Golden Mouth The Story Of John Chrysostom Ascetic Preacher Bishop:

Golden Mouth J. N. D. Kelly, 1998 John Chrysostom or Golden Mouth was a famous ascetic and preacher of the fourth fifth century a controversial bishop of Constantinople and a brilliant orator hence the epithet This is the first comprehensive study of him in the English language in over a century In the early chapters John Kelly highlights Chrysostom s youthful experiments with asceticism at Antioch in Syria his six years as a monk and then a recluse in the nearby mountains and his influential role as Antioch s leading preacher The central section of the book shows him as a fearlessly outspoken populist bishop of the capital Kelly focuses on his authoritarian style his interventions in political crises and his clashes with the Empress Eudoxia as well as his efforts to promote the primacy of the see of Constantinople in the east The final chapters reconstruct the plots that led to Chrysostom s downfall the drama of his trial and his exile and death Golden Mouth also provides fresh analyses of Chrysostom s principal treatises and public addresses and discussions of his views on monasticism sexuality and marriage education and suffering

Golden Mouth John Norman Davidson Kelly, 1996 Volume 4: Kierkegaard and the Patristic and Medieval Traditions Jon Stewart, 2016-12-05 This volume features articles which employ source work research to trace Kierkegaard s understanding and use of authors from the Patristic and Medieval traditions It covers an extraordinarily long period of time from Cyprian and Tertullian in the second century to Thomas Kempis in the fifteenth Despite its heterogeneity and diversity in many aspects this volume has a clear point of commonality in all its featured sources Christianity Kierkegaard s relation to the Patristic and Medieval traditions has been a rather neglected area of research in Kierkegaard studies This is somewhat surprising given the fact that the young Kierkegaard learned about the Patristic authors during his studies at the University of Copenhagen and was clearly fascinated by many aspects of their writings and the conceptions of Christian religiosity found there With regard to the medieval tradition in addition to any number of theological issues medieval mysticism medieval art the medieval church troubadour poetry and the monastic movement were all themes that exercised Kierkegaard during different periods of his life Although far from uncritical he seems at times to idolize both the Patristic tradition and the Middle Ages as contrastive terms to the corrupt and decadent modern world with its complacent Christianity While he clearly regards the specific forms of this Medieval appropriation of Christianity to be misguided he is nonetheless positively disposed toward the general understanding of it as something to be lived and realized by each individual

A Mirror for the Church David Dunn-Wilson, 2005 It might be assumed that Christian preachers have always proclaimed the same unchanging message in the same unchanging way to similarly comprised and receptive congregations But this assumption is far from accurate Throughout history the style and subject matter of sermons have repeatedly changed to meet the shifting needs of congregations molded by contemporary events A Mirror for the Church explores this dynamic as it developed in the early church In examining sermons preached during the first five centuries of church history David Dunn Wilson answers some important questions Who were the first preachers What did they preach about and what methods did they use What kinds of people made up the first congregations and how did they relate to the world around them In the process Dunn Wilson uncovers the homiletic themes that remained constant in early church history and shows how preachers and their churches adapted to waves of social change He also suggests ways in which the priorities of the early church might inform preaching and Christian practice today The Zondervan

Consolation to Stagirius Saint John Chrysostom, St John Chrysostom, 2024 John Chrysostom d 407 was first a priest in Antioch and later the short lived archbishop of Constantinople Although best known as a preacher throughout his career he also wrote a number of letters and treatises primarily to ascetic and clerical audiences The Consolation to Stagirius is one of these treatises written early in his career Over three books Chrysostom seeks to comfort his acquaintance Stagirius both for the suffering experienced at the hands of a demon manifesting in nightmares and seizures and for the melancholy he was experiencing due to estrangement with his father The sources that Chrysostom draws on for this consolation are primarily biblical narratives the lives of the scriptural saints The first book comprises mainly arguments for God's providence over Stagirius life and the lives of all the saints Stagirius is to find comfort in the fact that God directs all things including those that seem evil for the benefit of those whom he loves The second and third books are then extended narrations of the sufferings of the patriarchs and the prophets and much more briefly the apostles Stagirius is to compare his sufferings to those who went before and to learn that suffering is no indication of a lack of God's providential care This treatise thus contributes to our understanding of early Christian attitudes towards the problem of suffering and the means of God's providence in the lives of the saints
