used to her new life in the woods only for it to be thrown into disarray by the arrival of a mysterious man from Cerezhula's past THE STRUGGLE FOR POWER & THE FIGHT FOR SURVIVAL Balthazar Rodrigue Nzomono-Balenda, 2012-11

Throughout man's history we have always found methods to survive any event that comes our way the same can also be seen in the animal kingdom When we censor our right to survive we censor what makes us who we are and the strength we've been given by nature On the other hand power can be used in both healthy and destructive ways The problem with religion is that it imposed dogma speculative delusions fundamentalism etc that's it can be a hindering to man's progress if religion claims to have authority where it has none I'm using poetry as the language to describe this human experience because I want to get my point across about religious fanaticism but also concerns about dictatorships in Africa immigration addiction and crime Survival methods may differ from one person to another it's what we do with it that makes the difference for better or worse Surviving a Darkroom Marvin McKelvey, 2011-09-15 When Marvin McKelvey was just forty seven years old he suffered a stroke an unusual occurrence for someone his age This major stroke dramatically changed the way he would live the rest of his life In this memoir McKelvey tells his personal story of how he recovered from this severe mid life emergency Surviving a Darkroom provides intimate details of the dark void of his stroke the critical surgery that followed the paralysis in his left side the pain of physical therapy and the long process of recovery McKelvey shares how his Christianity and his relationship with God helped him cope with the aftermath of his stroke A story of determination Surviving a Darkroom shows how McKelvey's faith in God provided the impetus for recovering from a stroke that left him feeling alone in a very dark room It demonstrates how he saw the light and crawled out of the tunnel to lead an independent life Fight For Survival
