Romanoff by George Griffith The Reference Catalogue of Current Literature ,1910 Lasseters Legacy Steven Elliott, 2020-10-29 The Lasseter legend is well known in Australia or at least it was when I was a younger man The story goes that a man named Harrold Lasseter whilst journeying across the desert from Alice Springs to the west coast around 1900 reportedly discovered a fabulously rich reef of gold Nothing was done about the discovery until many years later in the 1930 s when Lasseter mounted an expedition to relocate the fabulous reef an expedition that resulted in his death and no reef Since that time many people have ventured into the desert in search of the reef with no success This book details a geologists quest for the reef and his own fabulous gold find which become embroiled in criminal conspiracy and action Of course the hero geologist triumphs and a World class series of gold mines is established It should however be noted that the author believes that Lasseters gold reef never existed The Nation ,1892 Olga Romanoff George Chetwynd Griffith, 2019-12-05 In Olga Romanoff George Chetwynd Griffith crafts a thrilling narrative that explores themes of power identity and the intersection of science and politics in a rapidly changing world Set against a backdrop of early 20th century Europe the novel melds elements of science fiction and adventure showcasing Griffith's keen foresight regarding technological advancements and their implications on societal structures. The prose is richly descriptive employing a blend of fantastical elements and realistic political landscapes all while pushing the boundaries of speculative fiction for its time reflecting the burgeoning fascination with science during the Victorian era Griffith was a pioneering figure in early science fiction often heralded for his innovative ideas and vivid imagination His background in journalism and his political awareness greatly influenced his writing particularly in Olga Romanoff where he delves into the societal upheavals following World War I Griffith s personal experiences and keen interest in political movements of his time provide a deeper context to the narrative illuminating his critical perspective on the era's complexities. This compelling novel is highly recommended for readers interested in the origins of science fiction and those seeking an engaging exploration of political intrigue and human emotion Griffith's narrative not only entertains but also invites reflection on the ethical dilemmas presented by scientific progress making it a timeless read for enthusiasts of speculative literature Olga Romanoff: The Syren of the Skies George Chetwynd Griffith, 2020-09-28 A HUNDRED years had passed since Natas the Master of the Terror had given into the hands of Richard Arnold his charge to the future generations of the Aerians as the descendants of the Terrorists who had colonised the mountain walled valley of Aeria in Central Africa were now called since the man who had planned and accomplished the greatest revolution in the history of the world had given his last blessing to his companions in arms and their children and had turned his face to the wall and died It was midday on the 8th of December 2030 and the rulers of all the civilised States of the world were gathered together in St Paul's Cathedral to receive from the hands of a descendant of Natas in the fourth generation the restoration of the right of independent national rule which on the same spot a hundred and twenty five years before had been taken from the sovereigns of Europe and vested in the Supreme Council of the Anglo

Saxon Federation The period of tutelage had passed Under the wise and firm rule of the Council and the domination of the Anglo Saxon race the Golden Age had seemed to return to the world For a hundred and twenty five years there had been peace on earth broken only by the outbreak and speedy suppression of a few tribal wars among the more savage races of Africa and Malaysia Now the descendants of those who had been victors and vanguished in the world war of 1904 had met to give back and assume the freedom and the responsibility of national independence The vast cathedral was throughd as it had been on the momentous day when Natas had pronounced his judgment on the last of the Tyrants of Russia and ended the old order of things in Europe But it was filled by a very different assembly to that which had stood within its walls on the morrow of Armageddon Then the stress and horror of a mighty conflict had set its stamp on every face Hate had looked out of eyes in which the tears were scarcely dry and hungered fiercely for the blood of the oppressor The clash of arms the stern command and the pitiless words of doom had sounded then in ears which but a few hours before had listened to the roar of artillery and the thunder of battle That had been the dawn of the morrow of strife this was the zenith of the noon of peace Now in all the vast assembly no hand held a weapon no face was there which showed a sign of sorrow fear or anger and in no heart save only two among the thousands was there a thought of hate or bitterness For three days past the Festival of Deliverance had been celebrated all over the civilised world and now in the centre of the city which had come to be the capital not only of the vast domains of Anglo Saxondom but of the whole world a solemn act of renunciation was to be performed upon the issues of which the fate of all humanity would hang for the members of the Supreme Council had come through the skies from their seat of empire in Aeria to abdicate the world throne in obedience to the command of the dead Master from whom their ancestors had derived it At a table drawn across the front of the chancel sat the President and the twelve men who with him had up to this hour shared the empire of the human race Below the steps on the floor of the cathedral sat in a wide semicircle the rulers of the kingdoms and republics of the earth assembled to hear the last word of their over lords and to receive from them the power and responsibility of maintaining or forfeiting as the event should prove the blessings which had multiplied under the sovereignty of the Aerians The President of the Council was the direct descendant not only of Alan Tremayne its first President but also of Richard Arnold and Natasha for their eldest son born in the first year of the Peace had married the only daughter of Tremayne and their first born son had been his father s father Although the average physique of civilised man had immensely improved under the new order of things the Aerians descendants of the pick of the nations of Europe were as far superior to the rest of the assembly as the latter would have been to the men and women of the nineteenth century but even amongst the members of the Council the splendid stature and regal dignity of Alan Arnold the President stamped him as a born ruler of men whose title rested upon something higher than election or inheritance At the last stroke of twelve the President rose in his place and in the midst of an almost breathless silence read the message of Natas to the great congregation This done he laid the parchment down on the table and beginning from the outbreak of the world war rapidly and lucidly sketched out the vast and beneficent changes in the government of society that its issues had made possible He traced the marvellous development of the new civilisation which in four generations had raised men from a state of half barbarous strife and brutality to one of universal peace and prosperity from inhuman and unsparing competition to friendly co operation in public and generous rivalry in private concerns from horrible contrasts of wealth and misery to a social state in which the removal of all unnatural disabilities in the race of life had made them impossible 33 Miracles A.P. Vasko,2012-11-06 Daniel is 16 and completely alone His father is in prison his mother is in the graveyard His only direction comes from his mother s passing gifts a Bible a Miraculous Medal and a spiritual journal guiding him through the Catholic Faith Along with these items and a job at the local grocery store he sets out to pray for others more than he prays for himself The result is 33 miracles occurring to 33 different people over the course of three years with a most unexpected outcome
