Water and War at Pyreneus Mountains: Historical Eco-Archaeology of Lavras do Abade Diogo M. Costa,2011-02 The Lavras do Abade research is a multiple perspective archaeological study about the environmental impacts of a gold mining village in Mid Western Brazil that was destroyed by neighboring villages at the end of the nineteenth century According to local narratives the conflict was the consequence of a dispute about the control and use of natural resources such as water However this investigation reveals that the conflict was caused also by economic and political disputes between the villages in the region In this work each stage of investigation is presented in separate chapters Research was conducted to validate hypotheses and to combine different approaches to each element that compounds this mosaic of information The result of this work is a combination of various complementary investigations into the same object and is a theoretical and methodological referential that establishes the Lavras do Abade case study as an original bridge to understanding many Water Wars in the modern world today Beyond the Black Stump Alan Mayne,2008 Historians have had little to say about the lands that stretch beyond the black stump These essays from around the country build inland Australia into our national history crisscrossing both the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Contributors are Lorina Barker Amanda Barry Badger Bates Peter Bishop Nici Cumpston Jean Duruz Charles Fahey Lionel Frost Heather Goodall Jenny Gregory Patricia Grimshaw Rodney Harrison Rick Hosking Darrell Lewis Alan Mayne Chrissiejoy Marshall Margaret Somerville and Richard Waterhouse International Handbook of Historical Archaeology Teresita Majewski,David Gaimster,2009-06-07 In studying the past archaeologists have focused on the material remains of our ancestors Prehistorians generally have only artifacts to study and rely on the diverse material record for their understanding of past societies and their behavior Those involved in studying historically documented cultures not only have extensive material remains but also contemporary texts images and a range of investigative technologies to enable them to build a broader and more reflexive picture of how past societies communities and individuals operated and behaved Increasingly historical archaeology refers not to a particular period place or a method but rather an approach that interrogates the tensions between artifacts and texts irrespective of context In short historical archaeology provides direct evidence for how humans have shaped the world we live in today Historical archaeology is a branch of global archaeology that has grown in the last 40 years from its North American base into an increasingly global community of archaeologists each studying their area of the world in a historical context Where historical archaeology started as part of the study of the post Columbian societies of the United States and Canada it has now expanded to interface with the post medieval archaeologies of Europe and the diverse post imperial experiences of Africa Latin America and Australasia The 36 essays in the International Handbook of Historical Archaeology have been specially commissioned from the leading researchers in their fields creating a wide ranging digest of the increasingly global field of historical archaeology The volume is divided into two sections the first reviewing the key themes issues and approaches of historical archaeology today and the second containing a series of case studies charting the development and current state of historical archaeological practice around the world This key reference work captures the energy and diversity of this global discipline today Pacific Rim Congress 87 ,1990 Newsletter - the Society for Historical Archaeology Society for Historical Archaeology,1991 Encyclopedia of Archaeology: A - D Tim Murray,2001 International Books in Print ,1987 Encyclopedia of Archaeology Tim Murray,2001-06-28 Newsletter Society for Historical Archaeology,1990
