala Bredin Corran Purden Brendan Paddy Finucane Blair Mayne and Roy Farran the latter pair highly decorated SAS officers There are also Irish generals such as Paddy Warren who died while commanding 5th Indian Division in Burma and Frederick Loftus Tottenham who commanded 81st West African Division not to mention giants such as Alexander Auchinleck Montgomery and McCreery Irish women are not forgotten in the book which also takes a brief look at the Irish in other Allied forces including a most unusual volunteer for the US Navy whose application to serve had to be approved by President Roosevelt He was William Patrick Hitler a nephew of Germany's Führer
